SCIENCE INVOKED TO SOLVE BABY SHUFFLE CHARGES

Mother's Accusation of Girl Being Substituted for Boy Brings Hard Test for Experts

CLEVELAND, Sept. 16. (AP)—While a heartbroken mother lies in a hospital here tonight praying for the return of "her son," as she nurses a baby girl Judge Weigandt looks forward to conference Monday with masters of the medical profession who may aid him in solving a tangle that would test the wisdom of a Solomon.

For eight days after the birth of her child, nurses and doctors told Mrs. Sam Smith that she was the mother of a boy. She then discovered that the child she had in her arms was a girl. Hospital officials then explained that it was a clerical error. The same day Mrs. Sam Smith's baby was born two other women named Smith gave birth to boy babies.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith hold that there was a shuffle of babies and that hospital officials in some manner lost identification of their baby, giving it to another mother, while they received a girl in its place.

Nurses attending Mrs. Smith have said they erroneously told the attending physician the baby was a boy, when, in fact, it was a girl. The doctor who attended the other two Mrs. Smiths, who now nurse boys, said that he is certain his patients received the right children.

Both Smith families assert they have their own children.

Last Saturday the tangle was brought to the bar of justice in Judge Weigandt's Common Pleas Court, when Sam Smith, father of the child, instituted habeas corpus proceedings demanding that Fairview Park Hospital officials be forced to return his child "George Smith."

READY TO FIGHT

The child's father vowed today that he "will spend every penny I have to straighten out this tangle."

Meantime, the possibility that the grand jury may be called upon to sift the case, was seen today when County Prosecutor Stanton assured Charles F. McConnell, attorney for Mrs. Smith, that "the grand jury will make an exhaustive inquiry without delay if there is the least bit of evidence of perjury or hint of criminality in the case."

McConnell told the prosecutor that he is convinced of "perjury in the case."

"At least two witnesses have not only failed to tell the truth but have plainly showed that many details of the case are being covered up," McConnell said.

"The only way we can obtain every detail of this complicated situation is to bring it to the attention of the grand jury."

HOPE IN SCIENCE

Dr. John G. Spenzer, Dr. W. B. Gleindenning and half a dozen other leading blood specialists here, together with fingerprint experts and other scientific men hope to evolve a means of solving the tangle at Monday's meeting from the world's mass of scientific knowledge.

The light of science is the chief hope of Judge Weigandt. Experts here have said that blood tests, fingerprints and facial characteristics all can be used to aid in the solution and Judge Weigandt remains firm that no stone shall remain unturned in the attempt to dispel a mother's doubt as to the parentage of the child she nurses.

Decision to call the medical experts was reached at a conference between McConnell and William E. Brooks, attorney for the hospital, with Judge Weigandt today.

CHEERS FOR PERSHING

General Again Leads A.E.F.

Legion Officials, in Pajamas, Greeted by French at Cherbourg Port

Monday Declared Holiday So All of Nation May See Doughboys Parade

PARIS, Sept. 16. (AP)—Gen. Pershing and his dough boys are back in France again. Tonight the air of Paris is filled with lilting wartime tunes, "Madelon" and "Over There," and thoughts of French people have turned back to remembrances of those days of 1917 when Europe made the acquaintance of the Yank in uniform.

This time the Yank—30,000 of him, they say—is in "cits" and there isn't a man in all Europe to prevent him as he goes about the job of seeing France as a civilian.

All Paris has caught the carnival spirit that this second A.E.F. has brought and the whole country looks forward to taking a holiday Monday when American Legionnaires parade through the capital before opening their convention on soil they helped save ten short years ago.

LAND AT CHERBOURG

Gen. Pershing and 1690 of the men he commanded in the war arrived this morning at Cherbourg aboard the Leviathan, greatest of war-time transports. Other thousands landed at French ports during the night and today on other ships, and still more thousands of their buddies had reached Paris before them.

Those that had known Paris in war time when it was gay but not bright, came back to find more lights than they had any idea the city could produce. Not only were the street lights burning brightly tonight but thousands of others were strung to make a Franco-American holiday. Many of them were so arranged that they spelled the word "welcome" and everywhere in the city buildings displayed the Stars and Stripes and Tricolor and along great avenues and in the more famous squares of the capital high white posts have been placed by the government to carry additional emblems of red, white and blue.

A waning moon was shining on the waters of Cherbourg Harbor as the Leviathan steamed into the roads. It was not yet 5 a.m., but all Cherbourg was awake and ready to welcome Pershing and his men.

RECEIVED IN PAJAMAS

Before dawn French officials boarded a tender fittingly named Welcome and went out into the bay to greet the returning doughboys. They found Gen. Pershing in a dressing gown and other Legionnaires in pajamas. They gave their welcome although they had to compete with impatient passengers doubletiming it along the linoleum to an early breakfast and early gangplank.

The French cheered the Americans and the Americans cheered the French as the Legionnaires entered the port led by Gen. Pershing and Howard P. Savage, national commander of the American Legion. The French cheering was contributed by a big crowd. French navy bands played "Madelon" and "The Star Spangled Banner" and American bands sent over by Legion posts made the air merry with "Over There" and "The Marseillaise."

Through flag-draped streets and lanes of cheering people the Legionnaires went to the City Hall, where French officials welcomed them back to the soil they helped defend.

Then they entrained for the capi-

IRISH PLANE TURNS BACK

Lands Safely on Kerry Shore

Flyers, Already Far Out on Atlantic, Reluctantly Give Up Effort

Plan to be First Across Ocean Westward Ends; Termed Suicidal

DUBLIN, Sept. 16. (AP)—Faced with head winds sweeping at forty miles an hour, Capt. Robert H. MacIntosh and Commandant James C. Fitzmaurice, in the monoplane Princess Xenia, when already over the Atlantic on their projected nonstop flight to New York, were forced to turn back to Ireland. They made a safe landing six miles south of Ballybunnion, County Kerry, at 6 o'clock tonight.

The airmen, who hopped off from Baldonnel air field, Dublin, at 1:36 p.m. braving the tragic fate of recent trans-Atlantic flyers in an attempt to be the first to make the westward passage by air, were uninjured and went to a local hotel.

FOGS BLAMED

Ballybunnion is a seaside resort on the south side of the mouth of the River Shannon.

The landing of the aviators at the little seaside resort four and a half hours after they had hopped off with high hopes and cheery farewells meant failure for another East-West trans-Atlantic flight, but it was failure without loss of life.

The reluctant decision of the airmen to turn back to land and safety came after they had encountered over the sea adverse winds and a blinding fog which obstructed their course and made impossible their plan to span the ocean to New York by way of Newfoundland in about twenty-six hours without stopping.

SUICIDE EFFORT

"We and the machine are O.K.," Commandant Fitzmaurice said in an interview after making the landing at Beale strand, Ballybunnion. "The engine ran perfectly and we returned only because in the circumstances it was impossible to steer a true compass course."

The commandant said that after crossing the Aran Islands in Galway Bay the Princess Xenia encountered very rough weather and poor visibility. At 4:58 p.m. he and Capt. MacIntosh decided that it would be suicidal to proceed and swung back for the Irish coast.

The airmen emptied one gasoline tank to lighten their machine and reached County Clare about 6 o'clock. For more than half an hour they flew about thirty feet above the sea, skirting the coast in search of a suitable place to land and finally came to the Beale strand, where they landed safely.

RUTH ELDER DELAYED IN OCEAN HOP

Leaking Gasoline Tank Prevents Take-off Today; Grayson Girl to Fly Soon

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (Exclusive) Pretty 23-year-old Ruth Elder's plan to take off for Paris tomorrow in the the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane American Girl was frustrated today when mechanics at Curtiss Field, L. I., announced it probably would take until next week to complete repairs on the craft.

The postponement was forced principally by a leaking seam in one of the plane's gasoline tanks. Miss Elder pleaded with the mechanics to make utmost haste in readying her ship. She plans to take her pilot's test tomorrow in her own machine, a Waco biplane, which was brought to Curtiss Field from Wheeling, W. Va., by a friend of Capt. George Haldeman, her copilot on the proposed trans-Atlantic trip.

A second young woman—who with Miss Elder are the sole remaining flyers insisting they intend to fly to Europe this year—is going ahead with plans for her departure, but it seemed improbable she will be set to hop off in advance of the Florida beauty contest winner. She, Miss Frances W. Grayson of Forest Hills, who says her flight will be purely scientific, announced today she expects "to take off for Europe within three weeks."

After having denied last night that she is married Miss Elder confessed today that she has gone to the altar twice. She refused to discuss her brief first marriage, but admitted her second husband is Lyle Womack, now of Lakeland, Fla., and said she met him first in Balboa, Canal Zone.

The document will be filed tomorrow giving details of the division, but with the total amount of the estate not stated.

No actual sums or specific properties are enumerated in the document and the attorney said it will be a matter of several months before a detailed statement will be available.

SILENCE SHROUDS SOS CALL

Mystery Surrounds Mid-Pacific Distress Signal; Identity of Stricken Vessel in Doubt

SEATTLE, Sept. 16. (AP)—An unexplained SOS from an only partly identified vessel in mid-Pacific continues a mystery of the sea tonight.

Shortly after 5 o'clock this morning the distress signal was plainly heard by four land stations and one ship at sea. Although all communication on the North Pacific was suspended in hope of obtaining further word of the stricken vessel, nothing has since been heard.

The identity of the vessel is announced by the harbor radio here as the Yoshida Maru No. 1 of the Yamashita line. None of the other stations, however, received the name of the ship.

Position of the vessel is given as 141.42 west longitude, 47.16 nroth latitude, or approximately 970 miles west of Seattle on the San Francisco-Far East great circle.

Efforts to identify the ship were further complicated when the Yamashita company said it was virtually impossible that the vessel in distress was the Yoshida Maru No. 1. Recent reports received at the local agency of the Yamashita line place the position of the Yoshida Maru as off the Japanese Coast, hundreds of miles from the reported position of the stricken craft.

The distress signals were picked up simultaneously by the harbor radio, two naval radio stations in Alaska, a Canadian station at Estevan, B. C., an the steamship Taiyo Maru of the Nippon-Yusen-Kaisha line, plying between San Francsico and the Orient.

The trans-Pacific liner President Pierce is reported near the supposed position of the unidentified vessel. No report had been received from the Pierce early tonight.

KOENNECKE PLEDGES TO FLY TODAY

German Aviator Plans to Start Trip Eastward on Way to United States

COLOGNE (Germany) Sept. 16. (AP) The flight of Otto Koennecke to America by way of the Orient will start tomorrow, rain or shine, he announced today. By going eastward he will not take as much fuel as on a trans-Atlantic flight so that Count Solms-Laubach, who withdrew from the trans-Atlantic flight in favor of a radio operator, will be able to accompany him. A radio operator also will make the trip.

The tentative route follows that taken by the Pride of Detroit until Japan is reached. From there Koennecke intends to take a northern route across the Pacific by way of the Aleutian Islands and down the west coast of the United States to San Francisco.

Twelve Drown Near Tampico

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—Twelve members of a crew of twenty of the ocean-going tug Pinguino were drowned when the vessel sank outside Tampico Harbor this morning, according to reports received here.

The tug was engaged in towing two empty oil barges seaward when the accident occurred, further details of which were not given.

Widow Fights Aldrich Will

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—Mrs. Jeanette T. Aldrich, widow of Sherwood Aldrich, former vice-president of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, today started suit to break his will, which left the bulk of his $1,000,000 estate to his nurse, Ethel M. Ears of this city.

Old Glory Hunt Goes on in Vain

ST. JOHNS (N. F.) Sept. 16. (AP)—The Newfoundland government steamer Kyle, which is searching for the crew of the monoplane Old Glory lost while attempting a trans-Atlantic flight, reported today that she has covered a large area and found no traces of the missing flyers.

The report said the vessel is zigzagging over the course believed to have been followed by the Old Glory as it drifted after a forced landing. A large piece of the wing of the plane was picked up by the Kyle several days ago.

The Kyle has eighty tons of coal left and it is said here that the vessel will be recalled in a day or two. She is under charter to the New York Mirror, whose managing editor, Philip A. Payne, was a passenger on the plane, with J. D. Hill and Lloyd Bertaud as co-pilots.

HUNDREDS DIE WHEN SHIP SINKS

Reports Say 900 Perish in Wreck of Japanese Craft Off Kurile Islands

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 16. (AP)—Reports received here today say that 900 Japanese workingmen aboard the large Japanese steamer Wusung belonging to the Kawasaki Steamship Company, perished in the sinking of the vessel.

The reports stated that the ship which was bound from Kamchatka, Siberia for Japan, was wrecked while passing the Kurile Islands.

(There is no steamship Wusung listed in Lloyd's register, but a vessel named Woosung Maru is listed as belonging to the Kawasaki Steamship Company.)

Five Killed as Plane Crashes

VIENNA, Sept. 16. (AP)—A hydroplane carrying five noncommissioned officers crashed at Cattaro, Dalmatia, last night and the soldiers were killed, reports coming from Castelnuovo by way of Graz State.

The crash was said to be due to a defect in the motor. The crippled plane was carried shoreward and dashed against the rocks.

'WE' AVERT TRAGEDY

Children Saved by Lindbergh

Lone Eagle Zooms Into Air as Young Friends Run in Front of Plane

San Franciscans Cheer and Weep in Joyous Greeting to Flying Viking

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today saved the lives of a dozen school children and more than a score of grown-ups because the Lindbergh half of the famous partnership of "we" knew just exactly what to do and how to do it with the other half.

Just as the mechanical half of "we," which is the monoplane Spirit of St. Louis, completed a series of graceful maneuvers over Mills Airport and settled for a landing, a handful of school children broke through the fence and piled pell mell onto the landing field. Only a few thousands of the many that squared the field were close enough to see it.

The big silver bird bore down on the little group of her worshipers with amazing speed. There was a break in the surf pound of cheers that echoed for four miles down a solid line of humanity. In its place came a gasp. Then silence.

PLANE ROARS INTO AIR

A new roar spat forth. It was the roar of the monoplane's motor, spurred by the impluse of a jolt of gasoline. The plane seemed to leap in midiar and shot upward in a mighty lunging bank and away toward the San Bruno Hills. It seemed as if its landing wheels missed the children by a scant inch, but it was one of those misses as good as a mile.

Heart beats picked up where they had left off. Lindbergh circled the field and came in again.

The children were clear. Soldiers and police guarding the fences wiped sweat from their foreheads and turned to watch.

Crash. Down came a section of fence and a triangle of adult humanity, unable to restrain itself any longer, crowded out on the field.

LANDS LIGHTLY AS FEATHER

As if by instinct, Lindbergh came in higher. He had ample room this time, but the zoom was no less thrilling as he climbed once more into the sky, side slipping and banking until the new menace was cleared from the runway. Then he landed, with the easy grace of a feather floating onto a bed of down.

Four solid miles of humans acclaimed him at Mills airport, but if he thought their greeting was effusive, he changed his mind when he reached downtown San Francisco.

Market street was a literal tunnel, with a floor of ribbons, streamers and flowers, sides of humans packed like sardines and a roof of dull-gray clouds. When the ferry siren shrieked and the word rippled along the canyon: "Here he comes," arms waved where they could not move before, shameless tears coursed into mouths wide with cheers; the sun broke through the clouds and the parade moved, with "Lindy" atop the rear seat of an automobile with that seemingly wistful smile and now and then a stiff but heart-warming salute.

MEN AND WOMEN FAINT

At the Civic Center, the crush was so great that men, as well as several women, fainted from the combination of excitement, jostling and disagreeable humidity. More than fifteen women were treated at Central Emergency Hospital and uncounted others were rushed to their homes in automobiles.

It was minutes before the crowd

FLYERS PAID LAST TRIBUTE

Flowers Spread on Sea in Honor of Seven Lost Aviators in Dole Hawaii Race

STEAMSHIP MAUI AT SEA, Sept. 16. (AP)—A floating floral Bible with its message, "God bless you every one," today was placed on the calm waters of the Pacific as the last act in a service of tribute to the seven who died in the Dole flight race which started just one month ago.

The last tender message was that of the school childre nof Caro, Mich., to their young and beautiful teacher, Miss Mildred Doran, who, with smiling courage, went down to the sea with the six brave men who took flight in three planes from Oakland for Honolulu, 2400 miles distant.

TRIBUTE PAID

The liner Maui, following the course of the flyers toward Hawaii, stopped 744 miles from the Golden Gate while tribute to their courage was paid in a eulogy by Walter C. Cribbins of San Francisco, while prayers were said and a cargo of flowers was spread on the ocean which received their bodies while their spirits winged on.

A choir made up of passengers sang the hymns "Face to Face" and "Abide With Me," and after prayers and benedictions had been pronounced the passengers lowered on the waves floating floral pieces bearing messages of farewell. The entire crew joined with the passengers in the service.

CIRCLES FLOWERS

Afterward the Maui slowly circled about the flowers. The services were conducted at the place from which was received on the night of August 19 the radioed cry from the Dallas Spirit plane, "we are in a tail spin," the last message from Capt. William P. Erwin and Alvin H. Eichwaldt. Bravely they had set out from Oakland to rescue the five Dole flyers who had preceded them three days in a race to Honolulu which they never were to finish.

The five others for whom flowers were placed on the water were Miss Doran, Pilot John A. Pedlar and Navigator Vilas R. Knope of the monoplane Miss Doran, and Jack Frost and Gordon Scott of the Golden Eagle.

FRANCE HAS ARMS PLAN

Definite Program Given League

New Conception of Geneva Pact Increasing Security Feature of Proposal

Suggests Arbitration and Preparatory Committee to Study Problem

GENEVA, Sept. 16. (AP)—France today brought to the efforts looking toward disarmament a definite proposal calculated to enhance the chances of success of any future disarmament conference.

A resolution was presented to the League of Nations Assembly by M. Paul-Boncour of France intended to promote arbitration agreements for all conflicts between nations and suggesting a new conception of the Geneva protocol which would increase special security pacts. This would make the signatories' contribution to any system of penalties against an aggressor nation proportionate to their geographical situation and to the bonds uniting them to other signatories.

The resolution urging creation of a preparatory disarmament commission on which the United States would be represented, to study those guarantees of security which would permit the reduction of armaments to the lowest possible level. A final conference would be held to fix this level when nations had announced what reductions they are willing to accept. At the same time the resolution urges that the League of Nations Assembly arrange for a systematic preparation to make more effective the articles relating to security, the system of penalties against the aggressor, and disarmament.

STRESEMANN AGREEABLE

M. Paul-Boncour in an eloquent address before the Assembly's disarmament committee warned that unless the feeling of security among nations is increased a disarmament conference can prove only a cruel deception to the peoples of Europe.

Dr. Gustave Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, said Germany is quite ready to accept both the arbitration and security idea embodied in the resolution presented by M. Paul-Boncour. Dr. Stresemann added that Germany, having been disarmed herself, has the most need of security among all the nations.

The occupation of German soil nine years after the end of the World War is hardly calculated to aid the German state of mind toward the work of the League of Nations, Dr. Stresemann told an assemblage of about 200 correspondents representing the press of all nations tonight.

Nevertheless, he insisted that Germany's foreign policy is based absolutely on the underlying principles of the Locarno pacts and the League of Nations and said that the youth of Germany are not looking backward but forward to world reconstruction based on peace and co-operation.

ISSUE NOT TO BE RAISED

Answering a question by the representative of a French Nationalist newspaper, Dr. Stresemann said that Germany has no present intention of raising the question of the Rhineland occupation before the League, because he hopes and believes that the question can be regulated satisfactorily by direct negotiations between the Locarno powers.

Dr. Stresemann said it is too much to expect that the 63,000,000 German people all should have the same views, but warned his hearers against the danger of trying to interpret Germany from abroad from opinions expressed by scattered groups of Germans including what he called "the group of irresponsibles who still rant of hate and revenge," asserting that they do not at all represent the sound convictions of the German people.

Referring to Germany's decision to sign the compulsory-arbitration clause of the World Court of Justice, Dr. Stresemann expressed the hope that other big nations will follow suit and that France will not insist on the reservation which she had hitherto attached to her signature of this clause.

THREE QUESTIONS

He repudiated charges which have been made that the big powers constantly are handling political problems which really are within the domain of the League, saying that they merely had discussed questions concerning the big nations and met informally just as the Latin-American delegates met together at Geneva last year.

He declared that the three big questions confronting the League for settlement are (1) disarmament; (2) an increase in the arbitral prerogatives of the League Council, and (3) protection of the rights of minority peoples.

Finally, Dr. Stresemann hailed the present Assembly as one of the most important in the League's history because of its high morale, expressing the belief that this is weightier in the long run than solemn treaties.

The election of Canada and Cuba to nonpermanent seats in the League Council continues to provoke comment. Some of the delegates of Southern Europe today expressed the opinion that it cannot fail to please the United States because both Canada and Cuba would be naturally friendly to the United States should any problem arise affecting American interests. Another opinion from the same source is that the election of Canada in a sense weakens Great Britain's position on the Council because Britain no longer is the sole spokesman of the British Empire in that body.

Mayor Duvall Hears Charges

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 16. (AP)—Prosecuting witnesses in the trial of Mayor Duvall of Indianapolis on a charge of violating the Corrupt Practices Act today testified that the Mayor offered to sell the city market mastership for $3000, promised another man an automobile for his support and told officials of the Ku Klux Klan he would let that organization dictate 85 per cent of his appointments if his campaign was successful in 1925.

Introduction of the testimony followed a ruling by Judge Shirley that the prosecution might put witnesses on the stand to prove other similar agreements by Duvall which would show intent in the present case.

Duvall is charged with having promised to let William H. Armitage, local politician, select men for three city positions in return for $10,000 and support in the 1925 election.

Furnace Films Offered in Suit

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 16. (AP)—A motion-picture peep into the interior of smelting furnaces where the heat of 2500 deg. Fahrenheit frequently cracked the plate glass windows which protected the camera today was offered the Federal court here which is hearing the patent suit of the Carson Investment Company of San Francisco against the Phelps Dodge Corporation and the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company. The suit, one of a series involving reverberatory furnace patents, is said to involve several million dollars.

The defense attorneys offered the motion-picture films in evidence, but Judge Sawtelle reserved ruling. A "preview" of the films by the plaintiff's counsel was offered in order that they may ascertain their nature.

PROGRAM READY FOR LINDBERGH

Mayor's Committee Perfects Arrangements

Infantry Regiment Ordered Mobilized

Call Issued for Funds Contribution

Tickets still are available for the banquet to be tendered Col. Lindbergh at the Ambassador Tuesday night. Indications are that it will be one of the most notable affairs in which the general public has had an opportunity to participate. The tickets cost $10 each. Each guest will be given a bronze medallion likeness of Col. Lindbergh and a souvenir program. The seating capacity is limited and when the tickets now remaining are gone no more will be available. There will be no last-minute rearranging to accommodate those who waited too long, the committee announces. Tickets can be had at the Chamber of Commerce.

Further plans for the gigantic reception to be tendered Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his arrival here Tuesday were perfected yesterday at a meeting of the Mayor's executive committee at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

The matter of adequate policing not only for the protection of Col. Lindbergh himself, but also to prevent possible injury in the surge of the crowds at Vail Field and the Coliseum was gone into thoroughly by the general committee and the field landing committee. Inability of Mayor Cryer to attend the meeting resulted in President D. F. McGarry of the Chamber of Commerce presiding. Under-Sheriff Biscailuz presided over the landing committee meeting.

REGIMENT MOBILIZED

News dispatches from Sacramento related that Adjt.-Gen. R. E. Mittelstaedt had ordered the One Hundred Sixtieth Infantry units of the California National Guard to mobilize for use in patrol work in handling the crowds. Col. Harcourt Hervey, in command of the regiment, sent out fast mail notices to members of the regiment yesterday afternoon, giving instructions on reporting for duty. Colonel and the executive committee requested that employers having guard members in their employ give the men leave of absence for the day. About 1000 members of the regiment are expected to be used.

In addition to this force it was announced by Capt. Gifford that a large detail of Los Angeles policemen will be placed at the disposal of the committee. Fire Chief Scott will send out 300 firemen. Commander Woodbine of the Naval Reserve force will have another 100 men on the line. Sheriff Traeger will contribute 300 deputy sheriffs.

The committee reported very generous co-operation from outlying cities and towns such as Pasadena, Glendale, Culver City, and others, sending such men as they can spare to help handle the throngs.

PLANS AT FIELD

Under the plans portions of Vail Field will be set aside for parking space. A long runway, 1000 feet wide and 6000 feet long will be fenced off, in which Col. Lindbergh will land and taxi his plane to a stop before a steel cage into which the ship will be run to protect it from souvenir seekers. Although there will be room for about 100,000 persons around the fenced-off runway, the suggestion was made that far greater opportunity to see the great flyer will be afforded along the line of march and at the Coliseum where he is to make his brief talk.

It was urged that parents do not take small children to Vail Field because of the danger of being hurt in the crush.

The Board of Education is co-operating by declaring the day a school holiday and is giving instructions to the children as to where and when they shall go to see their idol at best advantage. Superintendent of Schools Dorsey requested that publicity be given the fact that Tuesday being a holiday parents must assume responsibility for the whereabouts of their children on that day.

The gates to the Coliseum will be opened to the general public at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. There will be no admission charge. The flying hero will speak from a platform out in the stadium field, his talk being carried to the assembled multitude by loud speakers, it was announced by Zack Farmer, in charge of the Coliseum arrangements. The colonel will be driven around the field slowly in an open automobile so that all can get a good view of him before he starts speaking.

The executive committee adopted a resolution requesting the Mayor to proclaim a half-holiday Tuesday and requesting business houses of the city to close at 1 p.m. so that everyone possible will have an opportunity to join in the great celebration. The same proclamation will be asked of the Board of Supervisors, affecting county business.

FUNDS REQUESTED

The committee sent out a special appeal to the public for funds to defray the cost of the general celebration, and to pay for the proposed Lindbergh Beacon to be installed on top of the new City Hall tower. The installation is to cost about $3000. The cost of the day's celebration is estimated at about $15,000, of which but a very small part has been contributed by the public thus far. The first contribution came from Cecil B. De Mille in the form of a $100 check. The committee announced that donations may be sent to the Chamber of Commerce and doners may designate whether the gift is to go to the celebration fund or to the beacon fund.

ROGERS TO ASSIST IN SAN DIEGO CELEBRATION

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 16. (Exclusive) Will Rogers will take part in the welcome-home celebration in honor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Rogers, it is planned, will be one of the principal speakers at the banquet in the Hotel Del Coronado, and will come across the bay with Lindbergh to be initiated into the Sciots at the same ceremonial with the airman.

His telegram in full:

"Mayor Harry Clark:

"Will be there. I would go anywhere to pay my little respects to Lindbergh. I would even go to Imperial Valley in the summertime. You tell those others who wired me that this is only answer I am sending. I only ask one favor of you, keep the real-estate men away from me. Best regards.

(Signed) "WILL ROGERS."

"Lindbergh's coming home" seems to be the spirit which imbues San Diegans. It was from here that the flyer started on his trip to Paris. Not only has the Merchants' Association voted to close at 1 p.m., Wednesday, but the schools are to be dismissed in ample time to allow the children to get a chance to see and hear their hero and to assist at his welcome. Following the parade Lindbergh will speak at the stadium.

CONTEST HARD ON ATLASES

Word Hunters in Lindbergh Game Swamp Libraries; Educational Benefit Praised

Attendants in public libraries and clerks in book establishments are recovering this morning from the deluge of applications for use of copies of world atlas and geographies during the past ten days in Southern California. In the reference department of the Los Angeles Times quiet reigned once more.

The cause of this unprecedented attack upon towns, cities, rivers, oceans, mountains and lakes in various parts of the globe is the Lindbergh Flight Puzzle which was inaugurated by and published in the Los Angeles Times, with cash prizes offered to the winners of the education game in honor of Col. Charles Lindbergh, who arrives in Los Angeles next Tuesday.

So great was the demand for atlases in the Los Angeles, Pasadena and Santa Monica libraries that time limits were set by library officials, so that the greatest number of persons could be accommodated.

While each mail has brought hundreds of replies from all parts of Southern California from contestants entered in the Lindbergh puzzle, letters and expressions of congratulation pour in to The Times from educators and professional men and women congratulating the Los Angeles Times on the educational value of the Lindbergh game and stressing its widespread interest and its appeal to almost every member of families in homes where The Times is delivered.

Judges for the contest were selected yesterday by The Times and as soon as the thousands of answers can be checked and scored they will be delivered to the judges for their final approval and award to the three persons having the highest score, or a correct solution, and who have conformed to the rules governing the contest.

FRENCH AGAIN CHEER YANKS

tal, the commander of the original A.E.F. and the commander of the American Legion of today with several hundred others in a special train while the remainder of the expedition occupied two boat trains.

Arriving at Paris, Gen. Pershing was greeted in the name of the government by Paul Painleve, Minister of War, whose proud duty it was ten years ago to perform the same function when the American commander first reached France to make ready for the great army that was to follow him.

The War Minister in his speech of welcome recalled this former meeting which took place June 13, 1917. "You will find everywhere," he said, "brothers in arms with whom you fought side by side as kindhearted and loving now as they were when chance made our people your hosts.

"You will realize above all that neither time nor fleeting difficulties which life almost inevitably causes to arise between two great nations can impair the recollection which we keep of those noble young men who came from overseas to die on the hills of La Meuse or in the plains of Champagne and Picardy."

HONOR DEAD TODAY

Gen. Pershing feelingly replied: "I well remember," he said, "ten years ago when my staff and I were greeted in Paris. We came then answering a call of humanity and love. We came to aid France, with whom we had been friends for 150 years. This welcome today is just as touching as that of ten years ago when we came to fight."

When the reception at the station was over Pershing and Savage accompanied by French officials, military and civil alike, drove to the Arc de Triomphe, there to stand in silent homage before the tomb of the unknown polu.

Tomorrow their first thoughts will be for the graves of American soldiers left behind when Pershing's victorious armies went back home from the war. At Suresnes Cemetery on a hill overlooking the capital, Pershing, Savage and other Legion leaders will stand tomorrow morning before rows of crosses marking the graves of 1500 American soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in France.

LEGION CHARGES AMERICA LAGS IN AIR

PARIS, Sept. 16. (AP)—The charge that the United States is the most backward of any first-class power in the development of a real air force is made in a resolution drafted by the American Legion's national committee on aeronautics for presentation to the Legion convention opening here next week.

As a remedy, the committee, headed by Gill Robb Wilson of Trentop, N. J., urges the inauguration of a separate department of national aeronautics, with Cabinet representation.

It proposes that the President appoint a board of aeronautic strategy to study establishment of such a department.

The magnificent overseas flights of Lindbergh and others are not to be taken as an indication that military aviation has advanced in the United States, the committee warns, but rather "as a criterion of what American airmen are able and ready to do when backed by interested organizations."

Development of a substantial body of pilots and the building of an air fleet capable of defending America's far-flung coast and border lines are held to be essential.

Plane Carries Mail from Ship

MONTREAL, Sept. 16. (AP)—Successfully inaugurating the transfer and transportation of mail from incoming steamers, a Canadian Mail Service hydroplane, piloted by Maj. Quigley of Three Rivers, arrived at Montreal at 4 p. m. today after a trip of six hours from Pymouski, where he took mail from the steamship Empress of Australia.

HUNDRED OPIUM TINS SEIZED ON STEAMSHIP

HONOLULU, Sept. 16. (AP)—Customs officials today seized 100 tins of opium, with a retail value estimated at $45,000, from Chinese steerage quarters on the liner President McKinley. The seizure makes a total of 766 tins of opium taken by authorities from the last four eastbound oriental liners which have touched here.

would be still long enough for Lindbergh to talk.

Eventually it did. The boy spoke, telling the massed thousands why he had come; to promote the cause of aviation.

Safe to say that half of them can't remember a word he said, but never one of them will forget his urgent voice, sending out its sincere message of good will for the future of aviation.

He stopped.

In the fraction of an instant before bedlam broke loose again, a dog-tired, dust encased little woman with three youngsters tugging at her skirt, beamed through tears at the balcony Lindbergh was leaving and cried:

"God bless that boy."

Even dame nature smiled through her frowns for the boy who dared and beat her. All morning long a low-hanging mist hung over the bay and drab clouds pushed down. Just as Col. Lindbergh reached Mills airport, the sun broke through. Just after he landed it rained. Down town the sunshine sparkled as the Lindbergh parade moved up Market street and disappeared again as he finished speaking.

That was San Francisco's welcome to the Lone Eagle.

Lindbergh flew here from Portland in seven hours and seven minutes, a distance of approximately 600 air miles. His speed was adjusted to meet the programmed arrival time here, which was 2 p.m. His official landing time, as entered in the Mills Airport log book, was 2:02 p.m. He left Portland at 6:55 a.m.

Tomorrow he goes to Oakland, where he is scheduled to land from Mills Airport at 11:30 a.m. to dedicate Bay Farm field for commercial use and unveil a memorial to Lieuts. Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger.

He leaves Oakland at 12:30 p.m. for Sacramento.

AIR TRANSPORT GIVEN SANCTION

Leading Shippers of West at Bay City Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—Recognition of air transportation as one of the great channels for the shipping of Pacific Coast products officially was sanctioned today by the Pacific Coast Transportation Advisory Board, an organization of Pacific Coast shippers, by the creation of an aero transportation committee to work in conjunction with forty-two existing committees in studying and facilitating industrial shipping. Creation of this committee was a feature of the fourteenth quarterly meeting of the organization at the Hotel Whitcomb.

Members of the committee are: P. G Spillsbury, chairman, Phoenix, Ariz.; O. S. McPherson, San Diego; Charles Baad, Los Angeles; Donald Douglas, Santa Monica; Harris Hanshue, Los Angeles; T. C. McCauley, B. F. Mahony, H. R. McClintock, George H. Prudden, and Claude Ryan, San Diego; Dr. C. E. Young, Glendale; C. Z. Sutton, Oakland; R. E. Fisher, Frank A. Flint, George R. Guy, Verne C. Gorst, C. R. Graham, W. G. Herron and F. T. Letchfield, San Francisco.

Spillsbury called attention to the fact that air transportation can no longer be ignored by shippers and packers, and predicted that the aero transportation committee will become in time one of the major committees of the board.

At the meeting were representatives of leading shippers and receivers of California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. Representatives of railways and steamship companies also were there in an advisory capacity, it being the purpose of the organization to facilitate the handling of all goods shipped from the four States by the direct contact of producers and shippers.

Reports from the forty-two committees, representing every phase of industrial shipping, were read. Representing the United States government was Wesley E. Ashe, district manager of the Department of Commerce, and Charles Hoover, local service agent of the Department of Commerce. The army was represented by Col. L. H. Bash, and the navy by Rear-Admiral C. J. Peoples.

INCREASE IN AIR DEFENSE HELD VITAL

House Military Chieftain Says Hawaii and Panama Must Have More Planes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Material strengthening of the air defense of Hawaii and the Canal Zone is held advisable by Acting Chairman James of the House Military Committee, who returned to the capital today after an extended inspection trip that included more than a score of posts there and in continental United States.

He said he is convinced the present army aviation building program should be expanded by Congress to meet a situation considerably changed by the Atlantic flights of Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd and others, and the spanning of the stretch between the Pacific Coast and Hawaii by both army and private planes.

Enlargement of Wheeler Field and the establishment of another field near Honolulu are considered necessary by the House members, who also feels that Brook Field at Panama is too small.

James said the army authorities in Hawaii agree that the most substantial and effective defense of the islands is from the air and that his investigation convinced him that the five-year program is not sufficient to provide adequate defense.

Referring to the situation at Panama, he said that "we have got to have more airplanes down there."

"The military authorities at the Canal Zone all agree that recent ocean flights have demonstrated that one or more bombing planes could put the canal out of business and that our antiaircraft guns could not prevent it," he declared.

TARIFF ANSWER DUE NEXT WEEK

Rejection of French Proposal Regarded as Certain

Observers See Possibility of Reprisal Action

Officials at Paris Hope for Further Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—The American reply to the French tariff note probably will be forwarded early next week to Paris and, although no word is forthcoming from the State Department today, it is a foregone conclusion that it will reject definitely French desires to negotiate a tariff agreement.

The French note still is withheld from publication as it has not as yet been made public by the French government itself and, in the absence of official word as to the attitude the Washington government will take, it occurs to some observers that it may be possible to impose an increase in duties on French products under the flexible provisions of the Tariff Act and then negotiate with France for a reciprocal readjustment of rates down to the French minimum rates as the limit of French negotiations on the one side, and down to the statutory rates in the United States as the limit of negotiations on the other.

Whether this method is in actual contemplation by government officials is not known.

Available figures on the commercial business interchanged with France last year show that American exports to France amounted to 5 1-2 per cent by value of the total American foreign commerce, while the French exports to the United States amounted to between 6 and 7 per cent of the total French export trade.

The total value of American exportations to France for the year reached a figure of approximately $263,000, while the corresponding French figure is $152,000,000. A very substantial portion of the American sales to France is in cotton, copper and oil while the French export to the United States is almost wholly in manufactured goods.

PARIS ANXIOUSLY AWAITING ANSWER

PARIS, Sept. 16. (AP)—The answer of the United States to the French tariff note of yesterday is awaited with some concern in the three ministries which share in the responsibility, the Foreign Office, the Ministry of Commerce and, in a less degree, the Treasury. They hope the reply will be of such a nature as to permit further negotiations.

It is fully recognized at the Foreign Office that Article 317 of the American Tariff Act arms the President with the power to increase the present duties 50 per cent as a reprisal but it is believed also at the Quai D'Orsay that there is nothing yet in the situation to justify such a measure and it is assumed a way out will be found.

PRICE DESCENT CHECKED BY JARDINE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16. (AP)—A second precipitous descent of cotton prices was checked at the end of the market today by the announcement from Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine that the department will issue no more price-trend predictions.

This announcement, together with a statement attributed to him to the effect that he considers cotton in a strong position, brought a closing rally which carried prices to levels nine to sixteen points below yesterday's close, a little over $6 below the position from which they were jostled yesterday by the department's prediction that prices will go lower.

Almost coincident with the announcement of Secretary Jardine came a joint protest by five southern commissioners of agriculture at the compilation by the department of such forecasts and an appeal that there be no more of them in the future. The protest was signed by commissioners of agriculture of Georgia, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana and North Carolina.

MARKET NERVOUS

An air of nervousness pervaded the market today and there was no definite price trend until after midsession, when the market suddenly pointed downward on the failure of Secretary Jardine to issue a statement clarifying yesterday's price prediction.

Loss of $2.50 a bale was registered before the decline was checked by the reception of reports indicating that the Secretary of Agriculture will discontinue the issuance of such predictions, coupled with an expression of opinion by the secretary that he considers cotton in a strong position, the market rallied to near yesterday's closing figures.

Belief was strong at the exchange as the session closed that the downward movement is a closed incident.

NEW YORK SLOW TO RALLY AFTER SLUMP

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—The cotton market was unsettled today, evidently as the result of yesterday's government prediction of lower prices under certain conditions, and price changes were decidedly erratic.

A steady tone had developed early in the day in sympathy with Liverpool cables and December contracts sold at 21.85 cents a pound, but the price dropped later to 21.05 cents, a loss of about $4 a bale, or about $1.50 under the lowest level of yesterday.

There were numerous rallies and breaks and a statement late in the afternoon from Secretary Jardine, expressing surprise that the market should have given way under a prediction by his department, and pointing out that the situation now is stronger than at the time of the August government prediction, had only moderate influence.

FEAR OF FOREIGN CROPS HELD BASELESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—America has nothing to fear from increased production of cotton by other countries for they can compensate only partially the extreme vagaries of the American crop, Prof. John A. Todd of Liverpool, Eng., said today in an analysis of the world cotton outlook.

The analysis, published by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, explains that despite record production last year, the elasticity of demand has been greater than anticipated and the growth of consumption has exceeded the increase in supply.

"Had there been no war the world's consumption of American cotton would by this time have exceeded 20,000,000 bales annually," Prof. Todd said, "and a few years of steady supplies would soon bring us to that figure again."

JARDINE HALTS COTTON SLUMP

Promises Price Predictions Will be Discontinued

Action Taken After Record Cabinet Conference

Secretary Refuses to Fire Employee Responsible

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Precipitating the longest Cabinet session since President Coolidge took office, the South's protest against the government report, which yesterday sent the cotton market tumbling $6.50 a bale, resulted today in an order from Secretary Jardine prohibiting future predictions of price trends by Department of Agriculture officials.

The Cabinet session, which lasted more than two hours, was followed by announcement late in the day at the White House that Mr. Coolidge regards as hazardous the predictions by government departments on the possible trend of prices.

However, it was said, the Chief Executive will leave the handling of the cotton situation to the Department of Agriculture.

DEMANDED BY STATES

In announcing the restriction placed upon the Bureau of Economics, Secretary Jardine conformed to demands from cotton producers, expressed through Senators Caraway, Arkansas; Sheppard, Texas, and Harris of Georgia, and others. All three insisted that the bureau confine itself to actual statistics and under no circumstances make conjectures as to the future trend of prices.

Senator Harris also demanded immediate discharge of the employee responsible for the cotton-price statement but it was declared at Mr. Jardine's office that no such action will be taken.

"The statement," Mr. Jardine said, "was based upon statistics representing production, world stocks, consumption and the usual relation of the prospective supply to price. It was not a special price forecast. Similar statements on the price situation for the major farm commodities have been prepared monthly for two years by the department for the aid of farmers in planning their marketing and production programs."

NOT FOR PAPERS

Simultaneously with Mr. Jardine's decision an order was broadcast forbidding future release of department news except through the agricultural press service. Heads of the economics bureau, called before the Secretary prior to the Cabinet meeting, declared the cotton statement was not intended for the press, but rather for "cotton co-operatives and other persons who would understand its meaning."

Frank discussion of indicated price trends, the department held, is of immeasurable benefit to producers, but it now is apparent, it was added, the general public is not prepared to protect itself against "persons who use the information for unfair advantage."

BORIS INCOGNITO EFFECTIVE

No One Meets Bachelor King on London Arrival; Calls Taxi to Take Him to Hotel

LONDON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Without ceremony of any kind, not even a representative of his embassy being on hand to greet him, King Boris of Bulgaria arrived from Scotland early this morning. He was accompanied by two equerries and a valet.

After a chat with the station master he entered a taxicab and was driven to a West End hotel. While in Scotland he was the guest of King George and Queen Mary at Balmoral Castle.

King Boris's taxi riding is being featured in the papers, it being recalled that when Mayor Walker of New York arrived at the same station from Ireland a New York Mayor rode to his hotel in a gilded coach with two prancing bays and a footman.

Boris is traveling incognito as Count Rilski. He paid the cabman 3 shillings 6 pence and gave him a shilling tip.

Later King Boris visited Westminster Abbey, where he placed a wreath on the tomb of Great Britain's Unknown Soldier.

Balmoral dispatches last night said Boris was expected to resume his incognito as Count Rilski for a visit to London, and that royal matchmakers were speculating as to whether he would find a wife on his present tour.

The "loneliest King" is 33 years of age, a tall, slender, dark-complexioned man, who apparently cares more for sport than for society. While the guest of Sir Alexander Kay Muir at Blair Drummord, Scotland, last week, he devoted most of his time to fishing and hunting.

Bandit Victim Tied to Rails

DAVIS (Cal.) Sept. 16. (AP)—F. W. Nieman early today had all of the thrills of a dime novel hero at the mercy of the villain when two robbers tied him to the main line of the Southern Pacific tracks at Snyder Crossing. The robbers took $8.10 and Nieman's car and left him in his precarious position.

Nieman was on his way to work when he stopped near the crossing to tighten the radiator cap. Two men stepped from behind a freight car on a siding, forced him to accompany them to the other side of the car and after robbing him, tied his hands and lashed him to the main-line track. They also gagged him.

Nieman, realizing that a train was due out of Davis about that time, worked frantically and finally slipped the bonds.

Brains and Teeth

"A man's brains 'run out' if he doesn't use them."
—Painless Parker.

And teeth decay and give constant trouble if you don't take care of them and let a good dentist help you. If your finger nails or your ears or your nose showed signs of decay, you'd run to all the doctors and buy everything in a drug store, but many people don't go near a dentist until a terrible toothache drives them in.

A lot of folks are still afraid of pain, but they needn't be if they have their teeth fixed up according to the E. R. Parker System.

MEXICO HAILS ITS BIRTHDAY

Independence for 117 Years Causes Celebration

Calles and Obregon Figure in Ceremonies

All Saloons Ordered Shut to Bar Disorders

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—After an hilariously gay night, residents here settled down today to participate in a formal celebration of the one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Mexico's independence, with services at the tombs of the country's liberators and a military parade leading the day's program.

President Calles accompanied by high military and civil officials, attended impressive patriotic ceremonies at Independence Monument at 9 o'clock this morning. While the Diplomatic Corps in full regalia looked on, the President concluded the exercises by laying a wreath on the tomb. With War Minister Amaro and other notables, Calles then reviewed from the balconies of the National Palace a parade of Mexico's well-equipped and disciplined military forces, led by Gen. Alvaro Obregon, former President of the republic.

The parade represented the country's war-time strength, as well as the military and naval academies, including artillery, infantry, cavalry, aviation, sanitary and signal corps. Airplanes circled overhead as the procession wended its way before the reviewing stand. In addition to extra police precautions, all saloons were ordered closed from noon yesterday until tomorrow to prevent disorders.

LOCAL MEXICANS HAVE ALL-DAY FIESTA

Mexican Independence Day, of which yesterday was the 117th anniversary, was celebrated by citizens of Mexican origin with an all-day fiesta at Luna Park. In the morning there was a program of patriotic speeches followed by an exhibition of ancient and modern Mexican and Spanish dancing. Prominent among the speakers were Antonia Castellano of Mexico City; A. Arfila, former Spanish Consul here, and Dr. Jose Tasnz.

The Mexican band and a stringed orchestra furnished music for dancing in the afternoon and evening.

I. Y. Perez, 11 West First street, was chairman of the committee in charge.

SAN FERNANDO SEES GALA PARADE

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—More than 1500 Mexicans from Pacoima, San Fernando and the vicinity gathered here today to celebrate the 117th anniversary of Mexico's independence. A parade of approximately 200 gaily decorated floats and automobiles led by two bands was a feature of the morning.

The festival began Thursday night at the San Fernando grammar school with a program of speeches and music. A vice-consul of Mexico was the presiding officer of the evening. Following the parade today the celebration was continued at the school. Festivities included a number of speeches and a barbecue.

COLBY SUIT FOR DIVORCE UNDER WAY

Former Secretary of State Reported to Have Begun Action Some Time Ago

PARIS, Sept. 16. (AP)—Bainbridge Colby, former American Secretary of State, filed an application for divorce in the Versailles tribunal some time ago, it was learned today from reliable legal sources.

The usual attempt at conciliation was made recently when both parties were summoned to appear before the court to try to adjust their differences.

It is reported that papers have been sent to America for personal service on Mrs. Colby. A report that could not be verified today is that former President Millerand will represent Mrs. Colby in the action.

UTILITY CONTROL HELD IN DANGER

Rail Commissioner Urges More Power

W. J. Carr Says Expenditures Should be Governed

Warns of Move for Higher Rates on New Values

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 16. (Exclusive) William J. Carr, California State railroad commissioner, in an address at the Pacific Coast Gas Association convention here today, declared that the system of regulation practiced by bodies similar to the Railroad Commission never will attain its maximum efficiency and usefulness until the existing rate-making power is augmented by the power to control both capital and operating expenditures of utilities. Only in that manner, he averred, will the public be saved from an inevitable succession of rate increases based upon new reproduction costs.

"One great barrier which must be surmounted by the system of regulation, if that system is to fully justify itself, is the control of expenditures, both operating and capital," he declared.

SEEK NEW BASIS

"But even that is by no means the most serious barrier.

"When regulation first came into use in this State it was probably true that the actual cost of the property of most utilities was higher than the cost of its reproduction now. Yet at an early date the policy was established of fixing rates to yield a return on the fair cost of the property. With the war, price levels changed. Now there is a movement, assuming considerable proportions and finding encouragement in some court decisions, to force the commission to rates which will yield a return on values greatly in excess of actual cost.

"If utilities are to receive rates based upon present-day property values it means for years to come, as to many utilities, substantially higher rates, and with this will come, all too likely, the disintegration of the system of regulation.

CONFIDENCE ENDANGERED

"The public, with some reluctance, accepted the higher rates incident to increased operating expenses during and following the war. But now, in a period when prices are declining, increases in rates are bound to impair public confidence in the system of regulation, and without a reasonable measure of public confidence no system will long endure.

"Thus far the Railroad Commission of this State has adhered to the historical cost of property as the basis of valuation and rates. If this basis is overturned, it will not take much to turn a popular distrust into affirmative action to supplant this system by some other means. Regulation is still on trial."

SECRET TUNNELS OF SULTAN USED BY TURKISH BANDITS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 16. (AP)—Discovery by thieves of a secret passage, formerly used by spies of the Sultan, leading to the Gildiz Palace, nearly cost the gambling casino there its cash reserve, the police declare. The vaults of the casino, which recently was closed by the government, are said to contain a large amount of money.

The robber band was arrested Wednesday night after a bloody fight in which two policemen and two of the gangsters were killed. At first the authorities thought they had captured a group of political plotters, but further investigation unearthed the plan to rob the vaults of the casino.

The prisoners are Turks and Armenians. Their leader, an Armenian, recently returned from America, bringing with him, it is asserted, newly acquired knowledge of bandit methods and an ample supply of automatic pistols, gas bombs and burglars' tools.

RIVER PLAN ADOPTED BY UTAH BOARD

Formula Embracing Five Points Records State's Demand in Controversy

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 16. (AP)—Adoption of a formula recording its definite position as to what Utah wants in the settlement and solution of the Colorado River problem was effected at a special meeting of the Utah Water Storage Commission late today. The formula adopted consists of the following five points:

(1.) Seven States' ratification of the Santa Fe compact.

(2.) Treaty with Mexico preserving to the United States the rights to any water of the Colorado River made available through development in the United States including equitable rights to the natural flow.

(3.) Acknowledgement that water within the State is the property of the State.

(4.) That the State of Utah is the owner of that portion of the bed of the Colorado River that lies within its borders.

(5.) Full acknowledgement that the States have the rights to demand and receive compensation for the use of their lands and waters.

While Gov. Dern of Utah was not present at today's meeting of the commissioners he was kept advised of all details, and signified that the five points adopted had his full approval.

NEW YORKER OPENS BOOM FOR HUGHES

Representative Fish Urges Nomination of Former Secretary in Speech

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—A New York boom for Charles E. Hughes as the next Republican Presidential candidate, was launched tonight by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., in a speech before the active Republican Club.

New York State will be the fighting ground in the next Presidential campaign if Gov. Al Smith is nominated on the Democratic ticket, Fish declared, admitting that it is essential that the Republicans nominate "not only the best qualified, but the candidate who has the greatest strength in the Empire State." That man, he asserted, is Charles E. Hughes. It is under him, he said, "that the prosperity and contentment of the people under the Coolidge administration can best be preserved."

Church-Member Decline Denied

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—Protestant Church membership is growing faster than the population of the United States, says a statement today from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, challenging recent figures that show a loss as misleading. Dr. H. K. Carroll, secretary of the continuation committee of the Interchurch Conference at Philadelphia, recently reported that 500,000 names were being dropped from Protestant Church rolls each year.

The twenty-five principal Protestant denominations gained from 18,762,943 to 27,466,470 in membership from 1906 to 1926, according to Federal council figures. The statement quotes this as a 46.4 per cent gain in comparison with 36.5 per cent for the nation's population for the same period.

HILL ROAD LINKED TO RAIL MOVE

Reports of Plans to Enter California Revived With New Incorporation

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—Reports that the Hill railroad interests are seeking entry into California from the Northwest via Klamath Falls, Or., and Westwood, Lassen county, are revived today with the filing of articles of incorporation of the Northern California Railroad Company with Secretary of State Frand P. Jordan.

The new company, capitalized at $1,000,000, with headquarters in San Francisco, plans the immediate construction of thirty-one miles of railroad between Crescent Mills, Plumas county, and Westwood. The line will connect with the Indian Valley Railroad at Crescent Mills and tie into the main transcontinental line of the Western Pacific at Plaxton, Plumas county.

The Northern California Railroad is a subsidiary of the Red River Lumber Company, with vast timber holdings in Lassen, Plumas and Shasta counties, and the Westwood-Crescent Mills link will give the company a new and far shorter outlet to Pacific Coast and eastern markets via the Western Pacific.

Reports have been current for some time that the Hill road had selected the Westwood-Crescent Mills and Indian Valley Railroad as an entrance into California from Klamath Falls, to which point the Hill interests now are building a road. Construction of the Westwood-Crescent Hills link by the Northern California Railroad Company will serve to bring nearer consummation this hook-up between the Hill line and the Western Pacific.

Union Men End Russia Survey

WARSAW (Poland), Sept. 16 (AP)—Sixteen representatives of American trade unions, under the leadership of James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, have arrived in Warsaw, after spending a month in Russia investigating conditions under the soviet regime.

Most of the members stated that they have arranged not to communicate their individual impressions until the official report of the delegation is published, but Mr. Maurer said:

"I am favorably impressed. After hard experiences and many shocks, Russia is recovering under the present regime, which is introducing new methods to replace the extremely backward system of the old regime.

"All statistics and figures show tremendous work accomplished, and continuous improvement. Labor never before had conditions such as obtain now. The trade unions rule the country, and everything is open to labor."

Isadora Duncan Defines Art Aim

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—When the soul completely possesses the body it converts its into a luminous moving cloud through which divinity itself can be revealed, wrote Isadora Duncan, famous dancer, in a posthumous article in the October Theater Arts Monthly. Miss Duncan was killed in an automobile accident at Nice, France, but two days ago.

The article, entitled "The Dance in Relation to Tragedy," says:

"The (ancient Greek) chorus gave to the audience the fortitude to support those moments that otherwise would have been too terrible for human endurance. This is the aim and higher object of dancing."

Miss Duncan said she always had this end in view.

House of David Abolition Asked

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.) Sept. 16. (AP)—Renewing its charge that the House of David colony is a "public nuisance" and that "immorality has been practiced in the name of religion" under the leadership of Benjamin Purnell, the State today filed a brief in the Circuit Court asking dissolution of the cult.

The brief was filed with Judge Fead, who several weeks ago heard testimony in the State's ouster proceedings. The State asks that the colony be abolished, its assets marshaled and a receiver appointed to hear claims of those entitled to share in its property.

EIGHTEEN INDICTED IN FLOGGING INQUIRY

ATTORNEY, ACCUSED OF KIDNAPING NEGRO VICTIM, FIRST TO BE ARRESTED

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Sept. 16. (AP)—Eighteen indictments in connection with floggings were returned yesterday to Judge John P. McCoy by the Jefferson county grand jury.

Lowis C. Albright, attorney, was the first arrested of those named in the indictments. He was unable to make $25,000 bond, and was held in jail charged with kidnaping in connection with the flogging of Arthur Hitt, negro. Hitt, shortly after having been whipped, sold a sixty-acre farm for a price which real estate men said was far below its value. Police said Albright is personal attorney for W. J. Worthington, who, according to court records, was the purchaser of Hitt's property.

The grand jury's report described the taking of citizens from their homes and said these citizens had been beaten and their homes burned by "marauders and self-constituted dictators."

LAWYERS HEAR OF NEW FIELDS

National Chief Speaks to California Convention

Attorneys Called Leaders in Advance of World

Hollzer Discusses Work of Judicial Council

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 16. (AP)—Asserting that never in history have the requirements for the successful practice of law been so exacting, Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president of the American Bar Association, today recounted the many new fields which require the lawyers' services now and stressed the need of continued constructive effort among members of the bar in his discussion of "Our Changing Responsibilities" before the California Bar Association convention at Hotel Del Coronado.

"Step by step with the growth and development of industry has been the increase in volume and importance of commerce and trade, with all the resultant complications and legal problems," he said, adding that in these fields efficient legal service is indispensable. He mentioned that lawyers frequently are selected as chief executives of great industries not only because of their greater knowledge of government and law, but because of minds trained and disciplined to think clearly and accurately and their ability to reason dispassionately.

Emphasizing the high standards required in law practice today, Mr Strawn asserted that the responsibility of leadership is upon the bar and its members are "expected to take the forward steps in our material as well as our cultural advancement."

Addresses at the judicial section meeting in the afternoon were made by William Finch of Sacramento, who discussed "Revision of Jurisdiction of Courts of Record;" Judge Tappan of Los Angeles on "Acceleration of Work in the Upper Courts;" Judge Strother of Fresno on "Expedition of Trial Court Work," and Harry A. Hollzer, secretary of the Judicial Council, who discussed "The Judicial Council in Operation."

Delegates devoted the evening to witnessing a presentation of "Eumenides" at the Greek Theater at theosophical headquarters on Point Loma.

The charge against Ruth was brought by Bernard Niemeyer, an interior decorator. At a hearing last week Niemeyer told of passing along Broadway near the Alamac Hotel, rendezvous of ball players, on the evening of July 4.

Two women passed him, Niemeyer said, and then a man came along. The man, whom he did not know, accused him of accosting the two women and struck him "a terrible blow in the eye." Niemeyer said he was told the man was Ruth.

The seriously injured firemen are: Jack Cocking, 50, possible fractured skull.

Clarence Butler, 57, injuries to chest and back.

Both are in the hospital.

The blaze, which broke out at 10:30 last night, still was burning today, although under control. The flames spread with lightning-like rapidity. The gutted warehouse practically adjoins a fire station.

HALE'S PARADOXICAL CHARACTER

Actor-Director in Tragi-Comedy Roles, Says De Mille; Alice White Will Play Dorothy in Anita Loos Film; First National New Story for Astor-Hughes

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It appears that Cecil B. DeMille is taking an especial interest in the newly tested talents of Alan Hale as comedian and at the same time is not sacrificing any of that actor's established values as popular character player and director. At least, this is indicated by the fact that the first picture of Hale under his new De Mille contract is to be opposite Jacqueline Logan in "The Leopard Lady."

ALAN HALE

De Mille, I learned yesterday, is grooming Hale for an entirely new type of screen character, called, for lack of a better name a tragi-comedy character, in which Hale may be said to double in brass in as much as he provides both comedy and menace to his role. Following two such characterizations, plans are being made to have Hale appear in a comedy role that will embrace, we are promised, not only the robust comedy qualities of a Wallace Beery or a George Bancroft, but also the special qualifications that he has expressed in "Vanity" and in his latest, "The Wreck of the Hesperus."

In any case Hale is going to be kept very busy during the next few months, inasmuch as his new contract calls also for services as director. It is reported that he may direct either Junior Coghlan, or himself in a forthcoming comedy vehicle.

Robert Armstrong of "Is Zat So?" fame also has a featured role in "The Leopard Lady," which Robert Julian started shooting yesterday under the supervision of Bertram Millhauser.

Role of Dorothy Cast

Anita Loos, believing that there must be a wise-cracker or two in every home to make life worth living, created that joy-giving girl, Dorothy in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Yesterday Paramount officials, after much travail of soul, managed to make up their minds on the actress to play the part. B. P. Schulberg made the announcement.

ALICE WHITE

Alice White is the actress selected for the part. This very clever girl is a First National featured player, and has been loaned by that organization to Paramount. Mr. Schulberg explained that Malcolm St. Clair put in the deciding vote for Alice, having known of her work at first hand, since St. Clair directed Constance Talmadge's latest picture, "Breakfast at Sunrise," in which Miss White has an important part.

Miss White is just now completing a role in "Helen of Troy," and will move to the Paramount lot next week to play with Ruth Taylor, Ford Sterling, Holmes Herbert, Emily Fitzroy, Trixie Friganza and the other important players.

Irene Rich's New One

The admirers of Irene Rich, of which there are hosts of both sexes, will see the Warner Brothers star in more diversified roles than she has ever before portrayed during the coming months. An announcement from Jack L. Warner yesterday bears the news that Miss Rich will be starred in "Beware of Married Men," a new type of vehicle for her.

Irene Rich

Archie L. Mayo, who has just finished "The College Widow," will direct "Beware of Married Men," which is adapted from a story by Franz Jacques.

At present Miss Rich is starring in "The Silver Slave."

Actor of Broken-Neck Fame

It appears that breaking one's neck, providing one doesn't die, is no bar to future success in life.

On the other hand, Charlie Byer is finding it a positive asset. At any rate, that accident happening to him was one of the things that attracted William Le Baron, general manager of F.B.O., to the young actor. He should be. Le Baron evidently reasoned, fit to be a perfectly bullet-proof hero of the movies. Wherefore Le Baron yesterday signed Byer, who has just arrived from New York, to play opposite Patsy Ruth Miller in "The Red Riders of Canada."

CHARLES BYER

The neck-breaking accident happened several months ago to the actor while making scenes for "The Unguarded Hour," with Milton Sills. Although his life was despaired of for six months, he fortunately recovered and now has a list of pictures to his credit. Among these are "So's Your Old Man," with W. C. Fields, and "Cabaret," with Gilda Grey.

At the time of his accident, the eyes of all the picture producers were centered upon him as among the comers in pictures. Le Baron was one of those especially interested.

Christened at Last

A sigh of relief that might have been heard away over at the rival camp of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer went up from the Cecil B. De Mille studio yesterday when it was all finally settled as to just what should be the title of William Boyd's latest picture made at West Point and directed by Donald Crisp.

WILLIAM BOYD

Not to keep you in suspense, the name is to be "Dress Parade." The title is the literary flowering of a contest held among the officers and cadets at West Point.

When Crisp was directing this story of cadet life at the national military school, no title had been decided on. Before the company returned west a contest was inaugurated to give the West Pointers the opportunity to name the production. Over 500 titles were suggested, and four contestants suggested "Dress Parade." Pathe-De Mille officials subsequently decided to give the full prize of $100 to each of the four. The winners were two cadets, Duncan Somerville and D. H. O'Connor, and two officers of the post, Maj. J. M. Craig and Maj. George S. Andrew.

New Aster-Lloyd Vehicle

That screen Pyramus and Thisbe, Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes, soon to be seen in "No Place to Go," have been assigned another vehicle by First National. This will be called "Sailors' Wives," and Bess Meredyth is writing the continuity. Warner Fabian wrote the original story.

Joseph Henabery, who directed "Lonesome Ladies" and "See You in Jail," will direct "Sailors' Wives."

Engagements

Conrad Nagel will be leading man for Dolores Costello in "Glorious Betsy," to be directed for Warner Brothers by Alan Crosland. This is the second of three pictures he will make for the concern, M.-G.-M. having loaned him for the purpose.

Alice Day will play the feminine lead in a picture for Tiffany which George Archainbaud will direct.

Ethel Wales has been cast in an important part in Franklin Pangborn's starring vehicle, "My Friend from India," being made by Cecil B. De Mille Productions.

Edna Mae Cooper will play the role of Mrs. Casely in the De Mille production of "Chicago."

Violet Palmer has returned from the East and is playing in a Tiffany picture.

Jail Term Given Man Accused by Step-daughter

Convicted of beating his 19-year-old stepdoughter because she refused to unlock the door to her bedroom on the night of August 14, last, J. S. Leviton of 2056 City View street, yesterday was sentenced to serve 180 days in the City Jail by Municipal Judge Blake on a charge of battery. Judge Blake refused to grant Leviton a new trial, but permitted him to file a stipulation for probation, which will be heard on the 30th inst.

Leviton was found guilty of the charge brought by his stepdaughter, Miss Edith Rubloff, by a jury Thursday after deliberating less than twenty minutes. Since bringing her stepfather to justice the girl has been forced to live with her brother, she told Chief Trial Deputy City Prosecutor Eberhard, who prosecuted the case. Miss Rubloff said her mother had driven her from the house and disowned her.

On the witness stand Mrs. Rose married to the defendant five years, accused her daughter to attempting to blackmail Leviton so that she might marry a boyhood sweetheart.

Former Officer Confesses Guilt

Eddie Clippinger, former Los Angeles police officer, and three co-defendants, yesterday pleaded guilty to possession of a still when their trial was called in the court of Federal Judge Henning. At the request of defense counsel, sentencing of the four men will be delayed until October 17.

The four defendants, Clippinger, Charles Fullmer, Eddie Long and George Lewis, were arrested several months ago by Prohibition Agents Garner and Vail, who discovered them, it is asserted, in the act of operating a large still in a rented mansion located in an orange grove in Whittier.

An estate worth $140,000 was left by Frank A. Weinreich, who died the 7th inst., according to a petition for letters of administration filed in Probate Court yesterday by Attorney N. O. Byers. BENNETT TO ACT MONDAY

Will Make First Move to Assist in Recovery of Millions Paid Out on Usurious Loans

The first move on the part of Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, to recover several million dollars paid out in usurious interest on pool loans that resulted in wrecking the Julian Petroleum Corporation will start following the arrival here Monday of evidence coming by air mail from New York, it was declared yesterday by Bennett's attorneys.

Although definite plans for Berman to join hands with Joseph Scott and H. L. Carnahan, receivers of the Julian organization, have not yet been completed, Attorney John F. Murphy and J. F. Donnelly, representing Berman, announced yesterday that almost all legal obstacles to their client's assisting the receivers have been cleared away.

NEW INQUIRY DENIED

According to Chief Deputy District Attorney Davis, the evidence now being returned here is composed of a large number of records shipped East by Berman shortly before his flight from the impending financial catastrophe. These records will play a major part in recovering some of the 300 per cent interest paid out to loan sharks, Berman informed the receivers and District Attorney.

A report that the District Attorney's office has started an investigation into another phase of the asserted illegal stock manipulation by S. C. Lewis was denied yesterday by Mr. Davis, who declared that the matter has not been brought to his office's attention.

At the same time S. C. Lewis, former head of the Julian Company, issued a sweeping denial that the transfer of 750,000 shares of California-Eastern Oil Company's stock to the Julian Petroleum Corporation was an underhanded manipulation.

PERMIT ISSUED

"The transfer of the stock referred to was literally in accordance with the permit issued by the State Corporation Commissioner's office," Lewis declared, "despite efforts being made to indicate that there was anything shady in the transaction."

In a lengthy letter sent to Commissioner J. M. Friedlander in which Lewis requests a meeting of the commissioner, California-Eastern company directors, and others, Lewis sets forth circumstances which he declares surrounded the transfer of the stock.

In substance, the promoter declares the 750,000 shares were transferred to the Julian Company in payment for all physical assets of the Julian Corporation, the California Eastern Company's stock to be turned over to Julian stockholders. A part of the stock, he asserts, went to pay indebtedness incurred by the Julian organization in the purchase of the Marine Refining Company.

According to Lewis, the contract between the two companies at the time of the consolidation called for the transfer of the Louisiana properties owned by the Julian company with the proviso that if the Louisiana properties were appraised at less than the book value of the California-Eastern stock, which had not been set upon by company directors at that time, that the properties could be rejected and the difference in value of the 750,000 shares could be debited against the Julian Petroleum Corporation in the final stock adjustment and deducted from the total purchase price payable in stock of the California-Eastern company for the combined assets of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, the Marine Refining Company and the Marine Corporation.

Efforts to reach members of the California-Eastern board of directors last night were unavailing.

COMPANY ARRIVES MONDAY

"Chic" Sale and his 150 co-workers, singers, dancers, comedians, models, mechanics and servants are due to arrive on a special train of five baggage cars and six Pullmans, from Salt Lake City early Monday morning. Twelve or thirteen hours later the curtain will ascend on "Gay Paree" at the Biltmore Theater.

For several days an advance crew has been busy on the Biltmore stage preparing various mechanical contrivances for the reception of the several elaborate tableaux and spectacular effects. In order that the full Winter Garden production may be presented on tour it is necessary to maintain several of the more cumbersome scenes and effects in duplicate, one always being in course of erection while the other is in operation.

There are over forty different and distinct scenes in "Gay Paree." Many of the tableaux are direct importations from Paris and produced with due regard for both the daring and beauty so typical of French revues.

The company includes such well-known entertainers as Charles "Chic" Sale, Rita Gould, Douglas Leavitt, Frank Gaby, Alice Boulden, Ben Holmes, Jennie Beach, Lorraine Weimer, Eric Titus, Esther Sterling, Kelo Brothers, Paul Davin, Ruth Lockwood, Irene Cornell, Grace Candee and William Montgomery, besides sixty-nine figurantes who are distinguished by the celerity of their activities and their comeliness.

Homespun Folks Are Happy

Junior Coghlan and Rudolph Schildkraut

Find the silver lining in "The Country Doctor," a story of rural New England whose celluloid translation is being unwound at the Uptown Theater.

"COUNTRY DOCTOR" ARRIVES

A fairly satisfying program picture is "The Country Doctor," which made its appearance on the Uptown screen yesterday afternoon; but the true saga of the rural physician is still to be told. The cast is composed mostly of tried-and-true "names" which have graced many an excellent photoplay, yet in several instances there is a display of camera consciousness which is as disillusioning as it is unexpected. Uneven acting plus faulty cutting and a lethargic tempo go much to injure "The Country Doctor," but in at least three scenes it rises superior to its handicaps and becomes genuinely moving.

The picture opens with a brief and effective review of events in the daily life of one of those unsung heroes for whom it is named; but when it gets down to the specific case of Dr. Amos Rinker and his family trade, an insincere note that will not be silenced strikes in disorderly. It is something which prevents the pictured story from getting a real grip on the emotions except in those scenes wherein Dr. Rinker adopts the little orphan, Sard Jones; again when he learns that he has not been appointed head of the Harding Memorial Hospital, an honor which he had fondly expected to receive; and yet again when his bitterest enemy, Ira Harding, relents.

Rudolph Schildkraut, as Dr. Rinker, is splendid when one forgets that he is acting. The same stage technique which serves him in such good stead in some sequences stands in his way in others. Sam DeGrasse is the stern and domineering Ira Harding, who rules the little New England town where the action is laid; and in his big scene he is superb. Jane Keckley contributes a worthy performance as his sister Abbie. Junior Coghlan is good as the boy, but in places he strives too hard for effect. Romantic interest is supplied by Frank Marion and Virginia Bradford; but their love scenes, intended to be of exquisite delicacy, are only stilted and unconvincing. It takes a Griffith or a Borzage to capture something of the fluttering of young hearts without making them appear just a little bit silly.

In smaller roles are seen Gladys Brockwell as Myra Jones, a tragic figure too sketchily drawn; and Ethel Wales and Louis Natheaux.

Photographically the film is often magnificent, the work of a craftsman. Peverell Marley, who turned the crank on "The King of Kings," served in a similar capacity for "The Country Doctor." There is a shot of a collie alone in a disordered room which stands out in retrospect, and some beautifully toned snow scenes.

Bertram Millhauser supervised the production for De Mille pictures, and direction was in the hands of Rupert Julian. The script was by Beulah Marie Dix.

The Three Black Aces are the high spot of the Fanchon and Marco Varieties on the Uptown stage this week. Dave Good has left his Revelers in the command of Hobart Kennedy, pending the arrival of Gene Morgan next week. The orchestra undertakes the playing of excerpts from Rhapsody in Blue—which is unwise and extremely disconcerting to the pianist and at least one auditor.

Animals Act as Aids to Human Cast

In Cedar City, Utah, Albert Rogell is directing "The Shepherd of the Hills" with a veritable zoo of trained animals in addition to his featured cast of humans headed by Alec Francis, Molly O'Day and John Boles. In the Harold Bell Wright picturization Rogell has Benny, the deer; Sweetheart, the sometimes tame bear; Roger, the stone marten, one of two in the country; Felix, a raccoon, 7500 head of sheep; Shep, the sheep dog; Pfui, the trained and tame polecat, who has been cut from the cast, but who awaits transportation homeward, and Nuts, the squirrel which little Maurice Murphy has as his constant companion.

Rogell yesterday shipped Charles H. Rogers, his producer, eight reels of rushes, shot with panchromatic stock on Inspiration Point, nearly 12,000 feet high. Marian Douglas has arrived back in Hollywood, having completed her work in "The Shepherd of the Hills."

EPOCHAL FILM, "BEN HUR," SEEN AGAIN

The picture, "Ben Hur," one of the most glorious and colossal of screen achievements, arrived at the Million Dollar Theater yesterday for its first downtown showing.

It is difficult to find adjectives to describe the extent of the beauty, the richness, the power of this film. It is at once a thing of rare loveliness, of dazzling magnificance, of stirring conflict. It is one of those films, which to be appreciated to the fullest extent, must be seen more than the once, and there are, no doubt, many of those who witnessed it on the occasion of its premiere here more than a year ago, who will find delight in viewing it again.

The story is that of Ben Hur from the novel of the same name by Gen. Lew Wallace and its scenes are laid in the days of the Christ. The picture was directed by Fred Niblo and a large part of it was made abroad.

Known as one of the greatest spectacles of motion-picture history, the film encompasses a wide scope. It is a picture of contrasts. There are moments of rare spirituality, and again there is clashing, tumultuous action.

The scenes dealing with the life of the Christ have been treated with infinite delicacy and a rare sense of discrimination. They are truly beautiful.

The chariot race when Ben Hur races, almost to the death, his Roman enemy, Messala, is one of the epochal moments of the film, carrying with it a breathlessness, a furiousness, a roaring clash comparable to only a few of the great climaxes of motion pictures.

Ramon Novarro is seen in Ben Hur, Francis X. Bushman is Messala, the Roman rival, May McAvoy plays the part of Esther, while among some of the other members of the cast are claire McDowell, Kathleen Key, Carmel Meyers, Mitchell Lewis, Frank Currier and Betty Bronson.

ORGANIST RETURNS AFTER LONG TRIP

Phil Braseth, organist of the Rialto Theater, returned yesterday to the console of the Rialto Theater. Braseth has been on a nine-weeks trip through the East, visiting the leading motion-picture theaters in New York and the other large cities, gathering ideas on motion-picture music. He visited many of the country's leading organists and on several occasions acted as guest organist.

Braseth states that he will bring several new innovations to the Rialto, from time to time.

"Beau Geste," the Paramount feature of the French Foreign Legion, is now playing at the theater. Ronald Colman, Neil Hamilton and Ralph Forbes are featured. Herbert Brenon directed.

Music Chosen is Detailed

Jan Rubini, conductor of the Little Symphony Orchestra at the Criterion Theater, whose scoring efforts for many of the past year's most successful films has brought him before the attention of music-loving picture fans, seems to have outdone any of his previous efforts in the musical score which he has arranged for "Camille."

That his efforts have not been in vain was commented upon by Norma Talmadge, star of the picture, who, after attending the premier showing, expressed her appreciation to Rubini.

Prominent among the many selections used in the score by Rubini are "The Fall of a Nation," by Victor Herbert; Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," the greater part of the Fifth Symphony by Tchaikowsky, a love theme by Charles Wakefield Cadman, "Trees" by Raschbach and the opera music from "La Traviata."

Boulevard Has "Stolen Bride"

Winston Miller, brother of the popular Patsy Ruth Miller, plays a prominent role in support of Billie Dove in "The Stolen Bride," which opens tomorrow at the West Coast Boulevard Theater for a three-day engagement. He has been playing occasional screen roles for the past several seasons, but plans to enter college next year.

On the stage in conjunction with the showing of "The Stolen Bride," will be West Coast Varieties, staged by Fanchon and Marco, featuring Arthur "Pat" West and his Musical Middies.

LONG TACK SAM WILL BE AT HILLSTREET

Long Tack Sam and his troupe of Chinese wonder workers will head the Hillstreet bill next week when they will be seen in oriental feats. Ni-Na and Nee Sa Long, Long Tack's two beautiful daughters, are featured in the offering.

Frank Davis and Della Darnell are also appearing in their new act called "Auto Row."

Eddie Cole and George Snyder bring "The Directors" to the bill. Frank and Teddy Sabini are featured in their new act called "I Quit," a novelty with a new angle.

Later and Later will offer a series of acrobatic feats. Manning and Wilson release some songs and stories.

"Lightning," will be the screen fare.

DIRECTOR'S LOCALES COVER WORLD POINTS

Paul Sloane's production for De Mille studios are presenting the director with a stay-at-home tour of the world.

"Corporal Kate," made by Sloane a few months ago, was laid on the battlefields of France. Immediately followinge that production, Sloane made "Turkish Delight," with a Constantinople (Turkey) setting.

"The Blue Danube," Sloane's newest and his most auspicious production, is a story woven about the blue Danube River in Austria.

Play Rated as Hit Successor

"The Home Towners" is now looked on as one of Hollywood's most successful comedies, according to the numerous critics who witnessed the George M. Cohan hit when it opened at the Hollywood Playhouse Monday. The first-night audience voiced their opinion of the play with laughter.

The Hollywood Playhouse has been under a successful guiding star since it opened almost a year ago, for every play which the management has selected for production has proved a hit with theater-goers. The successful combination has apparently continued for "The Home Towners." Critics believe it will equal in length of run the other comedies which have played there.

Frances Underwood, who played in "Alias the Deacon," the opening play at the Hollywood Playhouse, is enacting the leading feminine role in the present comedy. Robert McWade, creator of the role of P. H. Bancroft in the original company, is now doing the same part here. Phil Read, Landers Stevens and others are in the supporting cast.

Tomorrow Will Bring Premiere

"Hell's Bells" will open Sunday matinee at the Morosco Theater. The Author, Barry Conners, has written such successes as "Applesauce" and "The Patsy." This will be the first time that "Hell's Bells" has been presented before theatergoers in Los Angeles.

"Hell's Bells" is described as a comedy of robust American humor with a great deal of suspense and action.

James Burton, director of the Morosco theater cast, is working overtime in order to have "Hell's Bells" ready for its initial performance.

John Litel and Kay Hammond will be supported by Jane Morgan, James Bush, Mitchell Harris, V. Talbot Henderson, Ruth Handforth, May McCabe, Dorothy Shannon, Harry Garrity and Frederick Pymm.

An elaborate ceremony is being arranged for the unveiling of the symbolic figure of the last emperor of the Aztecs, which has just been completed by Francisco Cornejo, and is to be placed on the mezzanine of the Mayan Theater, to be known as Emperors' Hall.

Dolores Del Rio, upon her arrival from Utah, where she is on location, will be guest of honor at a performance of Elsie Janis in "Oh, Kay!" and, with dignitaries of the Mexican government, will take part in the ceremonies incident to the unveiling of the painting.

Special Indian music and dances will be part of the event and the best poem in honor of the king, selected from a literary contest now in progress, will be read.

TENTATIVE

"Make Them Happy" may be the title for the next Wesley Ruggles production for Universal starring Laura La Plante. "Finders Keepers," is the present title, but it will be changed.

RECORD FOR THEATER IS SHATTERED

Metropolitan Grosses for Jolson Reach $57,286.40 in Week

Personal appearances on the stage of Al Jolson during the week for the last show at the Metropolitan grossed the sum of $57,286.40. The total attendance for that week was 90,000 people. This breaks all house records at the Metropolitan Theater by $12,000.

Announcement to the foregoing effect was made yesterday by Frank L. Newman, managing director of the Metropolitan. Jolson appeared at thirty-four shows. His weekly contract, by which he received $17,500, called for his appearing at thirty-one shows. Jolson voluntarily and without cost appeared at three more shows than the contract called for, in order to take care of the crowds.

Jolson told Newman that his appearances at the Metropolitan proved a revelation to him. Never before, he said, had he faced such enthusiastic audiences.

Newman pointed out yesterday that the appearances of Jolson were only the forerunners to those of performers of world note on the stage of the Metropolitan. One outstanding feature next week, he said, will be Rube Wolf conducting a symphonic orchestra of seventy-five pieces.

Many Features to Mark Last of Ceremonies

The most elaborate of the week's program of the Indian ceremonials and musical pageants will take place at the Hollywood Bowl this evening, when the final performance will be given.

Nine of the Wampas baby stars will be officially adopted as honorary squaws by the Taos Indians. The ceremony will take place on the stage during the first act. The invitation to become a member of the Indian tribe was extended by Chief Pablo Abeita in conjunction with Mike Kirk, who is staging the primitive division of the ceremonials, and who brought the Indians here from their reservations to participate in the affair. A wedding ceremonial with the principals appearing in full native regalia will be one of the features of tonight's festivities, the first time one has ever been given outside the reservation in New Mexico.

School children will be taught how to use the bow and arrow in true Indian style this afternoon when they are the guests of the Indians in their village at the rear of the Bowl stage. The Indians will be hosts to the children from 1 o'clock to 2:15.

After the Indian "at home" a special matinee for children and their parents will be held at 2:30.

Princess Talanina, a Cherokee soprano, will sing a solo at tonight's performance, in addition to her duet with Towlache, which was composed especially for the ceremonials by Charles Wakefield Cadman.

Unusual Theme is Given Play

Much interest attaches to the Los Angeles premiere on October 3 of Ruth Chatterton in John Colton's new play, "The Devil's Plum Tree," based upon a Magyar drama, "Milgam Begovic," with Croatia in the fifteenth century as the locale.

The drama is in three acts, and is presented by Homer Curran in association with Belasco, Butler and Davis at the Belasco Theater. It follows Taylor Holmes in "The Great Necker," which closes its phenomenal run of seventeen weeks the night of October 2.

"The Devil's Plum Tree" relates the efforts of an orthodox Greek Catholic priest to save the soul of Mara, daughter of a provincial Councilman of a village in the Croatian mountains, from the defilement imminent as a result of her infatuation for a gypsy outlaw, and is said to be more thrilling than Colton's two previous outstanding successes, "Rain" and "The Shanghai Gesture."

Miss Chatterton, of course, plays Mara; Kenneth Thompson, the priest; Ed Leiter, the outlaw; Ivis Goulding, the younger sister of Mara. Others in the cast are Charles Quartermaine, Mary Forbes and Montague Shaw.

Three Acts to Headline Bill

The Orpheum's fortieth anniversary will be extensively celebrated Sunday matinee when it presents three outstanding attractions surrounded by an unusual array of performers.

Beatrice Lillie, the first of the trio of satellites, will headline the new bill for a second week, offering a new repertoire of "After Dinner Music." Ned Wayburn's "Buds of 1927," an unusually lavish dance production staged by the famous Follies stage director himself, and bringing a score of beautiful and talented girls with a background of special music, lyrics, settings and costumes, will be another of the unusual offerings. And another presentation will be that of Sarah Padden, returning to the stage after a year's sojourn in motion pictures in "Souvenirs" by A. H. Gilbert.

Other acts on the new bill will be "The Monologist," by Edwin Burke; Deire Dennie O'Neill and Charles Vermont, and the Luster Brothers.

LONG RUNS RECALLED BY CURRENT SUCCESS

"GREAT NECKER" IS FOURTH ON LIST; RECORD IS "WHITE COLLARS"

"The Great Necker," Elmer Harris's comedy starring Taylor Holmes, has joined the immortals of Los Angeles as one of the longest running plays.

That Los Angeles is a city of long runs is shown by the records achieved by the salient dramas and musical comedies played here in recent years.

The longest run for a dramatic show was made by "White Collars," which had entered its third year when it went to the warehouse. "Abie's Irish Rose" played thirty-eight weeks and returned for eight more weeks. "Civilian Clothes," which was staged by Fred J. Butler, who staged "The Great Necker," ran thirty-five weeks at the Morosco. "Alias the Deacon" played twenty-two weeks at the Hollywood Playhouse. "Is Zat So" played eleven weeks at the Belasco.

Joshua Little ON PADDED CELLS

A MAGAZINE article says padded cells are going out of fashion in institutions for the cracked. Yet I notice crazy people dashing about in them as never before.

None of those folks know they are crazy—but crazy people never do. And it would be easy to prove it on them.

Yesterday I saw two idiots in a coupe-model padded cell smash squarely into four maniacs in a seven-passenger rolling ward. None of them knew they were crazy, yet they were out "taking the air" in closed cars. Those in each party plainly could see, too, that those in the other party were hopeless imbeciles.

There are four general classes of woozies—the feeble-minded, or practically harmless; the lunatics, some of whom are affected by every new moon and more by every new girl; the maniac, who is extremely dangerous, and the p. d. fool, who is invariably deadly. You can always pick out the latter, and eliminate him, by giving him a 1-to-100 chance to beat a locomotive to a grade crossing. And he ought to be picked out by force if necessary.

Yes, Palomine, we still have many uses for the padded cell in this progressive world; but what we need is a transfer which will switch all the p. d. fools from the high-powered kind to the stationary kind.

"I'M SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD"---TEX SINGS

CHICAGO, Sept. 16. (AP)—Two hours before dinnertime this evening Tex Rickard finally got a chance to eat a bite of lunch. It was that sort of a day at headquarters of the Tunney-Dempsey championship fight promotion where the final touches are being put to all arrangements for the battle of the $3,000,000. "One of the greatest days yet for ticket sales," said the always-placid Rickard. "Yes, I'd say that all indications now point to a complete sell-out."

The downtown box office had two windows open and both were busy all day handing out the $5 to $25 tickets of which something like $800,000 worth remained on hand yesterday. Incidentally, it was figured that every one of the valuable pasteboards disposed of between now and the time Jack and Gene climb through the ropes in the Soldier Field Stadium next Thursday night will be just that much profit for Rickard. When the sale reached $2,200,000 Rickard was assured of enough money to meet Tunney's guarantee of $1,000,000; Dempsey's $450,000 assurance, the $100,000 Soldier Field rental, the government's 10 per cent tax, another 10 per cent for the State, and several odd thousands for construction, advertising, printing and other incidental expenses.

Lloyd Thomas Pulls in from Chicago Visit

BY BRAVEN DYER

Trojan football fans who have been wondering where Capt. Morley Drury will play this fall need not worry about the matter any more. The U.S.C. skipper appeared in the quarterback berth during yesterday's double practice and Coach Howard Jones stated that he'll remain there for some time to come.

This development, along with the first scrimmage of the Trojan season, was the highlight of yesterday's workouts at Bovard Field. Lloyd Thomas, outside halfback last fall, blew in from Chicago where he has been visiting his brother. Thomas worked with the first string last night and inasmuch as he got most of the new plays in spring practice he'll probably be back in his old berth 'ere long.

LLOYD THOMAS

VERSATILE PLAYER

Drury's installation at quarterback is no surprise. Jones has said from time to time that he would use Morley as a safety man and in addition would have him call signals during some of the games. Being a smart and versatile player it is reasonable that he should be used where he can

Eye Specialist Called in to Treat Gene

LAKE VILLA (Ill.) Sept. 16. (AP)—An eye specialist was called from Chicago tonight to start treatment of Gene Tunney's right eye, which looked inflamed and troublesome after his workout ended today. It was over this eye that Chuck Wiggins opened the cut last week, and today Jackie Williams poked his thumb into the optic.

Tunney wore a heavy protective covering over the old cut while he boxed today, and it appeared to cause him no trouble, but his trainers think it best to take extra precautions to have the eye treated by a specialist to make sure that it will not bother him next Thursday night, when he meets Jack Dempsey.

Jack Shows Great Speed in Workout; ex-Champ's Legs in Shape

LINCOLN FIELDS (Ill.) Sept. 16. (AP)—Having shown the boxing experts some heavy punching, Jack Dempsey demonstrated to them tonight some dazzling speed, to prove that both his mitts and his legs are in fighting condition.

JACK DEMPSEY

Jack boxed three rounds tonight under the arc lights before about fifty newspaper men and 250 others, who climbed the fences in the darkness. He worked for speed alone tonight, speed and defense with none of the murderous punching for which he is famous.

The former world's heavyweight champion opened up the first round with Roy Williams, Chicago negro middleweight. The second round was

COURT CLASSIC DECIDED TODAY

"Little Bill" Johnston Puts Up Great Battle

Forces French Ace to Limit in Speedy Match

"Big Bill" Downs Hunter in Drawn-out Tilt

BY FRED G. VASBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Sept. 16. (AP)—Fighting a furious but futile battle against a relentless machine man of tennis, America's famous "Little Bill" Johnston went down in glorious defeat today before the great Rene La Coste of France.

BILL TILDEN

The gallant Californian fell in the semifinal round of the national turf court championship tournament, leaving only William T. Tilden II to block La Coste's path to his second United States title in two years.

Qualifying for the task at which his partner of many a hard-fought Davis Cup battle failed, Tilden today defeated Francis T. Hunter, his doubles partner, at 14-12, 6-1, 4-6, 9-7, with only about half-speed required. La Coste's victory in the other semifinal was achieved at 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

In carrying the battle constantly to an opponent ten years his junior, Little Bill place chief reliance on the famous forehand drive that burned the grass and beat the world in other days. He lost because the years had robbed the sweeping right hand of a tiny bit of its steadiness, strength and cunning.

As it was he made a much better showing than at Germantown in the Davis Cup matches last week, when La Coste downed him in straight sets. In the second set today the Johnston drive lacked little of its old-time power and he won it at 6-2 before the strain began to tell. It was only the second La Coste had lost in the tournament. Manuel Alonso took one from him yesterday.

One of the longest sets ever played in a championship here kept Tilden and Hunter deadlocked more than an hour at the beginning of their match. After sixty-three minutes in

GRID BUG BITES BRUINS

U.C.L.A. in Great Shape to Wage Title Battle; Open Against Santa Barbara Week from Today

Generally conceded to have more than an even chance to win their first, and incidentally last, Southern California Conference football championship, Coach Bill Spaulding's Bruins have been badly smitten by the grid bug. The U.C.L.A. athletes started scrimmaging the first day, and have been hitting a hot pace with workouts morning and afternoon.

The Bruins are working up an appetite for the Santa Barbara State game next Saturday which will open their season. Fresno State comes on the following week, and then Whittier, Bruin nemesis.

Bill Spaulding

Coach Dud De Groot's Channel City team should be an improvement over last year when the Bruins won a 25-to-0 tilt. Fresno State usually has a fairly tough team, being a member of the Far Western Conference. Between the two games, Spaulding should get a line on his best combination to shove against the Poets.

Johnny McCoy Trims Davies at Hollywood

Johnny McCoy, veteran Cleveland flyweight, who is being handled by "Windy" Windsor, once more upset the dope in the Hollywood Legion Stadium tournament which is being run off to find a successor for Fidel La Barba's vacated title, by defeating Willie Davies after ten rounds last night.

McCoy, using a right hand to the head that several times threatened to bounce Davies on the canvas, carried off five rounds, the Pennsylvania flyweight took three, and the remaining two were even. Ernie Clark was the third man in the ring.

Last night's win made two in a row in the tournament for McCoy, who previously won from Britt Gorman, Minneapolis flyweight, but his style of fighting in the two bouts were widely different. Against Gorman Johnny used a rapier-like left hand, but tonight McCoy almost exclusively used his right. Windsor probably

DICK MOUDY HURLS SEALS TO 3-1 WIN OVER SHEIKS

BY BOB RAY

Dick Moudy, who probably picked up a tendency toward wildness while he was a gob in the Navy, refused to lose the location of the plate for any protracted periods yesterday, and succeeded in hurling the San Francisco Seals to a 3-to-1 victory over Oscar Vitt's skidding Stars from Hollywood.

Frank O'Doul

Moudy, who is like the little girl with the curl, was very, very good yesterday, and if that wasn't enough, he was given excellent support by Lorey Baker, the Seals' young shortstop, and Umpire Green, a newcomer in Coast loop arbiting ranks. Baker started a couple of double plays that ruined Hollywood rallies, while Green helped Moudy's cause along by contributing a couple of decisions that didn't do the Stars any good.

"Arizona Bill" Murphy, who toiled on the mound for the Vittmen, pitched a good brand of ball, but it was the big bats of Lefty O'Doul and Snead Jolley, who acted as catcher yesterday, that cause dhis downfall. O'Doul and Jolley got six of the nine hits off Murphy, each of them clicking out two singles and a double, to figure largely in the San Francisco scoring.

The Seals got to Murphy for two runs in the fourth, which Donovan opened by doubling to left. O'Doul smashed a hit to center that scored Donovan. Frederick made a neat catch of Suhr's line drive, but Jolley punched a hit through short on a hit-and-run play and O'Doul rambled to

OXY GRIDS WORK HARD

Coaches Albert A. Exendine and Bill Anderson and some fifty candidates for positions on the 1927 Occidental College gridiron team spent a strenuous afternoon at Patterson Field yesterday in the second official workout of the season.

Tackling and running occupied the time of the backfield and the majority of the line candidates, while the ends were drilled in passing and receiving passes.

Exendine is making rapid progress in determining his Tiger varsity which will oppose the Thundering Herd of Troy next Saturday at the Coliseum. Already the Tiger mentor has his charges divided into two teams and has practically ascertained a first-string combination, or at least is trying such a combination out in a manner of a trial.

ALBERT'A' EXENDINE

Big Al Kilen seems to have the edge on Walter Coultas for the center berth, inasmuch as weight is concerned, for sure. For ends Exendine had Milo Weddington, letterman, and Alan De Hoag, star of last year's frosh, on the line along with Phil Cuthbert at tackle and Ted Ellsworth as a working mate, and Ed Beebe and Milton Nash as guards. The backfield found Capt. Brobst at quarter, Glenn Rozelle and Ward Schweizer at halves, with Mike Fusco as fullback. This was the eleven that drilled under Exendine yesterday for a goodly part of the afternoon.

The other squads found Coultas at the pivot position, Harris Hitch

RABBIT PUNCHES

ABOARD THE CHIEF, EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO, SOMEWHERE BETWEEN DODGE CITY AND NEWTON (Kan.) Sept. 16.—A great discovery has just been made that there are a lot of athletes on this train who might make Charley Paddock blush with envy if they cared to expose themselves in track panties and spikes. Having observed a race on the depot platform at Dodge City between Mike Lyman, the big cafe man of Los Angeles; Douglas McLean, the well-known nemo of the films, and Chuck Ward, the peewee golfer with the piano legs, I can state truthfully that these gents were probably heaven's greatest gift to the ranks of unsung heroes.

Mr. McLean appeared quite unexpectedly and it is said that he is deploying on Chicago and later New York entirely without the knowledge of the good citizenries of those two nice little towns. But after successfully avoiding detection for two nights and a day and a half out of Los Angeles, Mr. McLean popped up in time to swing the train's balance of power in favor of Mr. Jack Dempsey, one of the young millionaires who is scheduled to do battle with another potential millionaire, Mr. Gene Joseph Tunney at Chicago next Thursday night.

Mr. McLean has no particular reason for expecting Mr. Dempsey to win other than that he

TUNNEY HANDS REAL LACING TO WIGGINS IN FREE-FOR-ALL

TUNNEY'S TRAINING CAMP (Lake Villa) Sept. 16. (AP)—Rough, two-fisted maulers piled into Gene Tunney today and turned the prelim workout of the champion into something akin to a free-for-all brawl. For the first time since Tunney entered serious training for the title spectacle in Soldiers' Field next Thursday night, he was forced to fight against the type of milling Jack Dempsey will offer. The result was thrilling to the crowd.

GENE TUNNEY

No hint of what was ahead came to the 1500 fans grouped about the arena when Gene opened the day's work with two fast rounds at the light bag and another lackadaisical pair on the heavy sack.

Jack Williams, an ambitious youngster from Chicago, lulled Tunney into security with a feeble attack in the first of three two-round boxing sessions. Tunney was keen, smiling, confident, in complete command of the situation every moment.

Then came Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis, the slugging heavyweight who opened an inch cut over Tunney's right eye several days ago. Primed to give Gene the type of battle he must expect against Dempsey, Chuck sailed straight into the champion, held nothing back, and the battle of the day was on.

Sweeping left hooks and overhand rights crashed into Gene's head and body. Just as fast as the champion

IT'S THE MAILMAN, GENE

CHICAGO, Sept. 16. (AP)—Gene Tunney is still unaware, legally, that Thomas M. McHale of New York has sued the heavyweight champion for $15,000, a year's salary as "social secretary."

Sheriff Graydon of Cook county (Chicago) today instructed his deputy to write Tunney a "nice, diplomatic letter," inviting him to come from his Cedar Crest camp in Lake county, into Cook county and be served with the summons.

"There is some talk that I'll try to serve Tunney just before the fight," said the Sheriff. "But I don't want to annoy him. I think when he gets my letter he will come."

De Forest Claims Dempsey Can Have No Excuse if He Loses to Tunney in Chicago

JACK IN GREAT SHAPE FOR BOUT

Former Heavy King All Set for Big Battle

Ex-Champ Expected to Put Up Bitter Fight

Both Boxers Appear in Good Condition on Surface

BY JIMMY DE FOREST

(Famous conditioner of boxers, and Jack Dempsey's former trainer)

(Copyright, 1927, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Jack Dempsey has whipped himself into the same fine condition he reached when he trained for Jack Sharkey a few months ago.

He once more looks trim and fine, and appears to have snap and vigor. He looks as if he ought to be able to put up a better fight against Tunney than against Sharkey, and a better battle by far than the one he showed against Tunney when they met before.

Certainly the ex-champion can have no such excuse as that he left his fight in his training quarters if he is beaten again by Tunney, for Jack has done everything possible to save his energy and strength for the contest.

He has done a little too much of that, in my opinion, in spite of the various "secret" sessions of sparring he has indulged in.

In nearly all his sparring, Dempsey has been rather sad-looking until he let loose one or two of his heavy socks on his sparring partners—socks that hurt them and made them curl up or slow up.

One day last week when Dempsey was in Chicago for a conference with Tex Rickard, I had a long talk with him. His face was swollen, and his mouth cut.

"Why do you let these fellows hit you, Jack?" I asked. "You know none of them has a license to lay a glove on you if you're trying at all. Are you afraid of hurting them?"

AFRAID OF HURTING PARTNERS

"That's just it, Jimmy," he replied.

"Well, all I have to say is you were never so big a sucker as that when I was training you," I answered. "You go in there and give 'em everything you've got. That's the only way you're going to get into winning condition. Good condition is all right, but I want to see winning condition in my boys. And you were one of them once."

Since that talk, I've noticed that Jack hasn't been a bit lenient with his sparring partners.

And yet I also notice that the boys who circle about a bit, as Tunney does, give Dempsey plenty of trouble. They not only land on him pretty freely, but they get away from his counters and his leads. But when he catches them—well, they quit circling, that's all.

I am frank to say I don't like the way either Dempsey or Tunney has been training. I have no fault to find with their trainers, the men who are running their camps, for when it comes to that, Dempsey and Tunney alone are solely responsible for what they do in training. Both are the final bosses of their camps. Leo Flynn, at Dempsey's camp, uses a good deal of authority, but although Dempsey actually does what Leo says, there is so much Leo doesn't say.

Flynn certainly deserves much credit for bringing Dempsey back to the ring a winner. He did that in the Sharkey fight. It was no simple task. I can appreciate that it was a big task.

TRAINING LACKADAISICAL

But I don't know; there's something lacking in this training campaign. Perhaps it is an earnestness, a determination of purpose, but to me the work of the two men seems lackadaisical, if I may use so Tunneyesque a word.

It may be that this is just one of the changes that have come into the game with the changed atmosphere of the training camps and the difference in the purses. But this particular fight will live in my memory as the one for which the least amount of actual training was done.

Perhaps it is that Dempsey realizes he will never be a boxer; that he must rely only on his hitting ability and his ability to take punishment, and believes he has reached his limit and, therefore, wants to mark time and go into the ring with what he has and knows he has, rather than take a chance of getting more at the risk of losing what stamina he possesses.

Perhaps it is that Tunney is convinced this will be what he said to me it would be, a battle of wits, with the brute-strength part of it subsidized to "strategy," and he believes he is good enough to win without going through the tedious, arduous, painful drudgery of intense training. Whatever it is, I'll say that neither of them has strained himself getting into shape.

Oh, they both look good, great, as a matter of fact. That is, on the surface. But how good are they inside? How about the old heart, etc.? We'll find out about that on the 22nd inst.

SACRAMENTO BOWS TO SEATTLE CLUB

SEATTLE, Sept. 16. Shea pitched good ball for four innings, but blew up badly in the fifth. Nance, relief Indian hurler after Graham was retired for a pinch hitter in the sixth, held the Sacs scoreless until the ninth when they found him for four hits and two runs. Score:

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

WELL, here we are again with Bill Tilden and Rene La Coste doing their stuff—this time with the national tennis championship at stake. If things proceed according to Hoyle, Mr. La Coste will retain the title. Not only has that been more or less of a foregone conclusion from the moment that La Coste started knocking the boys over in the Davis Cup matches a week ago, but, in addition, yesterday's Tilden-Hunter match indicates that Big Bill is far from being his old self. Any time he lets Hunter keep him running around for four or five sets, including one of 14-12, and another of 9-7, Tilden's greatness is missing. Maybe he was trying to make Hunter look good so as to get him the No. 2 position in the national rankings. Who knows?

Anyhow, it looks as though the whole national championship tournament had been staged for the special benefit of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, which is to hold the Pacific Southwest championships in October. Tilden, a finalist; Hunter, a semi-finalist; Heunessey, the boy who beat Cochet; Alonso, who gave La Coste an awful run for his money, and a whole flock of other stars of this great tournament are going to come to Los Angeles to play. La-Caste, himself, is a possibility, it is understood. Things might turn out quite differently when the boys get together on the hard courts.

We ought to be able to get a swell line on the comparative strength of the Trojans and the California Bears by reason of the fact that on successive Saturdays they play the Santa Clara Broncbos. While the Trojans are tangling with the Oxy Tigers down here a week from today, the Bears and the Broncs will be scrambling around all over the Berkeley gridiron, and the week after that the Broncs come down here to do their stuff against the Trojans. That ought to give the dopesters room for some of the finest arguments in the world.

Unfortunately, or perhaps we should say fortunately, football games are not decided either by dope or argument. Regardless of how folks figure out the U.S.C.-Stanford game in advance, you can bet your life that it is going to be a battle. The same thing goes for the Berkeley Bears. In our estimation they are going to be out to give the Trojans a mean afternoon by way of revenge for what happened to them last year.

TUNNEY ENJOYS TRAINING TILT

and equally smart in taking advantage of every opening. Wiggins took Tunney by surprise and nettled him into fierce exchanges with the suddenness of the attack. Despite the swab of tape Gene still wears above his right eye, Wiggins slapped left jabs and hooks to the injured optic. One solid right bounced the champion's chin and Chuck slipped many solid punches into Tunney's body despite Gene's careful defense.

But the champion was not to stand for such actions without a struggle. In the second session he bore down upon Wiggins, lips drawn in a snarl, ripping solid left hooks to the body that forced the bounding blond to clinch and hold on. Gene found the range, too, with his right and dropped short, clubbing smashes on Chuck's chin.

Babe has twelve games remaining in which to swat out six home runs to equal his record of fifty-nine, and must rap out seven more in this time if he hopes to hit the sixty-mark. Ruth is now eight circuit swats in front of Gehrig.

HEILMANN'S BATTING WINS TIGER VICTORY

PORTLAND, Sept. 16. (AP)—Oakland beat Portland today 6 to 5 and took the lead in the series, three games to two. The Oaks batted Ponder hard in the eighth when they overcame a 5-to-3 lead, batted in three runs and took the game. The Oakland infield executed four double plays, Larry being prominent in all of them. Score:

Champs Baffled by Grimes in 6-to-3 Struggle

New York collected a dozen, including home runs by Lindstrom and Harper. Lindstrom connected for the round trip in the first inning and Terry's triple and Jackson's single in the next stanza brought the Giants another run. Doubles by Lindstrom and Hornsby gave the McGrawmen their third run in the third. Bell's muff of Lindstrom's pop fly, Roush's single and a double steal produced a run for New York in the seventh. The other two runs came in the eighth on Harper's homer following Jackson's single.

A double by Hafey and Bottomley's base drive put over a run for the Cards in the opening frame. St. Louis scored again in the sixth on Frisch's double and Bottomley's single.

In the succeeding innings, Bell singled and scored on Pinch-Hitter Clark's triple.

It was Grimes's second triumph in the series, his eighth straight victory and his seventeenth of the year. The Giants took the season's series from the Cards, twelve out of twenty-two.

CUBS CUFFED

CHICAGO, Sept. 16. (AP)—Brooklyn made a clean sweep of the three-game series with Chicago by bunching hits behind some ragged playing by the Cubs to take the final by 4 to 3, today. McWeeny was driven off the hill in the eighth, Elliott checking a rally. Root started in the box for the Bruins but was found for all the Robins' runs, Partridge's triple after Herman had doubled in the seventh decided the tussle.

BOULOGNE (France) Sept. 17. (Saturday) (AP)—Miss Millie Hudson, young English swimmer, who started on a channel attempt from Cape Gris Nez at 11.06 o'clock yesterday morning, abandoned her swim after being in the water about thirteen hours.

Miss Hudson was forced to quit shortly after midnight when a strong current carried her off her course.

CAPT. DRURY TO PLAY QUARTERBACK FOR U.S.C.

do the most good and for the present it appears that this end can best be attained from the quarterback post.

U.S.C. fans will hail with delight the placing of Drury in the quarterback berth, for it means that he will do more ball carrying than in the past. During his prep days Morley was perhaps the greatest high school pigskin lugger in the state and when Jones used him mainly as an interference man at U.S.C. there were many loud moans from Drury's supporters.

It was all very well for Drury's friends to moan but Jones had to build the football team and having no large young men to run interference he selected Drury because he knew morley would do that job well. Others could carry the ball but there was a dearth of capable blockers.

THINGS ARE DIFFERENT

This season things are different. There are half a dozen meaty, tough, rugged and speedy boys who fit in very nicely as interference units. Returning from last year is Lloyd Thomas, who, it will be remembered, took Drury's place when Morley was injured last year and filled it so well that the Trojan captain never went back to his old spot. Others who look especially good are Russ Saunders, Don Moses, Mike Donahue, Jonas and Wilcox. This gives Jones plenty of interference material and it's mighty rugged material at that, especially the first three chaps. Donahue played fullback for the frosh two years ago and was out of school last fall. He, with Thomas, Saunders and Moses, are likely to be the four tackle and end smashers, alternating in the two half-back berths.

Drury's installation at quarterback gives Jones three excellent ball carriers, the other two being Don Williams and Howard Elliott. Williams is liable to be lost to the team at any time through injuries, which would leave only Elliott if Drury were kept at halfback. So, taking it all in all, moving Morley to the important post strengthens things all around.

The call to scrimmage did come as a bit of surprise, for Jones had previously stated that there would be no mixing until this afternoon. At that the session was not really a rough one, but the offensive teams were plowing along with little regard for their foes.

Jones's first outfit had Steponovitch and Boren at ends, Hibbs and Moser at tackles, Heiser and Galloway in the guard berths, Barragar at center, Saunders and Donahue as halfbacks, Edelson at full and Elliott in the quarterback post. Drury later took Elliott's place, and there were other changes both in the backfield and line. The new forwards naturally don't work well together yet, and the opposition broke through on many times and smeared the man with the ball.

Barragar got the call over Fox at center because he showed a bit more stuff in a prescrimmage workout which Jones staged off to one side of the field. The big blond sophomore is awfully green yet and nobody knows it any better than himself, but he's a glutton for work and is stronger than garlic. Fox is a bit overweight and hasn't developed the charge which he may acquire later. Barrager isn't passing the ball any too well thus far but he naturally can't learn everything at once. The boy is certainly a promising chap.

Despite the fact that the season is only two days old the Trojans have a flock of plays, including some rather nifty formations. As was stated by this writer during spring practice Jones has no intention of discarding his shift because of the new rules and the teams were executing their usual double jump again yesterday. The Trojan mentor is acquiring added deception by using a backfield man in motion to one side. This tends to take the opposition's eye off the ball and also aids in interference work. It is something entirely new over anything Jones presented last year and will be watched with interest when the boys go up against Occidental just one week from today.

The cool weather has proved a boon to the athletes. Jones is able to get twice as much work out of them because there is no heat. The early scrimmage season yesterday was made possible because of the cold day.

of last year has done considerable growing up, and is giving the regulars something to battle for. Noble at guard looks particularly good, and looms as a serious contender for Rosy Wentzell's vacant job, despite the fact that both Davis and Gould are letter men.

Ed Soloman, brother of the ex-Stanford star, is one of the likeliest-looking backfield prospects. He passes the ball with speed and accuracy, and should prove an asset in the coming season. Jerry Russum has little chance

Dr. Cook Bags First Deer of Year

Shooting from a distance of 150 yards and hitting the buck in the head, Dr. W. R. Cook had the honor of being first to arrive at the B. H. Dyas Company yesterday with a deer. The season on deer opened yesterday morning at a half-hour before sunrise in about three-fourths of the State, including Southern California. Hundreds of local shooters were out, many of them in the High Sierras. Dr. Cook bagged his deer in the Calabasas. It weighed ninety-five pounds and was a forked horn. He got it at 6:30 in the morning and registered at Dyas's at 9:15.

Big Fight to be on Level

Tunney says so.
Dempsey ditto.
Gibson ditto.
Rickard ditto.
Commish ditto.
P. S. Leonard, too.

BY BENNY LEONARD
(Retired Lightweight Champion of the World)

LAKE VILLA (Ill.) Sept. 16.—I said in my last article I would tell my readers what transpired in the dressing-room when I visited Gene Tunney after his training yesterday.

We fanned a bit, and then I got down to the business in hand. It was this: Ever since this match was made people have been asking me one question with ever-increasing frequency. That question is "Do you think the fight will be on the level?"

I said in one of my previous articles that I was going to make it my business to find out, and that when I did find out I'd let my readers know.

So when I went in to see Gene, I put the question right up to him.

"Champ," I said, "there have been a lot of rumors about this fight being in the bag or fixed.

"I believe that neither you nor Dempsey would knowingly have anything to do with faking or anything like that but what precaution are you taking if any, to protect yourself against any unsatisfactory ending in this fight? What are you doing to insure yourself and your friends that this fight will be fought strictly on the level?"

Gene looked at me with eyes wide open with amazement.

"None," he finally replied and then he added, "I mean I'm taking no precautions other than to get myself in the best possible shape for the fight and that I will go in there and do my very best to win fairly and squarely. What do you mean, Benny?"

I then told Tunney all about the rumors and I could see from his expression that he was a bit surprised.

Then he said: "Listen, Benny, I have every confidence in the integrity and honesty of the Illinois Boxing Commission; I have every confidence in the promoters of this contest. I am placing myself in their hands so far as protection is concerned and I am convinced that they will discharge their duties in an honest and fair manner. So far as my part is concerned I will do everything that I possibly can to score a quick and decisive victory."

Billy Gibson said practically the same thing as did Tex Rickard and Jack Dempsey. They all put it up to the Boxing Commission to prevent any outsiders from hurting the fair reputation of the game in this State by any crooked or shady work, so I went to visit the commissioners.

I was received warmly by the chairman, John Righeimer, who, although he had several pressing engagements, postponed them to give me an audience.

When I told him what I wanted, he said: "We are going to assume all responsibilities for the fairness of this fight. This is our first real big fight, and we are not going to allow anything to happen that will mar it. If anything does start to happen we will nip it in the bud."

SANGOR SET FOR TAYLOR

Joey Sangor will take his last gymnasium workout today and then will mark time Tuesday night. The little Milwaukee favorite is afraid of getting too fine. He has done nearly a week's more work for the fight than Bud Taylor.

Taylor was compelled to lay off due to the boil on his shoulder which caused the bout to be postponed a week. The blond Terre Haute "Terror" will box Sunday. Bud likes more work than Sangor for he is built of nervous energy and grit.

There is little chance that the odds of 10 to 8 on Taylor will be shaken. These figures have ruled ever since the match was made. Californians have seen Bud win thirteen straight and that is dope that nothing can shake.

In Milwaukee it is different. That is Sangor's home town and they saw the freckled-face featherweight have Bud on the floor twice last November. Sangor is the same favorite there in the betting that Taylor is here.

TIMES TENNIS TEAM TO PLAY GOODYEARS

The Times tennis team and the Goodyear Rubber Company will play a series of matches today, on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club. JOHNSTON QUITS DAVIS CUP PLAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—William M. Johnston, known to the thousands of the tennis world as "Little Bill," tonight announced that he is through with Davis Cup competition. Increasing demands by his brokerage interests in California, and the severe physical strain attendant on the international matches were given by Johnston as reasons for his withdrawal.

with Allentown Joe Gans, and the third with Dave Shade.

Williams found it very difficult to reach Dempsey with left hooks, much more difficult than last night. Jack was perfecting his defense for these left gloves and succeeded in knocking them down.

Shade set a furious pace for Dempsey, making the former title-holder step around with speed that brought gasps of excitement from his admirers. They said that Dempsey's legs did not cause them any more worry, as they carried Jack around the ring on his toes at top speed.

Before pulling on the gloves Dempsey went through a round of shadow boxing and, after the sparring, finished with a round of light bag punching.

had a lot to do in changing McCoy's style for Davies.

Davies exhibited a left stab that bothered McCoy quite a bit, but hindered his chance of winning by clinching a lot. In the second round the two scrappers met head on, opening a cut over McCoy's eye, but Johnny won despite the handicap.

Gilbert Attell, the San Francisco welterweight who claims to be related to Abe Attell, the former featherweight champ, won a technical knockout over Freddie Mack in the third round of the scheduled six-round semi-wind-up. After two uninteresting rounds the boys opened up in the third and Attell worked Mack into a corner and dropped him with a right to the chin. Mack was up at nine, but groggy, so Referee Joe Rivers, heeding the public outcry, stopped the struggle and raised Attell's hand.

Frankie Tondorf, Pasadena 138-pounder, was too big and strong for Mickey Durane, who subbed for Billy Blake, in the special event and carried off the decision after six rounds. Tondorf gave Durane a bad body beating, but Mickey kept gamely on and refused to drop, although he was a sick lad after the third round.

In the second bout Phil Harris beat Johnny Fernando, a wild-swinging Filipino, but Referee Rivers called it a draw. Johnny Torres outclassed Jim Pierce in the curtain-raiser.

McCONNEL WINS TITLE

NEWCASTLE (Ireland) Sept. 16. (AP)—Roy McConnel of the Royal Port Rush Club, who was runner-up last year, today won the Irish amateur golf championship by defeating Donald Soulby of Fairhaven, 5 up and 3 to play.

LOWRY'S RABBIT PUNCHES

wants him to, and because he says the ex-champion told him he never trained hard for the last Tunney fight, figuring that the ex-marine would be just another of those knockout receivers with whom he had come into contact for several years.

But Mr. McLean's reason, while it might not be considered as hot stuff by the dopesters, is good enough to put Mr. Lyman very much in the minority as a Tunney advocate on this train and even Mr. Lyman was observed to be weakening this morning.

"Just think of it," mused Mr. Lyman, as the writer pointed out to him that Johnny Risko, the Cleveland rubber man, had just beaten Jack Delaney, considered a superlative boxer, "Risko ain't no boxer. He just throws a lot of gloves. Gee, Dempsey might do the same thing against Tunney. Guess these boxing sharks aren't so good after all against a fellow who can toss a lot of leather. Dempsey can still punch, and he might knock him out. Maybe I better ease up on my betting."

However, Mr. Lyman's hopes of Tunney being returned the winner in Chicago's great effort to elevate the cultured element of its midst with a heavyweight brawl, were revived considerably with the announcement that Mr. Will Gibson, commonly referred to as Tunney's step-manager or head floorwalker, had registered a squawk about Dempsey taping his hands in the dressing room, presumably to indicate that Dempsey is not such a puncher-out as he has been proclaimed in the past.

It seems that Will was a pro-Dempsey man at the time of the Willard and Firpo fights, and he claims that Dempsey inserted "machinery" in his gloves before both of these fights, said machinery rearing horrible lumps on Willard's face that were manifest in the printed newspaper pictures.

According to the story in the Chicago Tribune Mr. Gibson is said to have mentioned such words as tea-lead, Ford axles, door knobs, brick bats, etc., when he was asked about the meaning of machinery.

This is a point that has been brought up in the past in connection with some of Dempsey's fights, but the ex-champion's hitting powers have been demonstrated so thoroughly in the gymnasium that it has generally been discredited.

However, the subject is a good one for "ribbing" purposes and Mr. Gibson seems to have been making the most of it, with Mr. Leo "Pizen" Flynn, Mr. Dempsey's business manager, laying aside the cares of office to toss questions at the Tunney crowd, featuring interrogations relative to a "framed" fight with Bartley Madden and certain shady transactions with Boo Boo Hoff, whereby Mr. Tunney was supposed to have the in with the officials at Philadelphia.

At any rate, Mr. Will Gibson is said to have told Tex Rickard and the Illinois Boxing Commission that Dempsey must tape his hands in the ring at Soldiers' Field.

Will declares that Dempsey lost to Tunney last year because he was compelled, for the first time in his life, to tape his hands before the public gaze, and Will wants him to rose again.

Having just recovered from a noon-day snooze, Mr. Flynn has bounded onto the scene of action with a statement that he is a great friend of Dempsey's, that he doesn't want to be quoted as favoring Tunney in the forthcoming battle, that Dempsey may win, and that anyway he (Mike) is only a sort of emissary to put down some of Baron Long's thousands as a business investment on the champion.

EDW. F. SCHLEE — WM. S. BROCK

around the World on Shell Gasoline

When on Saturday morning, August 27th, the big yellow and red monoplane, the "Pride of Detroit" rose from the field at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, and swiftly flying eastward faded from sight over the trackless sea, it marked the beginning of man's first attempt to fly around the world in a land plane, to beat all previous records.

In the plane, equipped with a Wright Whirlwind motor and fueled with "SHELL" Gasoline, were Edw. F. Schlee and Wm. S. Brock, intrepid aviators who had dreamed a dream of conquest and were willing to stake their lives on its accomplishment.

These two men knew what was ahead... they faced the winds, rains, freezing sleet of the Atlantic... the mist and fogs over the mainland of Europe... the hot, humid air and sandstorms of the Orient. It took a heart of courage, a staunch plane, a tireless motor and the best of fuel to overcome the difficulties ahead... and never once has the heart, the plane nor the fuel faltered for a second.

Having safely passed the first perilous step of their journey... across the wide Atlantic to England... the flight continues across the vast overland route through Munich, Belgrade, Constantinople, Bagdad, Bundar Abbas [Persia], Karachi, Allahabad, Calcutta [India], Rangoon [Burma], Hanoi, Hongkong, and Tokio.. truly an epoch-making performance.

Throughout the entire flight the "Pride of Detroit" is fueled with Shell Gasoline. The same qualities of power, speed and absolute reliability which Shell Gasoline has demonstrated in the plane of the world-flyers has made it the leader at home... the choice of millions of motorists who will use no other.

JUDSON FREIGHT STOCK ACQUIRED

Control Purchased by Chicago and Local Interests

Somerville and Bowes Retire from Executive Posts

Company Plans Capital Rise and New Extensions

Purchase of the entire capital stock of the Judson Freight Forwarding Company by a strong group of Los Angeles and Chicago financial interests was revealed yesterday coincident with the announcement of the retirement of Robert Somerville and David Bowes as president and vice-president, respectively.

Control of the company, the largest organization of its kind in the country dealing in export, import and domestic shipments, has passed into hands affiliated with the ownership and management of the Los Angeles and Chicago Central Manufacturing districts, Union Stock Yards and Junction Railways companies, and directors of banks identified with these organizations.

DIRECTORS NAMED

The new board of directors includes Walter J. Riley, former vice-president, Judson Freight Forwarding Company; Richard Fitzgerald, president, Los Angeles Junction Railway; Arthur G. Leonard, president, Union Stock Yards companies of Chicago and Los Angeles, trustee, Central Manufacturing District of Chicago and director of the Stock Yards National and other Chicago banks; F. H. Prince, Boston, trustee, Central Manufacturing District of Chicago, chairman of the board, Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards companies and director, First National Bank of Chicago; Halsey E. Poronto, president, Central Manufacturing District of Los Angeles, trustee of the Chicago district and director of Stock Yards National Bank of Chicago and Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles; Silas Strawn, chairman of the board, Montgomery, Ward & Co., and member of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, attorneys, and Eugene V. R. Thayer, director, Chase National Bank of New York.

RILEY PRESIDENT

W. J. Riley has been elected president of the new company, and E. E. Hesse has been made treasurer and P. R. Gates, secretary.

The Judson Freight Forwarding Company, with offices in most of the principal cities of the country, consolidates less than carlot shipments into carloads, thereby obtaining carload rates and effecting a saving in freight charges to shippers. A small fee, substantially less than the differential between carlot and less and carlot rates, is charged the shipper and from this charge the company obtains its profit. During the past year approximately 800 carloads of freight were handled by the company in this manner.

The company will immediately increase its capitalization to provide for further expansion of activities, officials stated yesterday. New offices will be opened in other important cities of the country, among the first of which will be in Seattle and Portland on the Pacific Coast.

HIGHER BANK RATE IN SIGHT

Los Angeles-First National Dividend May be Lifted in December; Market Looks for $4.50

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Except for the sanguine predictions registered in stock market prices, estimates of earnings for the newest bank consolidation in California, the Los Angeles-First National, are not yet available. Until the first month of consolidated operations is completed the public will have to speculate on this point, although it will probably require more time than a single month before the economies under the new set-up will actually show up in earnings.

The matter of dividend payments on the new $25 par value stock is also unsettled. This decision will naturally depend on the rate of earnings, and will largely affect the level at which the stock will sell when the amount is finally announced. In the meantime the stockholders and the traders in bank shares are doing a little figuring on their account in the way of anticipating the action of the directors.

HOLDERS GIVEN HINT

On the old beneficial certificates representing ownership in the First National, the Pacific-Southwest and the First Securities Company, the annual rate was $22 a share. On the new $25 par value stock, giving effect to the five new shares exchanged for one of the old, the equivalent is $4.40 annually. There are reasons, however, for believing that the new rate will be higher, as intimated in statements made to the stockholders at the time the consolidation plan was approved.

The prevalent opinion is that the annual rate will be fixed at $4.60 a share when the directors meet late in December to authorize the payment of the January 1 dividend. This amount would be the equivalent of $22.50 on the old stock, or an increase of 50 cents a share. Undoubtedly, whatever rate is established will be increased as fast as earnings and good judgment warrant.

Another influence besides the discounting of earnings and dividends is entering into the process of establishing the price level for Los Angeles First National shares. It is evident that a disparity exists between the investment return on this stock and the return on other bank stocks of similar character. Reconciliation of income return with the general average of bank stocks seems to be under way, and if carried to completion should mean higher prices.

RETURN OUT OF LINE

At 97, assuming a dividend rate of $4.50, the return is 4.6 per cent. Most bank stocks are selling to return around 3.5 per cent, which indicates a price of approximately 126 for Los Angeles First National if the reconciliation is to continue.

Earnings of the First National Pacific-Southwest group have always covered dividends by a large margin in the past. In 1926 earnings on the beneficial certificates were $40.14 a share, while in the first half of 1927 earnings were running at an annual rate nearly as large, or almost $35 a share.

One result of the consolidation and reduction in par value that has been learned so far is the tendency to increase the number of small stockholders. Since the new shares came on the market, the bank estimates that the number of stockholders has reached approximately to 2800, or a substantial gain over the previous number.

BANCITALY ADVANCES ABRUPTLY

Adds 6 Points to Gain of Past Week, Closing at 119 1-4; Bank of Italy at 215

Soaring 6 points more to a new record high at 119 1-2, Bancitaly Corporation again featured trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. The stock opened 4 points up at 117 1-2 and continued its advance to the high and closed in strong demand at 119 1-4. Bank of Italy again followed the movement of the holding corporation, adding 4 points to a new high and close at 215.

Los Angeles-First National, another active bank issue, opened steady at 98 1-2 and advanced to a new record high and close at 98 1-8. The trading value of Los Angeles-First National, Bank of Italy and Bancitaly Corporation exceeded $1,200,000 and represented approximately two-thirds of the total sales for the day on the exchange.

Southern California Edison common closed fractionally higher at 38 3-4. Los Angeles Investment closed 5 cents lower at 2.65, after advancing to 2.75 in the afternoon's trading. Caterpillar Tractor added a fraction to 38 1-8.

Richfield closed firm at 18 3-4 on a fair turnover to lead activity in the oils. Union Oil of California closed of 3-8 of a point to 42 3-8, and Union Associates lost 1-4 point to 41 1-4. Standard of California receded 5-8 of a point to a close at 53 1-8. California Petroleum closed 1-4 point lower at 22, after touching 21 7-8.

Business Here Shows Increase, Says Bradstreet

Business generally is showing improvement, although several lines, including wearing apparel and furniture, still are far from normal, according to the weekly review of conditions in Los Angeles territory, as reported yesterday by the Bradstreet Company.

Wholesale and retail houses report collections slow, with some lines restricting further credit until past-due accounts have been liquidated. Building of both homes and business property keeps active. The building trade thus has had a fair year to date, but competition is extremely keen.

Crops and weather conditions continue good and local market receipts are fairly heavy, with prices down. Late lettuce is flooding the market and there is no demand. The citrus market is retaining strength. Orange shipments to date have exceeded last year.

Oil production is maintained at a steady pace, with production in new territories just about taking up the drops in other fields. Prices are steadier with plenty of storage surplus for all demands.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (Exclusive) The somewhat bearish opinion expressed in the survey of commodity prices in the statement issued by the Bureau of Economics of the Agricultural Department as printed here yesterday "that cotton and other farm products generally average lower in price during the last quarter of the year," continued to be widely discussed in the trade here today.

The heavy liquidation which broke the market so sharply about 140 to 180 points yesterday from the forenoon's highest quotations and closed the general contract list with net declines ranging from 110 to 125 points on the day, was still having an unsettling influence on recent bullish sentiment in the trade here and throughout the South today.

Its effect with Liverpool's break and the continuance of the excellent weather over most sections of the belt the past week, kept the market fluctuating in a very erratic manner throughout the day's trading, with very talked ideas now prevailing as to what will be the next important movement.

There was a recovery of about 30 points on the average from yesterday's weak closing in the early trade, on October selling at 21.58 cents, on this rally; December, 21.85 cents; January, 21.81 cents; March 22.10 cents, and May, 22.16. There was so much fresh local liquidation and southern selling, however, that the market broke 50 to 70 points from those quotations before the end of the noon hour. This was helped along by a good deal of western selling coming in on the new low record prices for wheat for this year and the further sharp break in corn.

Another sharp rally from this break occurred after the Liverpool closing cables were in on fresh bull support and a large amount of covering of shorts. It carried prices back 40 to 60 points from the low levels, but this rally did not hold through the afternoon.

In fact it was followed by a second break which sent the market 5 to 10 points below the early low levels before 2 o'clock, December then going to 21.14 cents; January, 21.18 cents; March, 21.45 and May, 21.59 cents, before enough new support from local trade bulls came in to prevent a further break.

At Liverpool cotton futures started with declines ranging from 10 to 20 points and finished near the lowest, with last prices showing a net decline of 39 to 44 English points on the day against 42 to 48 that should have been held to have met our closing decline of yesterday.

WALL STREET PHENOMENON

Call Money Rate of 3 1-2 Per Cent on Tax Settlement Date Rare as Snowfall in July

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Three and one-half per cent call money on a tax settlement date is not quite as rare as a snowfall in July but its appearance on September 15, this year, brought as much cheer to the speculative markets as that meteorological phenomenon to those suffering from heat.

Not that the market has suffered seriously from a tightening in rates as tax-settlement date approaches this year, but from its unseasonable low of 3½ per cent until a week ago when it had crept forward to 4½ per cent and the belief grew that a still further temporary pinch might come. Call money reached 5 per cent a year ago at this time but it was only 4 1-4 two years ago and more unusual still, 2 per cent at this period in 1924.

The incident is significant for the faith it inspires in a market already excited over abnormal ease in the weeks that lie just ahead. So long as no violent changes in the steady flow of business present themselves, bulls in the stock market are going to find easy money their most powerful instrument to hold prices up or force them higher. In the absence of any outstanding unfavorable new development, the tradition runs a bull market will not break for long while money stays ahead.

However many unfavorable signs the pessimists may see on the horizon, and however much the optimists differ in their predictions on the probable duration of the present prosperity era, all agree that so far as the stock market goes the key to the immediate future lies in the trend of money rates.

That is why every authority of consequence now is bending his efforts to understand the money position better and to calculate whether for a certainty the present levels will hold for a time. Everybody knows that the season of year is at hand when demand for funds with which to move agricultural crops multiply and when, in consequence, a firming tendency for money sets in, only moderate autumn advances now occur under conditions that before the creation of the Federal Reserve System would have brought sharp increases, but it cannot be denied the period of seasonal advance is here.

Over against this influence for dearer rates lies a mighty instrument in the hands of the Federal reserve banks that if used would tend to offset the tightening seasonal tendencies. It was the entrance of the Federal reserve banks into the market for government securities six weeks ago that brought the abnormal low rates of August. Between the end of August and September 7 the Federal reserve banks increased their holdings of government securities from $385,000,000 to $499,000,000, which means that the reserve banks six weeks ago began to pour out money in large amounts.

A part of these purchases were made in anticipation of September 15 maturities so it would seem reasonable to conclude that a satisfaction of such obligations would remove any necessity for future purchases but not nearly all of the purchases made since late July represent offsets to these maturities and those who follow money matters now wait with eagerness for signs that will tell whether the Federal reserve banks intend to continue or drop their buying program.

Old Records on Bay City Stock Exchange Fall

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16. (AP)—Officials of the San Francisco Stock and Bond Exchange reported a new high daily trading record made today with a turnover of 59,251 shares, representing a value of $5,346,640.

Of these shares 20,460 were of the Bancitaly Corporation which continued their current advance to close at 119 7-8, or 5 7-8 points above the previous closing quotation.

The previous highest daily trading was recorded on February 3, 1926, when $4,563,950 worth of securities changed hands. Oil predominated on this market while the activities today were spread over the entire list.

DEMAND ON WOOL MART BROADENS

Weekly Survey Reports Higher With Tendency to Continue Advance

BOSTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The demand for wool is broader and prices are stronger by a half-cent to a cent a pound in the grease than they were a fortnight ago, with the tendency of the market upward. Foreign wools are practically cleared from the dealers' hands.

The manufacturing situation is evidently the best it has been for many months and consumption continues at a fairly steady pace both in the worsted and woolen end of the business.

Foreign markets are strong. Australia keeping very firm and if anything against the buyer, as is true also of South Africa, while London fully maintains the par to 5 per cent. Advance reported at the opening Tuesday, over the close of previous series.

Mohair is in moderate request at steady rates.

The rail and water shipments from Boston from January 1, 1927, to September 8, 1927, inclusive, were 141,987,000 pounds, as against 137,689,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1927, to September 8, 1927, inclusive, were 287,057,626 pounds, against 282,597,357 pounds for the same period last year."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations tomorrow:

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—Trading in the curb market today was well distributed over a wide variety of shares but half a dozen issues, however, accounted for almost a third of the total transactions. Prices in the main again moved upward, although some irregularity developed toward the close.

Bancitaly was again the individual feature, advancing more than 5 points to a new high at 117 7-8 on a large volume of sales. Strength of these shares was in reflection of growing recognition of the company's prominence in the banking world as well as yesterday's stock dividend of 14 2-7 per cent.

Prospects of excellent earnings were largely responsible for a rush of buying of Gillette Safety Razor, which scored an extreme gain of 2½ to 105 1-4, the best price of the year, and closed around 104 for a net gain of more than a point. Johns Manville again was prominent in pool operations, changing hands rapidly as high as 117 1-4, but profit taking late in the day clipped the gain to less than 2 points, the closing quotation standing at 115 3-4.

A 9-point jump in Tubize artificial silk to a new top of 284 was attributed to the fact that the floating supply of this stock is relatively small, combined with the current commanding position of the artificial silk trade. Celanese issues, however, failed to consolidate their gains of the past few days, both the new common and the preferred selling off 3 points or so.

Continued demand for utility shares was concentrated largely in American Gas and Electric, which went to 115 3-4, against a previous high of 109½. American Light and Traction inclined to heaviness.

Among the numerous issues which improved their previous best prices were such varied stocks as Copper Range, Douglas Shoe preferred, General Baking A, Heliman common and preferred and Parke Davis (new stock.) Soft spots included Fajardo Sugar, Marmon Motors, National Sugar Refining, Davegs, Inc., and International Cigar Machine, losses ranging from 1 to more than 3 points.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

STOCKS MARCH TO NEW PEAKS

vents, Consolidated Gas, Diamond Match, Dupont, Gimbel Brothers, Green Cananea Copper, Montgomery-Ward, National Biscuit and Texas Gulf Sulphur, all of which touched new 1927 peak prices.

Phillip Morris sank to a new low for the year and marked heaviness also was shown by Porto Rican Tobacco, Union Bag and Paper, White Motors, the Pacific Coast issues and Baldwin.

Trading in the rails was enlivened by a sudden outburst of activity and strength in New York, Ontario and Western on a revival of rumors that the New Haven was going to dispose of its holdings in that stock to the New York Central. Other rails fluctuated within rather narrow limits. There was no change in money rates.

Renewed heaviness of Japanese yen, which were again quoted below 47 cents, and a jump of 7 1-2 points in Spanish Pesetas to just below 17 cents shared interest in the foreign exchange market with the strength of sterling.

BOOTLEGGER CHEMIST TO BE SEIZED

Nation-wide Drive Begun Against Testers of Rum for Illegal Sale

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (Exclusive)—A nation-wide drive against those chemists who knowingly aid bootleggers in the sale of intoxicating liquors has been started by the prohibition bureau. It is the result of the activities of Chicago chemists.

Special attention is being directed toward chemists who make a business of testing large quantities of liquor for notorious bootleggers. In some cases officials stated today, the chemists furnish bootleggers with certificates attesting to the purity of intoxicating beverages offered for sale. In other cases bootleggers leave their goods with customers subject to analytical approval by chemists.

"The men we are after," Acting Commissioner Alf Oftedal said today, "are those who are actually conspiring with the bootlegger to aid and abet him in infractions of the prohibition law. We have found that some of the chemists derive much of their income from the practice of testing liquor for the bootleg trade."

The department probably will take no action against chemists unless they knowingly aid in the sale of intoxicants.

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 16. (AP)—The body of R. Tientgen, 45 years of age, of Burlingame, Cal., was found today on an avenue in a suburban district at Lake Oswego. A bullet through the brain, a suicide note, and a revolver at the man's feet caused Coroner Pace to declare it a case of suicide.

EXPRESS LOCOMOTIVE DERAILED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16. (AP)—The locomotive of the Del Monte Express, a Southern Pacific train running between Pacific Grove and San Francisco, was derailed at Coyote Point, twelve miles south of San Jose, today. No one was hurt.

Missing Pastor Mystery Grows

COLUMBUS (Ga.) Sept. 16. (AP)—With Bishop Goen of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, en route to assist authorities in their search for Rev. Willis J. Jordan, missing pastor of the Second-avenue Church here, officers today continued their questioning of Rev. A. V. Noble, charged with kidnaping Jordan.

Noble preceded Jordan as pastor at the Second-avenue Church, and was dismissed by the congregation on the 6th inst. He refused to give up the parsonage when Jordan arrived and was removed through a dispossession warrant.

Mrs. Jordan asserts two unidentified men spirited her husband away, after calling him to the door on pretense of talking over church affairs. She says she has not seen her husband since and knows of no motive for the kidnaping. She told newspaper men today she could not identify the abductors.

Jordan came here a few days ago from Birchwood, Wis. While living at Birchwood he carried on evangelical work in Canada.

COMPLAINT FILED IN OIL POLLUTION

Master of Tanker Cited to Federal Court Over Emptying Bilge Water

The United States government yesterday entered into the campaign to keep Southern California beaches free from pollution by oil when United States Commissioner Head issued a complaint against Capt. M. Jackson, master of the oil tanker Inverarder, charging him with "knowingly and willfully discharging bilge water" into Long Beach Harbor.

A warrant for the arrest of Jackson was issued by Commissioner Head, and Deputy United States Marshal Finn was given instructions to arrest the ship's master. Bond was set at $500.

The complaint against Jackson was issued following a conference between Ames Peterson, Assistant United States Attorney; D. D. Skinner, superintendent of recreation at Long Beach, and Frank P. Mead, harbor inspector at Long Beach. Mead signed the complaint.

According to Mead the bilge water from the tanks of the Inverarder was emptied a few miles offshore and the oil floated onto the beach, much to the discomfiture of bathers. According to Attorney Peterson, complaints will be issued by the government and the violators prosecuted in Federal Court in every instance where violation is brought to the attention of the government. The maximum penalty that can be assessed is $10000.

National Guard Airmen Achieve Notable Record

With a record of having flown 45,000 miles during the past two weeks without a single mishap, officers and men of the Fortieth Division Air Corps, California National Guard, will bring their third annual encampment at Griffith Park to a close today. Maj. C. C. Moseley, commander of the division, declared yesterday that the present encampment is the most successful in the brief history of the organization.

Included in the division are twenty-one officers, who serve as pilots, and 100 enlisted men. The pilots all are veteran flyers, having served either in the Army Air Corps during the World War or in the air-mail service.

During the present encampment the ten new planes, which replaced the old "jennies," have been flown to San Francisco and return and to Big Bear Lake. The flying field at the lake is 7000 feet above sea level and is said to be the highest flying field, from point of altitude, in this country.

Each pilot has fired 500 rounds of ammunition in air-gunner practice during the encampment. The gunnery practice has been held at Muroc Lake, near Mojave. Two ships have flown each day from Griffith Park to that lake, where they have fired at the planes' shadows as they passed over the dry bed of the lake.

Mrs. Bowen was Mrs. Hall's daughter.

Gen. Lahm Escorted to Clover Field by Ten Planes in Command of Moseley

On an inspection tour of United States Army flying fields, Brig.-Gen. Frank P. Lahm, superintendent of air transport schools of the United States Army, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., landed at Clover Field in a Douglas transport ship at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was escorted to Clover Field by ten planes, commanded by Maj. C. C. Moseley, from the Fortieth Division Air Corps, California National Guard. The general's plane was piloted by Lieut. Hodgson.

The large army plane was flown from San Antonio, Tex., with stops at El Paso and Tucson.

Immediately upon his arrival at Clover Field Gen. Lahm was taken to the National Guard airport at Griffith park where Lieut.-Gov. Buron Fitts reviewed the flying division, Brig.-Gen. Walter P. Tube Itself Only Slightly Damaged by Storm

No Drizzles Reported in Cities Along Coast

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 16. —The Colorado River has reached flood stage and serious damage is threatened at Needles, 150 miles from that city tonight. The Santa Fe Railway Company has ordered a force of men and materials mobilized.

Water will reach the record-breaking stage at Needles tomorrow, it is predicted, several inches higher than the high stage last spring when heavy damage to the city was caused. Cables holding the ferry in the bank near Needles broke tonight.

Representative Tilson, Republican floor leader, and other government officials are to make an inspection of the islands.

Following the result of a cloudburst down on the Los Angeles River in the vicinity of Soledad yesterday and left the channel partly or completely filled with rock and debris at three points between Lone Pine and the mouth of the river.

Water Bureau officials announced that the Aqueduct itself was damaged only slightly by the torrent of rock and earth hurling down the mountainside on the crest of the Sierra Nevada and that five days would be required for the complete clearance of all obstructions. Meanwhile, the water in the Aqueduct will have to be diverted but into Haiwee Reservoir, below the danger points, is well-filled and the loss will not be felt. Heavy rainstorms are reported to be scattered in Los Angeles, Ventura and other counties, with many other points in California by slight drizzles, which dampened the sidewalks. The surrounding country side received its first rain of the season.

Rainfall in Los Angeles was reported by the Weather Bureau records, but it could not be measured. Cloudy weather with occasional temperatures was forecast for today. The drizzle, sometimes of mist, was attributed by forecasters to a sudden lowering area in the Pacific to the south. The rains extended as far south as San Diego.

Water bureau officials, after receiving reports on the extent of the damage to the Aqueduct, moved promptly to repair it. Two steam shovels at Lone Pine for just such emergency were immediately ordered to the affected points. The work of clearing out the waterway was begun immediately, it was stated, and will not require more than a few days.

A section of 2000 yards of the Aqueduct at Slide Creek was almost entirely filled by the rock and debris from the mountainside. At this point, it was reported, 500 feet of the Aqueduct had been destroyed. A small section of the Aqueduct at Rock Springs also felt the force of the flood. Some slight damage was reported to the sides of the Aqueduct open along this stretch, but was stated to be negligible. Officials of the Water Bureau were busy tonight directing sweeping operations of the Rock Springs and fairly along the whole range, with the heaviest rains in the lower reaches. The rainstorms are the first reported in the mountains.

Reports of the first rain of the season. The showers were only of an inch at Fresno to .18 of an inch at Coalinga and exceedingly over the central part of the San Joaquin Valley. In the groves and raisin industry in the valley was considered a boon, the ground cleared during the day by the sun and wind and ready to dry up the moisture enough to prevent mould. Santa Barbara registered .18 of an inch and Burbank, Glendale and Pasadena the fall as too light to be measured. San Pedro got a trifle more, measuring .04 of an inch, and Santa Barbara reported .06 of an inch up to 4 p.m.

COUNCILMAN AROUSED BY PUPIL DEATH

Declares Better Protection for Children at School Crossings Needed

Councilman Rice-Wray made an urgent plea to the City Council to provide protection for school children in crossing heavily traveled streets, and he cited the fact that yesterday morning, in his Councilmanic district, one school-child, 10 years of age, was killed and three others injured at Sixtieth street near Van Ness avenue.

"For weeks," said the Councilman "I have been trying to get policemen assigned to this school crossing and have been told that the police force is too small to provide this protection. Now that a child has been killed there, something will be done.

"This condition undoubtedly exists at other parts of the city. We need more policemen and more traffic signals."

Councilman Martin cited the need of policemen at school crossings on West Adams street and Councilmen Hall and Sanborn also stressed the need of additional protection.

Councilman Alber, chairman of the finance committee, said the need of the additional protection exists, but added: "Where is the money to come from? The company installing the automatic signals has agreed to keep on putting in new signals and will wait until January for payment. That's co-operation."

The Council's Traffic and Lighting Committee was asked to make a report as to methods for improving protection at pedestrian crossings.

River Envoys and Gov. Young Confer Today

Members of California's Colorado River commission, en route for the seven-State conference at Denver, will stop off to confer with Gov. Young at Sacramento today, according to news dispatches from the northern city last night. The meeting with the Governor is understood to be merely for the purpose of checking up on details to be advanced at the coming conference.

The commissioners are returning to Denver to resume their deliberations after their lengthy conference last month. The division of waters of the Colorado between California and Arizona will be the first order of business at the conference, following which the question of power development will be taken up. Earl C. Pound, member of the commission, left the city last night to join his fellow-commissioners.

JAY GOULD HERE ON TRIP TO EAST

New Yorker Back From His Hawaiian Summer Home

Met by Brother Kingdon as Honolulu Liner Docks

Western Auto Supply Chief Also Among Arrivals

Jay Gould, sportsman and financier, returned yesterday from his summer home near Honolulu aboard the liner City of Honolulu en route to New York for what he described as "a lot of work." Three hundred and twenty other cabin passengers also came in on the liner. Mr. Gould was met by his brother Kingdon, who came from the East to meet him and with whom he will return across the continent.

"You see, I spend three months every year in Hawaii playing polo and tennis, mostly, and then it is a case of coming back to New York for nine months of work.

"I am mightily glad to hear that Tommy Hitchcock, Milburn and the rest of the boys on the American team beat the Englishmen for the polo championship, but I am just as sorry to see the tennis team lose out."

OTHER PASSENGERS

Other prominent passengers arriving included George Pepperdine, president of the Western Auto Supply Company, returning from a three months' tour of the Orient, accompanied by his daughters, Misses Florence and Esther.

Mr. Pepperdine says that conditions in the Philippines caught his interest more than any other part of the voyage.

"The Philippines have great commercial possibilities," he says, "but their development has been held down by their constant struggle for independence. I feel that American sovereignty in the islands is the only thing for their future prosperity, because they seem unfit to govern themselves and if they do gain independence they will be quickly grabbed up by another power.

AUTOS IN ISLANDS

"The automobile situation around Manila is much the same as it is here in Los Angeles and it is my plan to establish a western branch there very soon."

Gen. M. H. Sherman, president of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, also returned after a short sojourn in the islands. In Gen. Sherman's party returning aboard the City of Honolulu are E. H. Clark, owner of the Clark Hotel, and Mrs. Clark; Frank B. Keever of San Francisco, son-in-law of Gen. Sherman, and Mrs. Keever; Moses Hazeltine of Prescott, Ariz., accompanied by Mrs. Hazeltine and their son, and F. B. Sutton, vice-president of the Rodeo Land Company, and Mrs. Sutton.

Grand officers, drill teams and members of the Neighbors of Woodcraft, here for the district circle session of the order will leave Los Angeles on two special trains of several sections at 8:30 o'clock this morning for Riverside for the dedication of their new $300,000 home for the aged.

The ceremonies will be the closing feature of the district circle meeting of the order, held here this week. Preceding the ceremonies a barbecue will be served to 3000 anticipated guests from all parts of Southern California on the sixty-five acres owned by the order.

Riverside's Mayor will welcome the visitors and speeches by Judge Carlos Hardy of Los Angeles and Fred R. Pierce will feature the ceremonies. Drill teams from Seattle, Portland and Butte will take part in the dedication. In the evening a class of 500 is to be initiated into the order by Orange Circle of Riverside, with the grand officers participating.

Chicago Mayor and Party Leave for Return Trip

Mayor Thompson and his party of Chicago men concluded their brief visit in Los Angeles and left for Albuquerque, N. M., over the Santa Fe at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning. Continuing their journey after a visit at the New Mexico city, the Mayor's party will make a stop in Kansas before arriving in Chicago on the 20th inst.

The group is making a tour of the country with an announced intention of aiding Mississippi Valley flood-relief legislation, and the Boulder dam problem.

DOORS OPEN FOR DAHLIA SHOW

Number of Exhibitors Sets Record

Alene Withers and Prize Dahlia

WITH fifteen commercial growers and thirty-five amateur growers exhibiting, the eighth annual show of the Dahlia Society of Southern California opened yesterday at noon in the Biltmore ballroom. The show will continue until 10 o'clock tonight.

It is said there is a larger number of exhibitors this year than in any year previous, and of the 500 named varieties of dahlias recognized by the American Dahlia Society, practically every one is represented. It is estimated the total value of the dahlias in the show is approximately $15,000.

Among the new blooms which are being introduced this year is the Eugenia, a deep rose, hybrid cactus dahlia, developed by Mrs. Minnie L. Barker. She also is featuring the Runa, the Napal, a new crimson flower, the Blanca and the Orange Glory, which has not been put on the market as yet.

Other outstanding introductions are the Mabel G, a mallow purple dahlia from the Advance Dahlia Farms, the Santa Monica, which was chosen at the Santa Monica show as the most perfect variety to represent that city, and a new deep red, cactus grown by Raymond Hayes.

More than 100 silver cups and trophies were awarded for prize-winning dahlias in various classes, among which were the best general display, won by Gutting & Hanson; the largest dahlia class, won by W. E. Trosple, amateur grower, with a Siskiyou dahlia twelve and one-quarter inches in diameter; the best 1927 seedling, won by Raymond Hayes; the most artistic basket, by Gutting & Hanson, and the six best undissemmated seedlings, won by Lovell Swisher, Jr.

FEMININE VETERANS SEE CHIEF

National Head of Women's Overseas League Arrives on Tour of Inspection

Miss Lena Hitchcock of Washington, national president of the Women's Overseas Service League, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning to be the guest of the Los Angeles and Pasadena units at the Women's Athletic Club, 833 South Flower street. She will be here until Monday, although today will be spent in San Diego visiting the unit there.

The purpose of Miss Hitchcock's tour of the country is to get into closer touch with the various units of the league and to acquaint herself more fully with the work they are doing.

This Miss Hitchcock explained as work for provisions to take care of disabled overseas women, for the extension and amplification of the army hostess service and for adequate national defense.

Following a reunion of the women veterans, a dinner in honor of Miss Hitchcock was given last evening at the Women's Athletic Club, at which Elsie Janis and Princess Tsianina also were honor guests.

Miss Hitchcock went overseas in June, 1918, as a member of the first group of occupational therapy reconstruction aides. She was attached to base hospitals at Chateauroux and at Beau Desert, and on her return to the United States in 1919 she served for some time as chief aide to the occupational therapist at the Walter Reed Hospital.

RAPIER RECOUNTER ALL OFF

Archduke Leopold of Austria Still Would Like to Run His Made Through Count Szechenyi, ut Latter Has Lost Caste, So It's Too Degrading Now, n'est ce pas?

Archduke Leopold of Austria, the fiery young Hapsburg temporarily turned film sheik, definitely has foregone the pleasure of ramming his sword or rapier through some portion of the anatomy of Count Laszle Szechenyi, former Hungarian Ambassador to the United States.

Through his secretary and chief second, Alfred Neuhardt, the Archduke announced last night that he no longer is in quest of a duel with Count Szechenyi, now in Austria, where he has been ever since the young Hapsburg invited him to a little meeting with swords on the field of honor.

Not that the Archduke wouldn't enjoy nicking the Count a few times in various places, Mr. Neuhardt explained, but the Archduke has come to the conclusion that it now is impossible to engage in a duel with the Count in view of the latter's actions since he was challenged. Consequently, Mr. Neuhardt added, the Archduke, through him, has sent a bale or so of letters to everyone of account in the aristocratic and official circles of Europe calling their attention to the fact that Count Szechenyi is both "a mental and political cripple" and that meeting him on the field of honor, therefore, would be tantamount to exchanging ticklish pleasantries with a mere plebian.

Dueling, Mr. Neuhardt explained, is reserved by law in Austria and Hungary to army officers and aristocrats. Once challenged, a man of honor either must apologize or fight. If he is incapacitated, as the Count has been recently by the loss of an eye, the man challenged must appoint his right-hand second to fight for him.

But Count Szechenyi can find no one to fight his battles because he has not answered the challenges, the Archduke reasons. This places him among the outcasts as far as aristocratic and army circles are concerned and the Archduke, consequently, cannot force a fight on a man who has thus fallen from grace, Mr. Neuhardt added.

Archduke Leopold challenged the Count to a duel last July after the Count had refused to permit the Hungarian Embassy at Washington to be used as reference for Leopold's creditors. The Archduke and the Count also had been on different sides of the political fence in their own country, adding to the bitterness.

Mr. Neuhardt, however, is entirely satisfied with the outcome of the long-distance duel of words, telegrams and cablegrams, which at one time seemed fair to put him on the field of honor as the Archduke's representative.

"I don't wish to die; I'd much rather live in Hollywood," he explained in broken English. "Why not?"

Dry Enforcer Speaks Before W.C.T.U. Convention; Women Deplore Atheism and Prize Fights

ONTARIO, Sept. 16.—Maj. F. R. McReynolds, prohibition enforcement officer of Los Angeles, spoke before members of San Bernardino County Women's Christian Temperance Union in convention here today, and declared that a man who tries to enforce the law takes his life in his hands. He eulogized those who protect the country from its foes, particularly mentioning dry-law officers who must be constantly on the alert to prevent unloading of liquor within the boundaries of the nation.

Moving pictures came in for considerable commendation from Rev. H. Donald Clarey, another speaker, who said they should be put to as good use as the printing press, violin and organ. Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit of Upland compared the drink evil to a boa constrictor, entwining itself about the home, school and government.

Prize fights, atheism and lax judges were scored in a series of resolutions which were adopted. Another commended Judge Sheldon for his efforts to enforce the Wright Act, ordering the secretary to write a letter expressing appreciation to the jurist. Prize fights were characterized as degrading and the convention went on record as being in favor of making them unlawful in California. Asserting that atheists are attempting to spread their propaganda in schools, the body urged parents to be on the alert at all times to prevent the spread of the doctrine. Dry voters were asked to federate in one political party to stand as a unit against the vote of wet forces.

TWO KILLED AS CRASHES INJURE FOUR

Three More May Succumb to Injuries Suffered in Automobile Wrecks

Two persons were killed, three were so seriously injured that they are not expected to live and another was severely hurt but probably will recover in traffic accidents yesterday. The dead are Arthur Warino, 25 years of age, 6319 Long street, and Louise Morlock, 22, 234 West Ninety-first street.

The collision in which they were fatally injured occurred at Sixtieth street and Van Ness avenue, between Warino's car and one driven by E. L. Morrison, 601 West One Hundred and Twelfth street, police report, the machine driven by Warino skidding into a telephone pole and overturning. Two other girls who were in the automobile, Frances Mundie, 21, of 4821 Mascot street, and Gladys Warino, 20, sister of the dead man, received basal skull fractures and their chances for recovery are considered slight. They are at the General Hospital. Morrison was not blamed by police for the accident and was not held.

R. L. Walker, 32, of 130 East Fifty-seventh street, and Howard Bailey, 22, of the same address, were driving south on Main street last night and attempted to pass on the right a car driven by R. J. Williams, 5415 Hooper street, as Williams was making a right turn, according to witnesses. He had signaled for the turn when Walker's machine came up traveling at a high rate of speed, he told police, and crashed into his, turning over and pinning the two men under it. Walker sustained a basal skull fracture and is not expected to live, but Bailey escaped with a fractured collar bone and possible internal injuries. While his condition is serious, he probably will recover, according to Police Surgeon Saveren, who treated both patients at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Williams, who was not injured, was released after questioning.

Strawn Admits City's Industry Surprises Him

Montgomery Ward & Co. is keeping in close touch with the industrial growth of Los Angeles. This fact was revealed yesterday by Silas W. Strawn, legal representative of the firm, who, on the eve of his departure for Chicago, admitted that he had just completed a survey of the industrial district of Los Angeles.

"I am surprised at the industrial growth of Los Angeles during the last seven years," he said. "Seven years ago I visited Los Angeles and viewed its industrial status with consideration, but today on my return I must admit that I look upon the industrial growth of this city with enthusiasm.

"But," Mr. Strawn added, "the growth of industries here is just a characteristic of Southern California. Los Angeles has shown a marked activity in this field."

Mr. Strawn denied that he had visited Los Angeles for the purpose of selecting a site for a new branch office for Montgomery Ward & Co. "I don't even intend to make a recommendation to the firm," he said. "All I will do will be to report the growth of the Los Angeles industrial district to the board of directors. If they wish to establish a branch in this city that is for them to decide. They already have a warehouse here."

Mr. Strawn, who also is president of the American Bar Association, yesterday addressed members of the California Bar Association at the closing session of its convention in Coronado.

Today he will leave for Chicago, accompanied by Walter H. Jacobs and Ralph M. Shaw, who are associated with him in his legal business in the East.

W. C. Mushet at Death Door

With death expected momentarily from lingering illness that reached its climax within the past few days, members of the family of W. C. Mushet, former member of the Los Angeles City Council, were gathered at his beside last night at his home, 3431 North Catalina street, awaiting the end.

The former City Councilman, who also served as City Auditor six years ago, was said by attending physicians to be sinking lower with each passing hour.

MRS. JACOBSON IN RELAPSE

Stricken Wife of Accused Councilman Worse, and Mrs. Grimes's Condition Unimproved

Mrs. Carl I. Jacobson, who suffered a lumbago attack last week while attending the morals trial of her Councilman-husband and subsequently rallied for a few days, yesterday had a relapse and took a sudden turn for the worse, her physician, Dr. George N. Bartlett, announced last night.

"Mrs. Jacobson had a bad night," Dr. Bartlett said, "I have had to cut down her visiting list. She is not in a critical or dangerous condition although the affliction seems to have tightened up a bit."

MRS. GRIMES'S CONDITION

The condition of Mrs. Grimes, the woman with whom Councilman Jacobson was arrested August 5, last, remains unchanged and unimproved last night, her legal representatives, Attorneys Hickson and Steffes, announced. She is under the care of a physician and nurses at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. L. Cox.

SHIPS FEARED LOST IN STORM

Two Craft Week Overdue at Los Angeles Harbor

One Vessel Loses Propeller Off Mexican Coast

Recent Severe Gales There Basis of Anxiety

Word that the Dollar Line freighter Grace Dollar dropped her propeller off Cape San Lazzero, 600 miles south of here, was received at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday, and fears were expressed for several ships delayed or damaged by a gale which has been sweeping that section of the Pacific following the tropical storm of the 9th inst. Two ships are missing and are overdue about a week.

The Dollar around-the-world liner President Van Buron is standing by the Grace Dollar, but reports a heavy sea running. She was brought up by the Grace Dollar's SOS sent after the accident. The Grace Dollar has a crew of about thirty men, and is bound here from New York with miscellaneous cargo.

GOES TO RESCUE

The salvage steamer Peacock, in command of Capt. M. A. Varnum, left the harbor at 3:30 p.m. yesterday to go to the aid of the disabled steamer and should reach her Sunday.

The British motorship Cape of Good Hope, which left Balboa, C. Z., August 28, and should have been here a week ago, has not been heard from and as she carries radio equipment it is feared she has met with disaster. Her master is Capt. H. L. Lamont.

The Mexican steamer Bolivar, which left Salina Cruz, Mex., August 22 and was due here a week ago, also has not been heard from and grave fears are expressed for her safety. The British tank steamer Invarader, due here three days ago from Dallas to load oil, put into San Diego Thursday night out of fuel, not having enough to reach this port.

NEWS EXPECTED

The arrival of the Panama Mail liner City of Panama today is expected to bring the first detailed news of the effect of the storm on the Mexican West Coast. She was at Mazatlan when the storm broke there the 10th inst. and put to sea, riding out the gale for three days before returning to port. Capt. C. J. Holland sent his officers and men ashore to aid in rescue work and sailed Wednesday.

The Grace Dollar left Balboa the 5th inst., and, according to word received here, is believed to have strained her tailshaft in heavy weather. On three successive days her speed dropped from her usual 295 miles a day to 200, 217 and 257 miles, respectively, up to Thursday night. The Grace Dollar is of 4217 tons net and Capt. M. C. Didricksen is her master.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

ONE point, at least, seems clear. Whatever is the matter with Chicago, it isn't Mayor Bill Thompson.

But, oh, Bill; oh, Bill; oh, Bill! what is the matter with the place, anyhow?

What is it that makes everybody in Chicago so rude and ill-mannered? The gunmen who shoot you aren't as bad as the hotel clerks who insult you; the policemen who have a go-to-hell manner, and store clerks who look bored to tears because they have to wait on you.

THEY'RE IRISH!

That is one thing you have to say for New York. The Irish traffic cops are civil and courteous.

Los Angeles has been pretty bad in the matter of unmannerly cops. They are getting better. They could be still better.

A boorish cop is absolutely inexcusable. The only reason he is a cop is to serve, direct and protect the public. A rude cop is about as useful as a one-legged messenger boy.

If this town were not ridden by cheap politicians, the rule for cops would be: One single rude remark or discourteous retort and out on the pavement.

THE SOFT ANSWER

In other ways than this I think that Los Angeles is a particularly polite town.

You are more likely to get a pleasant reply to a question asked than in any other place I have ever seen—except San Francisco.

And less likely to get the right answer. A Los Angeles oil-station boy will send you in the wrong direction with the sweetest manner of any person alive.

CROOKS ARE COMING

The crooks are coming in great numbers this winter, we are told. But there is always some balm in Gilead.

When the crooks come it means that the tourists also are coming. Those shifty-eyed lads never tread grass-grown roads.

JUST AMATEURS

When these stick-up experts read of the transactions of Berman and Lewis in the Julian stock affray, they must weep from mortification.

Think of the weary hours they have wasted robbing oil stations at night for the money that happened to be in the till; and the inconveniences they have endured just to rob a few banks.

Mere amateurs!

GIRL AVIATOR

It seems suddenly to have become a problem of international import—whether this girl aviator is Miss Ruth Elder or Mrs. Womack.

The one who seems least interested is Mr. Womack.

The only fact quite clear about thus burning debate is that she ought not to fly under any name.

Col. Lindbergh got to Paris because he is an experienced, practiced, scientific aviator. And he made the trip for a scientific purpose. This girl is going to fly for the obvious purpose of getting her name in the paper.

DANGEROUS MEANNESS

All through the British Empire bans have been put on American movies—for no other reason than that they are succeeding too well. In all British possessions exhibitors now are obliged to show a majority of British-made pictures.

Father Who Killed Son He Worshiped Declared Deranged by Coroner's J

TEST OF SANITY WILL BE MADE

Man Listens With Bent Head to Daughter's Story

Police Unable to Produce Motive for Slaying

Confessed Filicide Declared Devoted to Family

A man who killed the one he loved the most—his only son—yesterday listened with bent head while his two young daughters told of his act.

That was the scene at the county Morgue when an inquest was conducted over the body of 11-year-old John Minarich, who was strangled to death by his father, Matt Minarich, Thursday night.

After listening to the testimony of the two girls and other witnesses the Coroner's jury brought in a verdict in which they declared the father "deranged" and recommended that he be placed under observation by the proper authorities.

Acting on their suggestion Detective Lieutenant Paul Stevens of the police homicide squad said the case will be taken up with the District Attorney's office today and that an insanity complaint probably will be sought.

DEVOTED FATHER

The testimony at the inquest outlined one of the strangest cases brought to the attention of the authorities for years. It drew a picture of a father who was devoted to his family and worshiped his son. And the son was an obedient youngster, much loved by all. Nor could any of the witnesses think of any motive for the murder except that the father's mind, weakened from long illness, temporarily had become deranged.

'Dad always worshiped the boy, we all did," was the tearful testimony of Anna Minarich, 18-year-old daughter. "I don't know why he did it. He must have been out of his head."

The girl, questioned by Deputy County Coroner Monfort, related that her father for a long time had been a victim of illness. There were two previous operations and he faced a third for ulcers of the stomach. Unable to work he worried about his two previous operations and he faced nervously about, muttering.

BOY PLEADS FOR LIFE

Thursday night he took his hat and told his wife that he was going for a short walk from his home at 3551 East Fourth street. The son accompanied him. They came to a ditch on East Second street between Loreno and Velasco streets.

"Minarich told me that an instant before the attack a maze came over him," testified Police Officer Lide, "and he suggested to the boy that they walk in the ditch. He grabbed the boy around the throat with his right hand and placed his left over his mouth. The boy managed to release himself and bit his father's finger; he pleaded for his life."

"I'm at a loss to determine any motive for the murder," the officer declared in concluding his testimony.

Pauline Minarich told of her father's return home.

"I choked him," he told her, and trembled all over. "God knows why I did it."

FAMILY AT HIS SIDE

Dr. Homer Rue, 625 Lorena street, told of treating Minarich and declared he was in poor physical condition, having lost considerable weight in a short time.

"He appeared quiet and sad," testified the physician.

Upon advice of Attorney George W. Parkins, who represented him, Minarich, although present throughout the inquest, declined to take the witness staud. He mumbled a refusal when asked if he cared to tell his story, and resumed his bent posture, head in hands.

Despite their father's act, his family rallied about him yesterday, apparently convinced that he was not responsible. The daughters put their arms around him while waiting for the jury's verdict and tried to cheer him. They broke into tears when he was led back to jail after the inquest.

"He has always been a wonderful father," they said.

Oil Fraud Case Ruling Monday

United States District Judge James yesterday took under advisement a motion to quash the indictment against B. Frank Wood and thirteen associates of the Invader Oil Corporation of Muskogee, Okla., charged with mail fraud in connection with the promotion of the $20,000,000 enterprise.

Decision on the motion will be given by Judge James Monday and in event the motion is overguled, the defendants will be placed on trial Tuesday morning.

ARMED PARADE'S AIM EXPLAINED

Thirteen Men Go up Spring Street With $1,500,000 Bonds for Bank

This will satisfy the curiosity of persons who saw thirteen men marching up Spring street yesterday afternoon.

Twelve of them were heavily armed. Of the twelve, three were deputy sheriffs, three bank guards and six were guards employed by bond brokers. The thirteenth man carried a little bag.

In the bag was $1,500,000 worth of the bonds of the Glendale Union High School district. They recently were sold by the Board of Supervisors and were being delivered from the Hall of Records to the Security Trust and Savings Bank at Fifth and Spring streets for the account of the buyers.

LIDDECOAT GIVES TALK ON HIS TRIP

"Brother Tom" Cites City's Leadership in Caring for "Down-and-Outers"

"Los Angeles with its Midnight Mission has come closer to solving one of the outstanding social problems of American cities today," said Brother Tom Liddecoat, superintendent and founder of the mission, yesterday following his return from two months' tour of the country.

BROTHER TOM LIDDECOAT.

Ten years without a vacation was the lot of Brother Tom until last July. Friends found his health was beginning to break. A number of wealthy Angelenos made a proposition to him, suggesting he and his daughter, Mary, 20 years of age, tour the country with all expenses paid. "Brother Tom" made a survey of social welfare work in the large cities.

Los Angeles, with its privately operated, nonprofit Midnight Mission, is second to no city in caring for its "down and outers," Brother Tom asserts. Among the cities favorably impressing him are Boston and New York, operating municipal lodging houses and Montreal and Denver, which maintain city farms. It is the dream of "Brother Tom" that the time will arrive when the Midnight Mission will teach various trades and citizenship.

The Midnight Mission is partially supported by the Community Chest, most of its operating expenses being defrayed by personal donations, according to its founder.

While at South Bend, Ind., he was the guest of Paul Hoffman, vice-president of the Studebaker Company. Since 1878 "Brother Tom" has either driven a Studebaker wagon or automobile, he says. He will speak at the mission, 136 South Los Angeles street, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Organized to operate an airplane field and school for aviators on the I. W. Heilman ranch north of Seal Beach, the Crawford Motor and Airplane Manufactory, Inc., was granted a stock-selling permit yesterday by the State Corporation Department.

Other activities of the company, according to the permit, will be the manufacture of modern airplanes and motors invented by W. F. Crawford, head of the corporation and one of its incorporators. Crawford has been conducting an airplane business at Long Beach for several years.

and a meek minority of those made in America.

If America should retort by prohibiting the import of British-made woolens, British-made cutlery and other British-manufactured goods, they might be sorry they spoke.

They are simply tempting Providence, because the time is not far distant when American manufacturers will be able to drive foreign competition off the map.

STREET OPENING ASKED

BEACH CLUB OPENING DATE POSTPONED

The formal opening of the Deauville Beach Club on the strand at Santa Monica, originally scheduled for Monday evening, has been postponed until Wednesday night. claring their client was "lured" to the Beagle-street cottage and there entrapped in a compromising situation with Mrs. Grimes. Then, they say, they will proceed with testimony to prove their contentions.

A conference was conducted in the defense battery yesterday, and the inference is left that Mrs. Jacobson will be called to the stand to testify in her husband's behalf. Her present illness may interrupt such plans, they say, although every effort is being made by Dr. Bartlett to return her to the courtroom next week.

DISTRICT DECLARED UNDER THIRTEEN JINX

The number thirteen has proved a hoodoo so far as the Thirteenth Councilmanic District is concerned, according to a letter received by the City Council yesterday from Ethelin Lewis of 4312 Pasadena avenue. She asked that the Council change the designation of this district to Pico or any other word that has no tinge of relationship to thirteen.

The first Councilman from this district, after it had been created and numbered by the Council, was Joseph F. Fitzpatrick. Shortly after taking office he was arrested and convicted of receiving a bribe and now is serving a term at San Quentin Prison.

Carl I. Jacobson was appointed to fill out Fitzpatrick's term and then was elected last June for a two-year term. Jacobson recently was arrested and now is on trial on a morals-law violation charge.

"In the face of what has transpired since the jinx number was given our district," Ethelin Lewis wrote to the Council, "you will no doubt admit that it is proving a hoodoo."

The Council made no comment on the letter and it was ordered filed, which is to say, buried in the archives.

the Colorado River, the head of which is expected to reach Yuma the 31st inst., according to reports received at the irrigation district yesterday and today. Heavy rains in Colorado and upper reaches of the river swelled the stream on Wednesday to 104,000 acre feet, which by yesterday morning had increased to 117,000 feet at Grand Canyon.

Yesterday afternoon, however, the flood waters had receded considerably at Grand Canyon, with a flow of 87,000 feet reported. An appreciable increase indoor was also reported at Hopoc and, with heavy rains reported on the Gila in Arizona, the discharge at Yuma is today reported as 48,500 acre feet.

Irrigation district officials announced that they do not anticipate any ill results from the flood waters in the Colorado River deltas.

LIGHT SHOWERS REDUCE FIRE HAZARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—A trace of rain in the Bay district and showers throughout Northern and Central California, which registered as much as .09 of an inch at Fresno, greatly reduced the fire hazard in forests, the Weather Bureau reported tonight.

Although there were brief but heavy showers down the peninsula, San Francisco's precipitation was only a trace. It was the second rain of the month, a similar shower having occurred the 3rd inst. Forecaster Reed said conditions will be unsettled in Central California tomorrow, with light showers probably from the Siskiyous to the southern end of the Santa Clara Valley.

JENSEN AND LEO ON FLIGHT EAST

Dole Race Winner Hops Off With Lion Passenger

Seeks San Diego-New York Nonstop Record

Messages Received from Plane Over Nevada

BY READ KENDALL
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 16.—A great silvery girl roared into the air from the Camp Kearney mesa here today in an attempted nonstop flight to New York with a lion as the sole passenger. Martin Jensen, who won second prize in the Dole trans-Pacific air race is the pilot who is attempting the hazardous air voyage with the 320-pound beast at his back in a specially constructed steel cage.

The beast is Leo, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer trade-mark lion. Up to a late hour the only word received from Jensen at the Mahoney Aircraft Corporation headquarters here was from Las Vegas, Nev., where telegraph operators reported the receipt of messages from a radio with a forty-meter wave length, the same which is carried by Jensen.

Leo acted like a veteran when he was transferred to his new cage in the plane and the only reaction from him was when the plane hit a bump as it sped down the field. Leo got up, looked around and then sat down, seemingly enjoying his new experience.

PERFECT TAKE-OFF

Jensen made a perfect take-off with the plane which carried a load of approximately 4700 pounds. He took off in a westerly direction and then slowly pointed the nose of his ship toward the east, flying at a low altitude to conserve his gasoline supply. He took 310 gallons aboard to make the flight to New York in twenty-two hours. It is his aim, he said, to shatter the record established four years ago by Lieuts. Oakley and MacReady, who made the trip from San Diego to New York in twenty-six hours and thirty minutes.

Strangely, Leo was least annoyed by all of the minute details of the hop-off. He graciously posed for pictures, enjoyed several nice, big juicy steaks and then lay down to let happen what would. He was fed by C. B. Craig, Los Angeles humane officer, who approved the flight. Special contraptions were placed on the machine to feed Leo with milk during his long, lonesome flight.

Approximately fifty persons were present to witness the start of the flight which may add new history to commercial aviation. Among the spectators were Jensen's wife, officials of M.-G.-M., R. F. Mahoney of the aircraft corporation, friends of the flyer and newspaper men. Louis B. Mayer, sponsor of the flight, sent his best wishes to Jensen by wire.

RYAN MONOPLANE

The plane which Jensen is piloting is a Ryan B.I. monoplane similar to the one in which Col. Lindbergh spanned the Atlantic. It had been originally planned to start the flight tomorrow but the start was advanced a day when preparations were completed earlier than expected.

For food Jensen took three sandwiches, a bottle of hot coffee and a canteen of water.

Word was received this afternoon by the aircraft people that members of the Amateur American Radio League would co-operate in keeping in touch with the plane. One member in San Diego reported hearing a message but did not realize its importance until Jensen flashed his name. Jensen planned on sending out messages every fifteen minutes.

The hop-off was made at exactly 10:12 a.m. The ship took to the air after a 3000-yard run and Jensen's speed was estimated at approximately 120 miles per hour at the start.

KISSES VALUED AT JUST $1

Mrs. Bonham's $50,000 Suit Falls Short of Goal and She Must Pay Court Costs, Too

The equity of Mrs. Beatrice Bonham in whatever love and kisses Mrs. Ada Atkinson may have received from John Wayne Bonham is worth just $1, the jury which has considered the matter and heard evidence for five days held in a verdict returned late yesterday.

This leaves Mrs. Bonham a somewhat costly victory with which to console herself for the loss of Bonham's affections. For, under the law, the verdict being less than $300, she will have to pay her own costs, one item of which will be $120 for five days of the time of twelve jurymen at $2 each per diem.

As between Mrs. Bonham and the twelve good men and women and true of the jury, the verdict shows a marked variance in the valuation placed on her share of Mr. Bonham's affections—a difference of $49,999, to be exact. Mrs. Bonham in her complaint had assessed her equity in her husband's esteem at $50,000 and had asked judgment in that sum.

Bonham is a Hollywood interior decorator. Mrs. Atkinson is a divorcee and widely known in Pasadena. Mrs. Bonham's principal complaint was a charge that the evening of June 16 Mrs. Atkinson received numerous caresses from Bonham while the two were seated on a davenport in the studio of Mrs. Atkinson's home. Mrs. Bonham said she looked through the window and saw this. Both Mrs. Atkinson and Bonham denied it, however, and maintained that they are just a couple of business acquaintances.

DEDICATION PLANS READY

Consecration Services at First Unitarian Church Will be Conducted Tomorrow

Dedication services for the new auditorium of the First Unitarian Church, West Eighth street near Vermont avenue, said to be one of the finest in the city, will be conducted tomorrow morning. The church was erected at a cost of nearly $250,000. Dr. A. Eustace Hayden, a Baptist minister, will give the address of dedication assisted by Rev. E. Burdette Backus, minister of the new church. Dr. Hayden heads the department of comparative religion at the University of Chicago.

Admission to the auditorium for the morning service will be by card only, until 10:45 o'clock, when any remaining seats will be open to the public. This is made necessary because the adult membership of the congregation exceeds the seating capacity of the new building. Provision has been made, however, to reproduce the service by loud speaker in a second auditorium and in the patio, thus providing accommodation for several hundred more persons.

The church will keep open house in the afternoon. A platform meeting will be conducted at 8 p.m. The speakers will be Rev. Berkeley Blake of San Francisco, recently appointed field secretary of the Pacific Coast conference of Unitarians; Rev. Theodore Curtis Abel of the Hollywood Unitarian Society, and Mr. Backus. The musical program of the morning will be repeated at the evening service.

Rathbun, donated his services.

I do not claim to be an expert, but I was born into a family of twelve brothers and we have happily reared four sons, now young men, so I feel pretty close to the 'Youth' situation." Dear Friends:
We begin on Sunday "The Youth Forum" for the Sunday meetings of this season. We hear a lot about "the revolt of youth." There are 150,000 college-university and high school students in Los Angeles. I am going to devote one service a week to them. They will choose the subjects.
If their problems are solved, the nation is secure. Older persons will not be looked out, but everything Sunday evenings will be for youth. The total youth of Greater Los Angeles is invited.
Two great services tomorrow—come twice.
Yours for the best generation the world has seen.

THE BIG RACE

Anyhow the leaders in the big league are giving the fans a run for their money.

RELATIVELY SPEAKING

One amateur philosopher says that the problem of relativity is how to avoid entangling alliances with his wife's relatives.

THEIR SPECIALTY

You're dead wrong if you think modern young people know nothing about discipline. Most of them are expert at disciplining their parents.

DRY PASSAGE

Maybe the day will come when the Pacific will be paved and we can push over to China with a wheelbarrow or bring out the good old bicycle.

THE YOUNG IDEA

The idea that youth must be served may be all right, but it's a mighty bad thing when youth gets the idea that it must be served on a silver platter.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

California does not produce all the beauties in the country, but when any are discovered in other sections they hurry right out here to join their kind.

POPULAR SPORTS

By this time next year the great American public will be discussing the Cabinet possibilities to follow the election. All citizens are great prospectors.

LONG DELAY

A suburban father says that if he were being condemned to death, and wished a long reprieve, he would petition to be sentenced to be shot at sun-rise.

EARNEST STUDENTS

You may not imagine that baseball managers are deeply interested in art subjects, but they're constantly asking: "What's wrong with this pitcher?"

THE PURSUIT

We are told that happiness is not attainable without effort. It must be that in the pursuit of happiness so many folks are pinched for breaking the speed limit.

A NEW WRINKLE

The new dance called the kinkajou was designed to take the kinks out of the old and put them in the young, but it takes more than one new wrinkle to get waltz lovers into the fold.

UNNECESSARY NOISE

Chicago is waging war against noise. Iron-shod horses, rattling wagons, leaking mufflers will be made to pipe down. The air will be reserved eventually for the chatter of machine guns.

SHE HAS FOLLOWERS

It may be true that a girl's head is often turned by winning a beauty contest, but she has the satisfaction of knowing that every time she turns it a lot of people turn theirs to enjoy the move.

NATIONAL SERENITY

With President Coolidge back on the job in Washington and the White House burnished with a new roof the country is in an enviable condition. There is absolutely nothing to worry about. Nothing can possibly happen to dent our pelts.

ACCORDING TO THEIR LIGHTS

An insane asylum inmate has designed an improved electric lamp that uses less current and shines brighter than forms now in use. This invention may not increase the self-confidence of the examiners who said he was crazy, but it ought to encourage the other inmates considerably.

GOOD OLD COUNTRY

One of the things which make an American proud of his country at this season is the multiplicity of reminders that practically all the parents one knows—and especially those who say "I seen" and "I done"—feel keenly their duty to give their children the best educations they can.

OUR SHAFTS ALL SUNSHINE

Coal-burning climes have our sympathy, but as a matter of fact the news of the termination of a coal strike is often the first information most of us absorb on that subject out here where the sun is the thing and never goes on strike. Old Sol works one shift a day and the warmth comes from shafts that need no drilling.

BLONDS AND CRIME

According to the records of Scotland Yard—as far back as they can be reviewed, 76 per cent of the persons convicted of crime in England have had light hair and complexions. This would seem to establish strongly the penchant of the blonds for careers of crime. We don't know how to stop this unless they can be persuaded to go to the drug store.

CANAL ZONE SOVEREIGNTY

Panama, a little republic about the size of the State of Maine, which we put on the map, fostered and made politically and financially, wants control of the great waterway we built through its isthmian neck of land and has presented its fantastic claim to the League of Nations.

This claim is in contravention of all former and existing agreements and understandings. It is unjust and untenable, and should be set aside as much in the interest of Panama, in its small way, as in that of the United States and all Latin America, in their much larger way. Unless the canal is controlled by our government its utility will wane and the protection of the three Americas will be greatly lessened.

We acquired from Panama in 1903 the right of occupancy of a strip of territory ten miles wide and forty-eight miles long, known as the Canal Zone, and this right was stipulated as perpetual. Under the treaty of July 28, 1926, Panama agreed to co-operate in defending the canal and accorded the United States the control of aviation and radio activities in Panama. The United States agreed not to set up in the Canal Zone any business which would compete with the commerce of Panama. This treaty took the place of the former one in part, but an understanding was reached that still another and more specific agreement would be made to supplant that of last year.

The new treaty now awaiting ratification by Congress and the National Assembly of Panama, forbids anyone to dwell in the Canal Zone except officers or employees of the United States, of the Panama Canal or the Panama Railroad Company, or contractors and their employees and those furnishing supplies to the classes mentioned. It provides for reciprocal free trade with Panama, and Panama agrees to co-operate in all ways with our government in the protection and defense of the canal, agreeing also to "consider herself in a state of war in the case of any war in which the United States should be a belligerent."

This latter clause was not in the original treaty, and it is a stickler with Panama—the one stipulation about which she seems to have any real qualms, though there are others as to which she seems to be more or less dubious. But in agreeing to assist us in the protection of the canal, Panama automatically allies herself with us in case of war, and it is not easy to conceive how she could do this without considering herself in a state of war. And yet her most astute statesmen do not seem to be able to grasp this point, or possibly they blink it because of the responsibility it involves.

But Panama was the first nation of Latin America to join the United States and its allies in declaring war on Germany. Panama did this not only from friendly feeling but because we had financed the nation, helped in its sanitation and in setting up a school system which from a nucleus of a single public school in 1903 has grown to 446 public schools with 1492 teachers. If Panama now feels no war obligations to us and insists upon its claim of sovereignty over the Canal Zone it should be reminded of Britain's attitude toward Egypt in a similar respect—that since England always has defended Egypt, Egypt must help defend the Suez Canal. It should also be reminded of what Charles Evans Hughes said in his Minneapolis speech four years ago:

> We have established a waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans—the Panama Canal. Apart from obvious commercial considerations, the adequate protection of this canal—its complete immunity from any adverse control—is essential to our peace and security. We intend in all circumstances to safeguard the Panama Canal.

While Panamanian control might not be "adverse," it would be adventitious, or foreign control, and is not to be conceded for one moment. All things considered, it is hardly conceivable that the World Court, to which Panama intimates it will refer this grave question, will recognize Panama's claim to sovereignty over the Canal Zone. If it should do so it not only would impair its own reputation as an impartial court of justice, but its decision would be a serious affront to America. However, such an affront is not in the least likely to be offered. We have acquired full and valid sovereignty over the Canal Zone, and the world well knows that we intend to maintain that sovereignty.

YEAST RISING

The Chinese invented the mariner's compass; but never sailed the seas. They were the first to produce gunpowder; but shot it off only in firecrackers. They discovered movable type; but four-fifths of their half billion people never learned to read and write.

Printing is credited with helping to start the present trouble. But its adaptation came from America. James Nen, Chinese Yale man, simplified the art for the common people. Now his countrymen are beginning to read and think. The leaven of ideas is working.

When the other powers were plucking China, after the Boxer uprising, Uncle Sam gave back his share of the indemnity and the money was used to send the brightest boys of the Flowery Kingdom to American universities. All expenses for travel, board and tuition have been met from that source.

One hundred hand-picked youths were selected the first year. More than 1600 have already passed through the alembic of democracy. About 400 are distributed among American universities at the present time.

T. Z. Koo, university graduate, railroad man and educational leader in his country, says in an interview with William G. Shepherd in Collier's, that these indemnity men head the largest private banking systems in China. One conducts a great tourist agency. Some are editors and book publishers. Others head engineering firms. Many are in the Nationalist government. A Harvard man is Nationalist director of labor unions. One is foreign commissioner at Shanghai.

When the Russo-Japanese war was in progress, the combatants were doing their fighting on Chinese soil. A parallel case would be for Canada and Mexico to fight it out in Minnesota. Uncle Sam boomed out across the Pacific for them to get out.

And when China kicked out the Manchus, the great American uncle was the first to recognize the new republic. The younger generation has not forgotten these three acts of kindness.

So while the fight in the Nationalist party was in the balance for a time over Russian or American ideals, the Bolshevists were finally bounced. The New China has the spirit of America.

TRANSCONTINENTAL CROOKS

Honest, hard-earned millions of dollars have followed and are following other honest millions into the caches of callous crooks operating at strategic points in the United States. The greater part of the huge sums lost by investors could have been saved had persons of known honesty in responsible positions fulfilled their full moral trust to their clients and associates. A crook by himself cannot reach very far into the savings of thrifty earners but when his thinly plated stocks in trade are displayed with the names of locally trusted persons as window dressing, the crook's business flourishes and its victims are legion.

Los Angeles has not been the only sufferer—other great cities that admit to financial sophistication have been victimized by tremendous swindles. Los Angeles, however, has had far too much experience with transcontinental crooks during the last ten years to pass over the subject without appealing to financial leaders in the city for a more careful study of financial operators whom they sponsor, or at times appear to sponsor, by allowing the use of their names in connection with doubtful propaganda.

There is a mistaken policy in some quarters of judging a man by personal observation alone. It is tradition of the Old West that one should discount a man's record or overlook it entirely and replace it with a personal judgment. This outworn custom doubtless has contributed to the success of high-powered crooks who have hurried from city to city finally to fasten themselves upon the financial arteries of Los Angeles. To be sure, there are those who begin their illegal practices on this coast and work their way eastward, but the careless deficiencies of other sections do not mitigate the hardships caused by similar lapses here.

The fact remains that persons who have been ensnarled in the meshes of the law in other cities have in past years come to Los Angeles and entered business here in association with men who have enjoyed the confidence of the investing public. Sometimes these visiting crooks have secured window dressing by giving out directorships, sometimes the association has been only by undenied intimation, but by one cunning means or another they have managed to use or misuse local names with enough authority to assure their victims of their integrity.

No financial institution would consider the employment of an individual who had in some other city been convicted of a crime, dismissed for a rank indiscretion or signal misdemeanor, or run out of town just in time to escape just penalties, yet persons fitting these classifications have been able to enter business here and secure by fraud millions of dollars earned and saved by Los Angeles citizens.

The obligation of men in positions of trust and honor does not end with the discharge of the duties for which they are paid. They owe it to their employers, associates, patrons and fellow-citizens to refuse the use of their names by any person with a reputation and record less honored and respected than their own. They should associate with doubtful personages in business no more than they would allow such personages to be associated with them in their established offices. They should not overlook bad records nor fail to investigate newcomers seeking support. With such a guard against transcontinental crooks, none of them will ever again be able to come here with the proceeds of frauds perpetrated elsewhere as a nest egg for a final harvest of millions to be cached until the tumult dies and they are at liberty to enjoy the ill-gotten fruits of their crime.

THE BLOODY METROPOLIS

Looks as if Chicago would have to pass its bloody crown to Detroit. The reputation of the Illinois city as an arena of homicide and slaughter has been gained under false pretenses. According to police statistics, Detroit had 225 murders last year, which is twice as many as were bumped off violently in Chicago. Up to the first of the present month there had been ninety-four illicit killings in Detroit and only fifty-five in Chicago. Unless Chicago is in position to annex Herrin she will soon be outclassed as a center of murderous devastation. There is more shooting in Chicago but it is not as accurate as in Detroit. The score in the Michigan metropolis is almost as heavy as in New York, although the latter city is four times as vast in population. Those who would seek the sanguinary capital of the nation must cast their eyes toward Michigan.

A NOISY CORRIDOR

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm predicts war within the next ten years. Though there is considerable political unrest in Europe, all the nations profess an ardent wish for peace and one wonders on what he bases his grim forecast. The Danzig Corridor, which is by no means the only irritating problem in Europe, is the starting point of so many others that until it is solved the "jealousies and suspicions" of which he speaks will continue to harass Europe.

The position in which that corridor places Germany is almost unbearable. It is as if Canada possessed a strip of ground (a corridor) from Lake Ontario to New York City, over which she exercised sovereignty, thus dividing the United States into two sections, with the intervening territory under Canada. The provisions for the corridor were forced on Germany by the treaty of Versailles.

In the Locarno Pact, Germany accepted the western boundary between herself and France and Belgium, agreeing to raise no question about it in the future, and both England and Italy guaranteed the continuance of the boundary as thus accepted. But Germany made no such agreement with Poland concerning the eastern boundary, which is only another way of referring to the corridor, and neither England nor Italy guaranteed the continuance of that boundary. Germany did agree to use only diplomatic means to change the status of that corridor, if she wished to do so, but that agreement is almost meaningless.

The unsolved problem of the corridor is the powder keg of Europe, the possible explosion of which is feared, and to guard against such a contingency, certain nations do not feel free to accept measures intended to perpetuate peace in Europe. France delays evacuation of the Rhine provinces, though basing her actions, for diplomatic reasons, on other grounds. But the fact is, as she guaranteed Poland in the possession of the corridor, she feels that she must remain in an advantageous position on the Rhine bridgeheads in case of trouble with Germany, no matter how remote such trouble seems to be.

CRADLE SNATCHERS

The film folk are going into the colleges and high schools for their reinforcements. Next thing we know some venturesome pioneer in the industry will start a raid on the kindergartens. How many mothers will stand anxiously at the gate lest their little one be kidnaped and carried off to a thousand dollar contract?

WHAT AN APPETITE

By James J. Montague

Of dietary partners
I've known a goodly lot.
Down to the dregs fried ham and eggs
Will always reach the spot.
Good old corned beef and cabbage
Are prized by hosts of men,
But new caught trout with sauerkraut!
Are something else again.

A glorious confection
On which to dine and dream—
A rare dessert with which to flirt
Are strawberries and cream.
They bring one all the gusto
The nicest taste could wish,
But new caught trout with sauerkraut!
Great Caesar, what a dish!

To men of modest incomes
And men of ample means,
There is a sure and certain lure
To luscious pork and beans,
Served lavishly together
On large and roomy plates,
But new caught trout with sauerkraut!
Were never meant for mates.

I'm fond of beer and pretzels,
Of veal and kidney pie;
My memory still will throb and thrill
At thoughts of rock and rye
For cakes with sassidge gravy
My fondness I confess,
But new caught trout with sauerkraut
Must be an awful mess!

OBSERVATIONS ON EUROPE

BY THOMAS F. FORD

In France one is struck by the energy and activity of the people. Everyone seems busy. The farms are thoroughly cultivated, but the methods are still primitive. The roads are in good condition, railway trains are crowded and a heavy volume of freight is handled by both rail and water.

Everywhere industry waxes apace. It is not, of course, the mass production that we know, for France is turning out a vast volume of luxury goods for the world's markets. Here the old handcrafts still flourish. There are whole communities that spend their lives, and have for hundreds of years, in the making of one commodity, like combs or buttons. Here is a commerce of vanity. The skill of generations goes into such things as bead work, jewelry and certain types of handcraft. Take the case of fitting reptile skin on umbrella handles. There are just a few craftsmen in Paris who are expert in this. They keep the secret within their own families and those who desire this type of work must seek them out and await their convenience.

In the large manufacturing districts of the north and of Lorraine one sees an effort to put France in line with the other great industrial nations, with high-power machinery and modern methods. But France's future, as her past, seems to be in the line of specialized products marked by good taste, artistic creation and a certain shrewdness as to what color or design or glitter will give the irresistible appeal to the shopper.

France, as always, has the ideal in mind of being self-sustaining. This is perhaps intensified since the war. Hence, a large proportion of her food-supply is produced at home. This makes food much cheaper than in countries such as England that depend upon manufactured exports to buy food from abroad. There is more wheat grown in France than there used to be; dairy products are on the increase; wine, honey, nuts and fruits pour into the home market. The result is that while the franc is in a bad condition and wages are painfully low, the people, who know how to make every centime count, are carrying on and slowly working their way back to stability.

No one who does not get in touch with the French people can possibly hope to understand the nervous state of uncertainty they all feel because of the ever-present danger of another war. With Germany, revived and waxing strong, on one hand; with Italy experiencing a strange sort of industrial prosperity under the iron rule of an able and unscrupulous dictator, whose program of a greater Italy is no secret, and with half a dozen new European states feeling their nationality and ready to assert it on the field of battle, it is little wonder that France has bad dreams. Her hope of security lies in wise diplomacy, in the protection given by the League of Nations, in a controlled but watchful spirit.

After the statement is made that France seems to be busy and to be carrying on business in the normal way, it is only natural to expect the question: "Why, if France is doing well, does she not pay her debt to the United States?" There are several ways to answer this, the most effective being that she is paying her debt. For she has made two payments to the United States Treasury on her war account amounting to $20,000,000. This is not much considering that she owes something over $4,000,000,000, but it is not at all fair to call this great nation a welsher because she is slow in coming to an understanding as to just what she will pay. It must be remembered that the war was fought largely on French soil. Therefore, France has been busy rehabilitating her disordered war districts and reconstructing hundreds of villages, manufacturing plants and other structures that were totally destroyed during the war. Is it any great wonder that she is not—after the passing of but a single decade—ready to resume her normal state and pay off a war debt? Another point that must be remembered. The French franc is today worth just a shade under 4 cents (its par value is 19.) Every dollar France pays America today entails the raising, not of 5 francs, but over 25 francs. Therefore, her statesmen stall and play for time, hoping shortly to be able to so manage their affairs as to bring the franc back to par and to pay, not five times what France owes, but the net face value of her debt.

I love to think her like a blessed candle
Burning through life's long night,
Quietly useful, simple, gentle, tender,
And always giving light.

Not ever dazzling, yet a light reflecting
Sweetly in softened faces,
A restful radiance like the lights that are
In holy places.

A soft, pure light I never knew to shine
From any selfish motive;
And yet how far that candle sheds its ray
Serenely votive!

Candles burn clear until the very last,
Then pass completely
In one brief flutter. Oh, dear Lord, recall
This light as sweetly!

Yes, she is very like a little candle,
Burning serenely bright;
Though life grows late, though short the wick, still helpful
And always giving light.

WEALTH

By The Foolish Philosopher

I heard of a man who took a vow of poverty." I don't know why, but I have puzzled over this man's peculiar choice for a long time, and still I fail to understand his decision to remain poor. Aside from keeping of a vow could not have made him physically, morally or spiritually happier or have made him more useful to his fellowmen.

Pondering over this I have decided that this man is a fool, and I hereby announce that I have taken the vow of wealth, that, in spite of opposition, as rich as the richest man. I am determined that no organization or condition shall be allowed to make me poor.

My father and mother died, so why should I act like an orphan or a neglected child? Working and hoping for the future, tomorrow I shall not speculate in which I deal. Wealth and glory and power are mine now, free gifts from the infinite Source of bounty.

I have declared my heritage, pronounced my eternal affirmation. Not only do I possess every good thing I need for myself, but I am permitted to give freely to others. Apparently in need, all the more may be required at my hands. Whosoever asks of me during my time, my money, my thoughts and golden words. No beggar shall be rejected. I shall give out of my knowledge, abundance and shall strive to help each solicitor for my time, he, also, holds the key to the house of imperishable wealth.

Out of my feeling of the richness of life, out of my many rich experiences I shall find my expression of happiness to fit every occurrence, in brief, every moment of existence. I shall consecrate each coming hour to beauty and dedicate all things to joy.

CASTE IDEA APED

In their endeavor to marry into noble and royal European families certain wealthy Americans are trying to establish here the caste lines that Europe has to a great extent broken down, declares an editorial in Liberty.

"The caste idea is changing rapidly in Europe," the editorial maintains. "Royalty sold its name to nobility, for hundreds of years the idea that there was no disgrace in a member of the royal family marrying outside it. But now princes are inclined to be better lovers of wives than their forefathers were and some of them are receiving fresh blood to strengthen their dynasties.

"With this return to common sense in class-ridden countries," the editorial continues, "a peculiar effect of caste has grown in America. The distinctions of Europe, where many families of the United States are trying to establish a class of far less substantial foundation than wealth."

SPORTS BREED MEN

Sports are the best antidote for tendencies toward sullenness and morbid students in college and high schools, declares Jess B. Hawley, ball coach at Dartmouth College, in an article in Liberty. "The boy who has played ball on the nine for every hour of daylight after school, who goes on to high school and colleges with the same enthusiasm for athletics that he hasn't time or inclination to look around, agonizing over petty phenomena. Life is too vital, too competitive, to allow him to dwell on mental morass.

"The ability to fight against overwhelming odds, the will to win regardless, the stamina to give beyond one's physical strength, the heart to refuse to be licked until the final whistle—these requirements breed men."

NAMED IDEAL TYPE BY PHOTOGRAPHERS

Jean Smith

CRAFTSMEN OF CAMERA PICK BEAUTY

Jean Smith, Venice Girl, Chosen from Group of 1000 Via Photographs

Miss Jean Smith of Venice is the most beautiful girl in Southern California, according to the third annual convention of the Pacific International Photographers' Association, which concluded its session at the Ambassador last night. Miss Smith's photograph was picked from more than 1000 submitted by local photographers. The judges were all visitors and none of them met the winner until after she was notified of the award. Miss Smith is a former bathing-beauty contest winner.

William M. Ball of Corvallis, Or., was elected president of the association at the final business meeting held yesterday afternoon. Other officers were: S. Walters, Seattle, first vice-president; J. H. Mott, Los Angeles, second vice-president; Mabel Spencer, Alameda, third vice-president; Chet Coffee, Portland, treasurer; Ida M. Reed, San Francisco, secretary, (re-elected.)

The convention officially closed last night with a banquet at the Ambassador. Delegates who remain in Los Angeles today will be given an automobile ride over the city and surrounding territory, winding up with an old-fashioned Spanish barbecue at Santa Monica.

At the banquet last night, prize awards for the international photographic exhibition held during the convention were awarded. These were given for first place in the different branches of photography, scenic, action, aerial, child photography, and many others. The next annual convention of the association will be held in Victoria, B. C.

BANDIT GIRL AIDS IN TWO ROBBERIES

Oil Station and Store Victimized by Hold-ups; Esther Powers Released

Two hold-ups in widely separated sections of the city within forty-five minutes of each other were last night attributed to a "bandit queen."

At about 10:45 p.m. a girl bandit with the aid of a male companion held up J. J. Bresnahan, proprietor of an oil station at 3026 South Grand avenue. They obtained $20 in cash from the till after both had threatened him with pistols, Bresnahan told the police.

At 11:30 p.m., A. R. Francis, proprietor of the pharmacy at 4181 West Washington Boulevard, reported that he and his daughter, Katherine, had been held up and robbed by a girl bandit and two male companions, who obtained $25 in cash and a ring from the daughter, which Francis told the police was valued at $100. In backing out of the pharmacy the bandits picked up a dozen fountain pens. They escaped in an automobile.

Esther Powers, who was arrested Wednesday and partially identified by two asserted hold-up victims as the "bandit queen," was released from jail yesterday for lack of evidence.

Veterans Put Off Carnival

The date of the carnival and frolic, to be given at the Ambassador Auditorium by the Southern California sector of the Ninety-first Division Association, has been postponed from October 22 to November 5, according to Guernsey Frazer, general chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

Proceeds of the carnival will be turned over to a fund for the care of disabled members of the Ninety-first Division and their dependents. Dick Ferris has been named general manager for the show and is arranging for the appearance of a large number of stage and screen players.

C. W. Bean Sued in Divorce Case

Charging infidelity, Mrs. Eva Bean of 401 South Arden Boulevard filed suit for divorce from Clarence W. Bean in Superior Court yesterday, naming Ruby Sleeth as corespondent.

The couple were married June 30, 1919, and separated yesterday morning, according to the complaint. They have one child, Jack Harlan Bean, 6½ years of age. Mrs. Bean asserts that her husband is a member of several clubs, and that his income is $20,000 a year. Young & Young are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Indictments Cover Charges in Loan Campaign

Government Says $3,000,000 Raised Fraudulently

Instructions to proceed with the trial of E. G. Lewis, Atascadero promoter, and three co-defendants, on a second indictment of violating the mail-fraud laws, was received yesterday from Postmaster-General New by J. Edwin Simpson, first assistant United States Attorney, who obtained the conviction in Federal Court here last week of Lewis and his chief aide, Maj. H. L. Kramer, for mail fraud.

In addition to Lewis and Kramer those named in the second indictment are William Ahrens, who was acquitted on the first trial, and J. Hoblit. The indictment charges misuse of the mails in the "personal loan" campaign put on by Lewis for funds to drill oil wells. The government asserts that Lewis and his associates raised more than $3,000,000 in the promotion scheme.

Lewis, found guilty last week on ten counts of mail fraud violation, was sentenced by Federal Judge Jacobs to six years in a Federal prison and fined $15,000. He is at liberty on an appeal bond. Kramer was sentenced to two years and fined $2500. He also is free on bond awaiting decision of his appeal.

Lewis and Kramer were found guilty of mail fraud in the $600,000 promotion of the "California Illustrated Review."

Women Given Jail Term on Liquor Charge

Carrying out his threat to place flagrant violators of the liquor laws behind the bars, Municipal Judge Sheldon yesterday sentenced Miss Fay Silvertsein, 26 years of age, to serve one year in the County Jail in addition to paying a fine of $1000 on a charge of possessing intoxicants.

The defendant was taken into custody on the 14th inst., at her home, 526 South Union avenue, following a raid by Sergt. Phillips of the vice squad. One gallon and a pint of asserted moonshine liquor was found in the home, the officer said.

During the raid Miss Silverstein ripped off buttons and badges of the officers and vigorously resisted efforts to take her into custody, it was reported. Last week Miss Silverstein entered a not-guilty plea to the charge and demanded a jury trial, but when she appeared in Judge Sheldon's court yesterday she changed her plea and was sentenced.

In sentencing the defendant Judge Sheldon characterized her as one of the most persistent bootleggers to operate here in the last three years.

Chest Director Accused by Wife

Beatings administered by her husband have been a regular weekly feature in the life of Mrs. Edith Jane Thornton for three years, according to her complaint in a suit for a divorce she filed yesterday against Walter Lloyd Thornton, director of the Community Chest of Los Angeles.

And for the last eight years, Mrs. Thornton complains, her husband has made a frequent practice of calling her vile names. She charges a course of cruelty which, she says, culminated when he beat and kicked her May 23, last, and they separated. Besides this he has been entertaining other women in their home, Mrs. Thornton asserts.

Thornton, his wife says, draws an income of $1000 a month for his services to the Community Chest, and gets about $200 a month otherwise, she asserts.

Elevator Falls at County Jail

Premonition saved Robert Pope, elevator operator for the County Jail elevator, from a thrilling experience yesterday, when the lift dropped from the seventh floor and gave twenty-six passengers, some of them jurors in Municipal Court, a shock on landing at the basement.

Pope had taken the day off and the elevator was in charge of Harry Tidrington, who placed the motor in reverse on the second floor and lessened the speed of the fall. Two women were slightly hurt.

PAIR ARRESTED IN BOXER DEATH

Promoter and Fighter Held After Bout at Bell

Coroner's Jury Recommends Further Inquiry

Clash Said to Have Lasted Only Two Minutes

That Harold Williams, 17-year-old amateur boxer, came to his death while engaged in a boxing bout with James Campbell, also known as Jimmie Blake, in a bout at Bell Wednesday night, was the verdict of a Coroner's jury yesterday. The jury recommended additional investigation.

Dept. Dist.-Atty. Thoma, head of the homicide department, after consulting with Deputy Garvey, who attended the inquest, stated that today he will take up the question of issuing a complaint for manslaughter against A. W. De Weese, promoter and referee of the fight, and Campbell.

PAIR ARRESTED

Following the return of the verdict, De Weese and Campbell were arrested and placed in the County Jail on suspicion of manslaughter. The inquest was conducted by Deputy Coroner Montfort and the first witness was Dr. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, who said that death was due to a traumatic injury, causing hemorrhage.

De Weese testified that he arranged the fight between the two youths. He said that he did not charge an admission price, but charged for the parking of cars. The bout, it was shown, lasted only two minutes, Williams being knocked down twice before finally being knocked out. The final blows were one to the stomach and one to the jaw. Then the youth fell with his neck against the rope and died, it was reported.

BOYS RECEIVE $2

It was testified that the youths received only $2 for the fight in the shape of a merchandise order. Others said cash was to be paid.

Various persons testified that the fight appeared to be fair, but that De Weese did not have a permit from the State Boxing Commission, nor did he have a doctor examine the fighters before they entered the ring.

Both youths were reported to have had some experience in boxing.

SUSPECT IN EMBEZZLING CONVICTED

Burkhart Found Guilty of Taking Sum While Acting for Cram Family

Harold Burkhart, former employee of a local bank, yesterday was found guilty in Judge Hardy's court of two counts of embezzlement of approximately $12,000 from Ysabell Del Valle Cram and Nenea Del Valle Cram, members of a prominent pioneer California family.

Burkhart was asserted to have misappropriated the funds while he was acting as agent for the Cram family under a power of attorney. The jury deliberated more than twelve hours in reaching the verdict, which cleared Burkhart of four other counts of embezzlement returned against him by the county grand jury. Three remaining counts were dismissed on motion of the District Attorney.

Burkhart filed an application for probation, which was continued by Judge Hardy to the 30th inst. for hearing.

Actor's Quest for Experience Ends in Thrill

When Ray Garon, screen juvenile of Los Angeles, accepted a role in a crime prevention picture to be filmed in Portland he began devising means whereby he could gain some experience befitting his contemplated part.

According to a letter received from Garon yesterday, he got it, more than he bargained for.

On leaving Los Angeles, Garon said he resorted to the unconventional procedure of "bumming" his way north. Arriving in San Francisco, he stopped at a hotel, which during the night was burglarized. In the morning he was arrested on suspicion.

He gained his release only "after going through the third degree," he said. He chose travel by stage for the balance of his journey, satisfied without additional experience.

JAPAN SEES PACIFIC ERA

Admiral Kanna, on Visit Here, Traces Nippon Policy for Trade and Protection

The Pacific will be the center of the world's affairs during the next twenty years and in this area will be staged the forthcoming struggles for industrial and economic supremacy, thinks Rear-Admiral Kenwa Kanna, Imperial Japanese Navy, retired, who arrived from Honolulu yesterday aboard the liner City of Honolulu for a week's visit in Los Angeles.

Admiral Kanna, one of Nippon's outstanding naval figures, is a veteran of both the Russo-Japanese and World wars and upon his return to Japan next month he will begin his campaign for election to the National Assembly from his home prefecture of Okinawa. He will return to Japan next week, sailing via Hawaii on the City of Honolulu. He is accompanied by his small daughter, Sachiko.

During the World War, Admiral Kanna commanded the Japanese battleship Tsushima, based on Capetown in the Cape of Good Hope patrol squadron, while in 1920 he commanded the dreadnaught Katori, which carried the Crown Prince, now Emperor Hirohito, to England.

PACIFIC TO BE ARENA

Admiral Kanna gave ship news reporters a graphic outline of Japan's Pacific policy:

"Japan realizes, as do the other powers, that the Pacific has become the center of things—industrially, economically and strategically. With the development of trade in the Orient to the Pacific Coast of America, with Australia and South America, our merchant marine is now strongly engaged.

"Strategically, the Pacific also has become supreme since the World War. We feel in Japan that a great naval struggle is highly improbable, but if there is such a struggle we realize it will come in the Pacific.

FAVORS OWN POLICY

"Japan's policy in naval maintenance is to protect her own shores and her foreign trade. Accordingly, our representatives at Geneva were thoroughly in accord with the plan of America for cruiser limitation, as promulgated by Mr. Gibson, but Japan could not meet the almost unlimited cruiser construction program insisted upon by the British delegates.

"Great Britain insists that she must maintain naval supremacy for the protection of her colonies and foreign trade. It should also be remembered that the foreign trade of the United States today equals that of Great Britain and that Japan comes next. The trade routes of America and Japan are just as long and demand the same protection as those of Britain."

Admiral Kanna visited Los Angeles Harbor in 1909 with the Japanese Midshipmen's Training Squadron as navigator of the cruiser Soya. He said the industrial development of the port area is seventeen years surprised him greatly.

MYSTERY THEFT NEAR SOLUTION

Arrest Made in Embezzlement of Two Years Ago

Live Stock Worth $10,500 Taken from Ranch

Ontario Suspect Caught at Dairy at Compton

ONTARIO, Sept. 16.—In the arrest of Pete Verberg, 34-year-old Hollander, in Compton yesterday, by Deputy Sheriff J. A. Larson of Cucamonga, local police and Sheriff Shay of San Bernardino county hope to have John Buys, Verberg's companion, in custody soon to clear up the most daring cattle theft in Southern California history.

Verberg and Buys are charged with having stolen fifty-five head of thoroughbred Holstein cattle from the Chino Valley Land and Cattle Company, July 17, 1925. The cattle were valued at $10,500. It was believed at the time of the embezzlement that the two Hollanders had shipped the cattle to a foreign country for sale.

Through relentless endeavors of Sheriff Shay's office, Verberg was located on a dairy at Compton. Larson made the arrest yesterday. Verberg and Buys leased the thoroughbred cattle from the Chino Valley Land and Cattle Company early in 1925 and pastured the cows seven miles west of Chino. First indication that a bold banditry had been perpetrated was evident to a truck driver who called daily at the place for his supply of milk cans to take to Los Angeles. There were but few cans waiting for him one morning and his questioning caused investigation.

Fifty-five head of the valuable cows and a registered Holstein bull were missing from the pasture. In their place had been substituted a number of scrub cows, placed there obviously to avert suspicion while the Hollanders were making a getaway with the prize cattle.

Two truck loads of cattle were seen leaving the vicinity Friday, July 17, it was learned, and report was made to Sheriff Shay. A few cows from the stolen herd were found at Puente July 20, 1925. A Los Angeles trucker admitted hauling away part of the cattle for Verberg and Buys.

It was believed at the time of the theft that the two men had laid elaborate plans for disposal of the cattle between the place of the theft and the northern States. Ships sailing for Europe were carefully watched for the men and officials of Holland were notified to be on the alert for the two men if they landed there.

Police hope to have Verberg reveal the whereabouts of Buys. Buys was accompanied by his wife, Jennie, also a native of Holland, when he left the Chino district.

Verberg is held in the Upland jail.

Market Owner in Odd Accident

POMONA, Sept. 16. — Crashing his automobile into a truck loaded with twenty-inch cast-iron pipe at the Pacific Colony intersection on the Valley Boulevard, late last night, E. G. Wallace, San Dimas and Pomona grocery and meat-market owner, was struck in the temple by one of the pipes and suffered the severing of a temporal artery.

His life was probably saved by the prompt arrival upon the scene of Earl Cook, local fireman, who applied first aid to the man's wounds. The force of the impact between the automobile and truck drove one of the large pipes through a barrel of paint on the truck.

Police who investigated the accident stated that in all probability had the pipe been of small diameter, Wallace would have been instantly killed. The automobile was a total wreck.

KEYSTONE EXPRESS TO IMPROVE SERVICE

POMONA, Sept. 16.—With the announcement today by the Keystone Express Company of the appointment of Charles M. Eakin of this city as field manager in charge of business promotion for the company, L. R. Kagarise, president of the concern, verified reports that general improvement of the service to the twenty-one towns it now serves, from El Monte on the west to Cucamonga on the east, will be started at once. Mr. Eakin, who is vice-president of the local Lions' Club and formerly prominent in newspaper activities in this city, is widely acquainted throughout the valley, and his appointment to head the new department of the local company is expected to prove mutually beneficial.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 16.—Lon Spencer, Fullerton youth, charged with resisting an officer, was held to answer to the Superior Court today at the completion of his examining trial before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison. He was released on his own recognizance pending the setting of the case in the higher court.

SANTA BARBARA MAN SENTENCED TO LIFE

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 16.—Emmett Hancock, colored, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Superior Court Judge S. E. Crow yesterday after a jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, resulting from the slaying of Edward E. Daly, white, on July 10, last. Hancock, in his own defense, charged that Daly entered a rooming house and beat him into insensibility because he refused the latter admission. Daly's throat was cut in a fight which followed. The jury was out forty-five minutes.

Floral Pieces from Air Rain on Boy's Grave

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 16.—While floral tributes were showered on the grave from humming airplanes above, Eddy O'Neill, 17-year-old parachute jumper, was buried in the Union Cemetery today.

An escort of planes circled the funeral procession as it wended its way to the grave, following a requiem mass at 9:30 o'clock this morning in St. Francis Church.

Airport officials and aviators attended the services for the young parachute jumper, killed last Sunday in a 2500-foot fall from above Kern County Airport. Aviators Phil Markle and Amos Collins circled their planes low over the funeral procession and dropped flowers on the grave.

Pallbearers were Edward West, Jr., J. E. Boynton, Eddie Mathews, Herbert Martin, Carl Lossing and Herman B. Winters. Arrangements were in charge of Flickinger Mortuary.

O'Neill is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. O'Neill, and four brothers and sisters. He lived here about three years and was employed in the circulation department of the Californian.

He had been parachute jumping about two months and had filed his application to compete in the parachute jumps at the national air races to be held in Spokane, Wash., next month.

O'Neill was killed when he jumped from a plane piloted by Bob Martin. The parachute opened perfectly after a short fall, but as the boy's weight snapped against the open parachute the supporting harness broke.

Walnut Crop to Greatly Exceed Harvest of 1926

ORANGE, Sept. 16.—Better than 900 tons of walnuts are to be harvested by the Richland Walnut Association, according to Andrew Smiley, plant manager, who made his estimate as the season opened this week. This will be nearly five times the amount harvested last year, when 200 tons were run through the plant.

The addition of fifteen new members since August has boosted the total acreage included on the plant's books to more than 1000 acres.

Pickers should receive from 80 cents to $1 per sack. The walnuts will weigh from five to ten pounds per sack less than usual because of the thin shells, it has been stated.

"Although the price for the crop will not be set before October 1, we expect to have cars rolling before that time," Smiley said. The dehydrators will be going full blast by the 26th inst., according to Smiley. The general manager is in the East making shipping arrangements at present. He will arrive back about the 29th inst.

FRESNO CRITICISES STATE INSURANCE

FRESNO, Sept. 16. — Dissatisfaction with service rendered and claims paid by the State Compensation Insurance fund, led the Fresno City Commission today to move toward carrying the insurance on employees by the municipality. Discussion and criticism of the State fund was precipitated by the receipt of a refusal from the State fund to pay compensation for injuries sustained by Calvin L. Heaton, a City Hall janitor. Various commissioners expressed the opinion that the insurance is costing the city a large sum annually and that but a small margin of city claims are allowed.

LEAP IN OCEAN LAID TO LAPSE

Open-Door Church Secretary Unable to Give Reason

Breakdown From Overwork Believed to Be Cause

Man Fails to Remember Dive From Venice Pier

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Sept. 16.—John L. Bowman, secretary of the Church of the Open Door, Sixth and Hope streets, Los Angeles, is believed by police here today to have suffered a breakdown from overwork, accounting for his action last night in jumping from the Venice pier into the ocean.

Officer Grey of the Venice division, and physicians at Martin's Hospital in Santa Monica, where Bowman was taken at 8 o'clock last night after a fisherman had rescued him from the sea, consulted Bowman's wife and officials of the Bible Institute and attributed the temporary mental lapse to overstrain in his work.

Bowman, who resides with his wife and two children at 2036 Victoria avenue, rented a bathing suit at the Venice Plunge yesterday evening, according to Venice police. Checking his watch, bank book, wallet and other valuables at the desk, he ran out onto the Venice pier in his bathing suit and jumped off. Crowds at the pier and police at first believed it to be a case of attempted suicide when Bowman refused to grasp a rope thrown to him. A fishing launch operator finally dragged him into a boat, and he partially was revived at the Venice Emergency Hospital. He was in a dazed condition, police reported, and asked where he was. He still was unable to account for his action this morning, and denied any suicidal desire. No family or financial troubles to account for an attempt on his own life were uncovered by the investigating officers.

Bowman this morning recalled having been in the water, but was unable to remember how he got there. His family visited him at the hospital this morning, where it was reported that he is recovering rapidly.

Bad Checks Put Man in Jail and Pay for His Bail

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 16. — "When a man gets in jail because of alleged bad checks and then gives another one to a bond company to get h out, it certainly is the height of something or other," according to Constable Harry Amend of Inglewood Township.

Such is the case with Russell Woodruff, the peace officers says. Anyway, he is back in the City Jail after being surrendered by a bond firm which had furnished his bail. And, the bond company complains, Woodruff gave a worthless check in payment of the bonding fee.

Woodruff was arrested on bad-check complaints several days ago. He will go to trial on October 8, but he is now slated to spend the interim in the County Jail where he is to be taken by Constable Amend.

LONG REST IN PROSPECT

Man in Court at Redlands Faces Charge of Forgery, Embezzlement and Breaking of Parole from Indiana Penitentiary

REDLANDS, Sept. 16.—This was a hectic day for Edward Bullock, a hurried and somewhat worried day, and at the end he is all tired out, but that does not matter much for he will have plenty of time to rest up in. For Pomona and beyond all that is due back in the State penitentiary at he is facing half a dozen forgery charges here, an embezzlement charge in Michigan City, Ind., for breaking his parole.

Edward confessed that he left a trail of bad checks all across the continent, but he was going good until his foot slipped in Redlands. Today he went into the Nicks-Schacker store here and bought a suit of clothes giving the clerk, Paul Jones, a check for $32.50. Mr. Jones at first refused to take it but Bullock flashed a deputy sheriff's badge, and told Jones to call a well-known man here and ask about his standing. Jones let him have the suit, then became suspicious enough to call the bank.

The check was no good, so Jones went out on the street in a run. He saw Bullock dodge into an alley and hurried into a store to call the police. But Bullock had disappeared as if the earth had swallowed him.

Chief of Police Walter Thomas had descriptions in San Bernardino and Riverside immediately, and taking a chance gave the number of his car, a number reported just a short time before from Yucaipa, where a gas station had been given a bad check signed by George St. Clair and the operator had taken the number of the car.

Luckily, the San Bernardino police picked up Bullock in just a short time. He said he embezzled the car in Pomona, renting it and stealing license plates from another car and driving it since. "I am tired of dodging all the time. I'm ready to take my medicine and go back to prison," he told the officers.

He is being held in jail because he would not furnish bail in the sum of $5000.

LAW LOCKS VENTURA HOTEL

County's Best Hostlery to be Closed Next Week for Four-Month Term on Liquor Ruling

VENTURA, Sept. 16.—The Hotel Ventura, the county's $350,000 hostelry, will be padlocked Tuesday morning by Sheriff R. E. Clark for a period of four months.

This was the announcement made this morning by Dist.-Atty. James C. Hollingsworth, who received official notice from the State Supreme Court to the effect that the hotel company's appeal for a rehearing of its petition for a writ of supersedeas has been denied. "Three days of grace will be granted the hotel company," Hollingsworth said, "to allow the guests to remove their effects and to give the hotel management time to get their affairs in shape before the closing.

"They must have the hotel evacuated by midnight Monday. Tuesday morning, between 8 and 9 o'clock, Sheriff Clark will padlock the hotel, and it will remain closed for four months."

The closing of the hotel Tuesday will end a long fight by the hotel company to keep the institution open following the issuance of an order by Superior Judge Edward Henderson some months ago for its abatement. The bootlegging activities of the hotel's former proprietor, Gus A. Berg, are responsible for its abatement.

It is evident, following an interview this morning with a member of the hotel company's firm of attorneys, Sheridan, Orr, Drapeau & Gardner, that no further action to attempt to keep the hotel open will be taken. While it was announced by one of the attorneys some time ago that the matter might go to the Federal courts if the State courts refused to reverse or modify the order, no such action now is intimated by the attorneys.

The appeal of the Ventura Chamber of Commerce by resolution yesterday to Dist.-Atty. Hollingsworth to use his influence in attempting to have the closing order modified was met with a statement by Hollingsworth that matters were entirely out of his hands since the court gave its order.

SCHOOL DAY AT FAIR

Children Crowd Grounds at Ventura and Swarm Over Midway as Elders Watch from Grand Stand

VENTURA, Sept. 16.—This was children's day at the Ventura County Fair, and it took more than a little rain to keep the boys and girls from enjoying their vacation from school. Hundreds of youngsters crowded the gates in a steady stream during the opening hours of the grounds and the midway took on the appearance of the path of the Pied Piper of Hamlin.

It was estimated that 3500 older people saw the rodeo and horse racing from the grand stand.

R. N. Wilson was the chief shouter at the fair today. Mr. Wilson is widely known for his work with the California Development Association.

Ralph Taylor, secretary of the State legislative agriculture legislative committee, was also on the program, speaking in the entertainment pavilion.

Besides being school day, this was known as Kiwanis day, and Kiwanis day at the fair, and these groups met at noon for a barbecue. Today also was given to Santa Paula and Fillmore and the bands of the two cities furnished music during the afternoon and at the horse show in the evening.

Painful injuries to two of the rodeo riders cast a pall over the usual thrills of the afternoon. Fred Knox of Nampo was thrown from his horse and suffered a bad head cut when the broncho kicked him as he lay on the ground.

"Slim" Talbot, overseas veteran from Billings, Mont., was bruised on three occasions, once when his horse threw him, and twice before that when the animal fell on his leg.

Thirty stitches were taken in Knox's scalp following the kick he received from his horse, but he was reported to be doing well.

NEW METHOD IN SUICIDE

Laguna Beach Man Crawls Under Running Automobile Engine and Dies from Fumes

LAGUNA BEACH, Sept. 16.—A manner of suicide probably unique in California annals was used today by Jerome Shaffer, 35 years of age, a professional entertainer.

Rising early, he drove his car to the Laguna Beach grammar school, parked it in the school playground, crawled underneath leaving the engine running, wrapped himself in a blanket and thrust a rubber nose into the exhaust pipe so that the deadly gases would reach him in his wrappings. His body was found at 8 a.m. by the school principal, George K. Bingham.

Shaffer left two notes, one addressed to Judge Raymond Thompson of Pasadena the other to his room-mate, Jack West, also an entertainer. In the latter he explained he had been ill and in financial difficulties and was "all in." He directed that his body be cremated by the Charles Lamb Company of Pasadena, that the ashes be given a public funeral in the Laguna Beach open-air theater, and that they then be scattered over the sea by Joe Skidmore, who long had been his friend. He also gave directions about his insurance and his car and regretted he had no money to leave West.

Shaffer and West appeared at an entertainment at the Masonic Hall in South Pasadena last night and arrived home about 1 a.m. West did not hear Shaffer get up and does not know what time he left the room, but assumed it to be about 5 a.m.

Hudson, grand secretary of the I.O.O.F., will be present at the laying of the corner-stone Sunday afternoon for the new Odd Fellows' Temple, which is being constructed on East Commonwealth avenue, it was announced today by Otis Cooper, recording secretary of Fullerton Lodge, No. 103.

About sixty cars of tomatoes were shipped from the local plant last year and this number is expected to be double that amount if conditions are favorable.

The charges against him is receiving property, which is asserted to have been stolen. According to testimony introduced, Harold Mador, aged 14 years, claims he stole two rings, and sold them to Rubin Chavez. Chavez then sold them to Nuzzo. The two lads, who are in Juvenile Hall, were brought here as witnesses. The rings are said to have been valued at $20.

Mr. Winter has just brought from the press his book of "Fifty Years, Memoirs," the volume carrying a prefatory note by Will Rogers, globe-trotter and humorist. Thirty years ago Banks Winters's "White Wings, That Never Grow Weary," took the nation by storm and he made a huge fortune with it and other compositions that soon followed. At one time in the early career of Mr. Winter he had at one time a dozen popular songs, all of which were bringing him royalties like gold flowing from the end of a cornucopia.

San Diego Has Water Supply for Five Years

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 16.—On the 1st inst. a total of 50,277,582,000 gallons of water was impounded in San Diego's municipal reservoirs, exclusive of Lake Hodges, the decrease for the past month being 864,674,000 gallons.

For a city of San Diego's present population, the supply is said to be sufficient for about five years, without additional rain.

The daily consumption of water for August was 21,124,090 gallons, this being a substantial increase over the same month for 1926. The total amount of water consumed in gallons during August was 630,390,858. Of this a considerable quantity was pumped from the Riverview wells, near Lakeside, and from the Mission Valley wells.

Club's Circus Posters Call Barnum Piker

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 16.—"Barnum? A piker! Ringling? Ring off! Van Amberg? Nowhere! John Robinson? A joke. Hagenbeck? To laugh!"

Thus blazing circus posters in the grove of the Uplifters ranch in Santa Monica Canyon herald the big circus coming next Saturday afternoon, culminating event of the club's annual outing week.

The parade, scheduled to precede the show in the "main tent," will include entries from the cottagers.

Finals in many of the athletic contests were played off today. The cups will be awarded Saturday, and the winner of the shirt contest and the solution of the "Have you seen Mildred" yesterday were announced.

STOCK PARADE FEATURES FAIR

Kern's Greatest Exposition Enters Final Lap

Indications Are for Record Crowd at Finish

Dog Show Banner Attraction for Closing Days

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 16.—Kern county's greatest fair tomorrow enters the last lap of its five-day run, with every indication of a record-breaking finish. With the automobile races as an added attraction, more people are expected to enter the grounds on the final day than on any previous day in the three years' history of the fair.

Main event on the automobile-racing card is a fifty-mile race for the Kern County Fair championship with a purse totaling $1000. There are fifteen entrants including the winners of the main event on yesterday's card, as well as several dark horses who are confident of grabbing the first prize of $500. The championship race will be preceded by two ten-mile consolation races for non-winners of Thursday.

"Hello, Bill" was the password at the fair today. It was Elks' Day and members of the antlered herd were very much in evidence. Wearing purple and white badges, hundreds of the lodgemen, many accompanied by their families, inspected the big exposition. All were loud in their praise of the exhibits and entertainment features, causing one of the fair officials to declare that another meaning of letters B.P.O.E. is "best boosters on earth."

The live-stock parade, led by Senator James I. Wagy, featured the program this afternoon in front of the grandstand. Hundreds of head of blooded stock formed a procession nearly a mile long furnishing the finest spectacle yet seen at the fair. A judging contest, trailer race, football game and other events completed the program, which repeatedly aroused bursts of applause from the large audience.

The attendance yesterday, Bakersfield Day, brought out the biggest crowd of the present fair and exceeded the figure established last year on the same day.

The automobile races were viewed by a full grandstand, with hundreds in the bleachers, and the exhibit buildings were thronged. There was a constant stream of visitors to the live-stock exhibits, which are attracting more attention this year than ever before.

The dog show is on, and will unquestionably be the banner attraction of the fair for the two closing days.

Ventura County Tomatoes Sent East to Market

SANTA PAULA, Sept. 16.—Shipment of the first carload of tomatoes left here this morning for eastern markets. Six hundred lugs of the Livingstone No. 1 globe variety which left here, judged by government inspectors to be the finest quality, were believed to be the first to leave Ventura county this year.

Considerable acreage has been put into tomatoes and the price, which has been poor, is steadily bettering this eastern market, so by the time this county's crop is completely harvested and ready for shipment the price should be right, it is believed.

Sweltering heat in the Middle West caused lemons to rise as high as $34 a box yesterday, setting the highest price ever paid in the history of the industry. Santa Paula, home of eight important lemon companies, was in considerable uproar late yesterday afternoon when it was learned that the Santa Paula Citrus Association had sent out checks totaling $331,000 as net returns to its grower members for the month of August. With about ninety members it means that per capita per member return is about $4000. This also adds another chapter to the lemon industry in this section.

Multer, Mayor of Arcadia, and one of the directors of the club, plans to invite Gov. Young to address the opening meeting.

FULLERTON TO HAVE SWIMMING POOL

FULLERTON, Sept. 16.—Dr. H. H. Young, extensive property owner in this city, will build a $25,000 swimming pool for the convenience of the occupants of the $25,000 apartment-house planned for the corner of Wilshire and Malden avenues, it was announced today. The installation of a swimming pool for the use of renters in an apartment dwelling is unusual in this part of the country, Dr. Young said. The pool will be ready for use by October 15, Dr. Young said this morning. A system to purify the water is to be installed under the supervision of C. W. Sirch, Los Angeles swimming-pool expert.

PASADENA, Sept. 16.—An inquest in the death of Robert Hosford, 6-year-old son of Robert N. The boy was struck by a truck at California street and El Molino avenue yesterday as he returned from school.

Grain Growers and Dealers of Valley Meet

CORCORAN, Sept. 16.—A convention of the grain growers, millers and warehousemen of the San Joaquin Valley was held today at the Harvester Theater with R. M. Filcher presiding and an attendance of 100.

Different features of the grain industry were discussed including varieties best suited to the requirements of millers by representatives of several large flour mills. Incidents of the growth, marketing, grading and the bulk handling of grain were considered.

Among those who addressed the gathering were L. M. Jeffers of State Department of Agriculture; B. A. Madson and W. W. Mackie of the division of agronomy of the University of California and Farm Adviser Wallace Sullivan of Kings county, who reported on the results of experiments in variety growth in the Tulare Lake basin and designed to determine the best producing and rust resistant variety.

Luncheon at the Corcoran Hotel was followed by an open forum discussion of grain-growing problems.

At the afternoon session Alex Johnson, secretary of the California Farm Bureau Federation, discussed the United States wheat marketing news service and Frank Blakeley of Stratford and Forest Riley of Corcoran talked on bulk handling of grain.

Most of the delegates remained to attend the seventh annual harvest festival being held in Corcoran.

Van Nuys Organ Factory is Now World's Biggest

VAN NUYS, Sept. 16.—According to a new financial statement made here by the Robert Morton Organ Company, leading industry in Van Nuys, the plant shows an increase of 20 per cent over the business of the preceding year, and is now acknowledged as the leading organ factory of the world.

R. P. Matthews, vice-president and general manager, states that during the past year fourteen specially constructed organs costing from $35,000 to $40,000 were sold and installed in theaters of the Marcus Loew group alone. Organs of the finest make for several years have been shipped to all parts of the United States and abroad. Most of the motion-picture theaters of the country use pipe organs made in Van Nuys.

The plant here employs about 250 persons, all of whom are experts in various departments. Within the last few months one of these experts has developed an organ stop that will produce the tones of the violoncello, something heretofore not known in organs.

Middleton and Laury Clark and Chester Boyd, his companions had escaped from the State School at Ione a short time before the slaying here. Clark and Boyd were sent to prison for ten years each for grand larceny. Middleton was captured at Riverbank. He was sentenced to San Quentin in March, 1923.

NATION-WIDE POLICE HUNT ENDED HERE

Man Accused of Forging Mrs. Harriman's Name to Checks Arrested

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 16.—Paul C. Gordon, 29 years of age, former chauffeur for Mrs. T. Russell Harriman, 537 South Euclid avenue, was arrested in Los Angeles by Pasadena detectives today following a country-wide search for the man, who is charged with having obtained about $15,000 by forging Mrs. Harriman's name on spurious checks.

Detective Lieutenants O'Rourke and Burlingame arrested Gordon on the street as he was about to keep an appointment. The local police department and the Burns agency detectives had traced him from Pasadena to New Orleans, Richmond, Va.; Washington, D. C.; Baltimore and back to Los Angeles through New Orleans.

Gordon, who is an ex-service man, and a graduate of Penn State College, made Mrs. Harriman's acquaintance when he was employed in a South Pasadena sanatorium as a nurse for her husband. Later he was employed as Mrs. Harriman's chauffeur.

Mrs. Harriman is said to have authorized Gordon to sell some bonds for her and deposit the money to her credit in a bank here and one at Oceanside. Gordon is charged with having cashed checks for almost the entire amount of the bonds after having deposited the money as instructed.

Captain of Detective Betts said today that Gordon denies the charge, but has been unable to give any adequate reason for his sudden departure from Pasadena. His wife, who was in Fresno when he disappeared, joined him at the police station here today.

Gordon probably will be arraigned tomorrow.

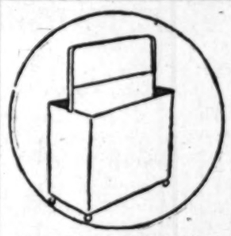
Hervey, commanding, is urging all employers to permit members of the regiment to have a half-holiday next Tuesday that they may assist in handling the immense crowds expected on the field and at the Coliseum.

NANCY PAGE

Outside of Magazine Carrier Shows What is Inside

By Florence La Ganke



It was just a printed metal container or carrier for magazines. It was an oblong metal basket on metal legs with a compartment down the center and with a metal handle. It looked ordinary and commonplace. But Nancy, with that clever house decorating eye of hers saw possibilities in it. She decided to cover the outside with magazine covers which would fit into the room's color scheme.

She tried covers of the larger magazines, measuring 11 inches by 14. But she had to cut off so much of them to make them fit that they looked "bobby."

She found that covers of the size of Century, Harpers, Atlantic Monthly, Scribners, Mercury, Forum fitted with little trimming off. She pasted them on the metal, using paper hanger's paste. They overlapped one another and extended around the ends of the case.

Passepartout tape was placed at bottom, top and middle. The whole thing was given two coats of shellac or clear lacquer.

When she finished the container was effective and original.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

Every so often we like to print some letters that are not problems to solve but problems that have been solved. There is nothing so inspiring as success, so here are the experiences of two mothers as help to some other new mothers struggling along these rame paths.

Mrs. F. T. writes:

"I came home from the hospital at three weeks, nursing my baby successfully. I found the house at sixes and sevens and one day, after my nerves had been frayed, I found that my milk had left me. The baby screamed the whole day and night for I had no milk at all.

The doctor said: 'It's useless to try and nurse her, give it up.' The nurse said: 'I'll help you get it back.' I wanted above everything else to nurse my baby, as the first one had died. I wanted so hard that nothing was too much trouble to take.

The nurse massaged the breasts with warm olive oil regularly. The baby was put to the breasts every three hours and then his hunger assuaged with a formula. This continued and gradually the supply returned. Through eight months of nursing I ate cornmeal gruel and milk twice daily in addition to regular meals, and drank a warm malted milk at night in order to have an early morning feeding for the baby. I stayed home and gave up society and I have a beautiful, healthy child as a result."

ANOTHER LIKE EXPERIENCE

Mrs. T. H. was so ill that the baby was taken from the breast at the hospital. Six weeks later she came home with a nurse who refused to take care of the baby unless the mother tried to nurse the baby. The mother's friends advised against it and urged her not to be tied down by nursing. But she did not listen to them. Somewhat the same efforts were made to bring back the milk as with the first mother and the results were the same. She nursed her baby for nine months!

Aren't these experiences from real mothers an inspiration to those mothers who are tottering on the brink of weaning?

Council Hears Guards' Plea in Aqueduct Row

The City Council yesterday received a complaint of five former guards on the Aqueduct that they have been discharged by the water department without cause and asked for an investigation. Their complaint was presented by Councilman Ingram, as the five former guards are ex-service men. The men said they worked efficiently but were dismissed August 26.

At the water department yesterday it was said ex-service men had been given preference in the employment of guards and that the department's policy is that no foreign labor be employed.

The men making the complaint are Thomas O'Connell, Stephen J. Keenan, Frank C. Murphy, William Keeler and H. Crosley.

The Council will make an investigation through its Water and Power Committee.

"Times" Daily Short Story

CHERRY BLOSSOMS

TAKATA KAWAI went singing through the streets of Osaka, that bright, chattering, busy city of central Japan, as he peddled charcoal from house to house. Down the crowded, busy, gaudy streets flinging their bright pennons and banners to the breeze he went, day after day, singing his songs, and earning a meager pittance. For Takata had a dream in his heart.

He had seen a face one day behind the shoji of a tiny house, a pointed delicate face with great brown eyes that smiled and gave back reflections like the water in the limpid pool near the great shrine of Buddha when the sun shone on it.

Takata dreamed great dreams. Some day he would go to America; he would study; he would come back to Japan and help the poor people. But before he went, he resolved, he would speak to the eyes that smiled at him, day after day, from behind the shoji.

The coins in the little bag which Takata carried grew heavy. Each night he put the day's accumulation in a great box which he secreted in his house. When the moon was at its full he prayed to his gods that the day would come soon when he should have enough.

And, as days glide by one into the other, so Takata's days went, and his savings grew. Joyfully, he realized that he at last had enough money to take him to America.

He tied his treasure in a small silk handkerchief, for the coins had been converted into notes. And with the promise of his future lying next to his heart, he sought the little one of the smiling face.

The cherry blossoms were scattering their pink petals like snow-drift over the countryside. The fragrant blossoms drifted down about him as he stood under the great willow tree in the garden.

The fat, smiling Buddha carved in the rocks seemed alive to Takata who bowed before the benign old figure.

"I go, little one," he said. "Will you wait?"

She nodded; she could not speak. From an overhanging bough she picked a spray of blossoms and held them against her heart for a moment. Then she gave the spray to Takata.

"It may be many years, O Tamayo," he sighed; "but so long as Fujiyama endures, so long shall my love for you last, little one."

The boy left and the spring breeze carried a gentle echoing sayonara to his ears. He turned once and the eyes of Tamayo smiled good-by, too.

All the way across the Pacific, across the great continent of America as the great train sped to the Atlantic, and into the booming, crashing noise of New York, Takata carried the memory of the delicate face and the smiling eyes. The cherry blossom spray he kept in a little box. It was his talisman. It was his pledge of love, his safeguard against loneliness and the dangers and weariness of spirit that come to shy ones in a foreign country.

There were days and weeks and months when nothing but memories kept Takata going, memories and an indomitable will, a resolution which has made Japan the greatest small nation in the world.

The boy's courteous manner, gentle speech and intelligence soon won him a place in America. He learned the new customs and manners.

He obtained after a time, a place in the home of an American millionaire. The elderly man had had a son who had gone to Japan in the flush of his youth. He had idealized the country; he had loved its people. He had given his life to their service, for he had joined a small group of medical men who were living in the heart of the country, close to the people, bringing them the medical science of the West.

Takata served an apprenticeship in the house and was promoted, after a time, to the post of butler. He went nowhere; after his duties he read and studied. The days were all too short for the achievement he so eagerly sought.

George Oldroyd, his employer, coming unexpectedly into the kitchen one night for a glass of water, found his butler studying a Cornell prospectus with eyes that gleamed at the rich field of knowledge outlined for him in the summary of courses.

He had seen a delicate, painted face one day.

"Why, my boy," exclaimed old George delightedly, "that's my alma mater!"

The young Japanese rose and smiled shyly as he bowed.

"I like very much go college study. I want to be doctor Mr. Oldroyd," he said. "I have save t little money; maybe you will let me go summer time and I can come back here and work for you in autumn."

"Better than that," said the old man; "you can get ready to go right now. I shall take care of all your expenses."

The boy protested. But old George, remembering his son who was living his life among the people of this slight, frail, ambitious youth, would not take no for an answer.

They talked a bit. That is George talked. Takata, in his quiet oriental fashion, listened, marveling at the great generous heart revealed to him.

Takata went to Cornell. The next mail to Japan carried the glad news to the little Japanese girl with the smiling eyes in Osaka. She sat in the liquid sunshine pouring in through the shoji and cleared the paper to her heart. Her heart rejoiced and she laid flower tributes on the altars of her gods.

Old George went down to Cornell to see Takata graduate. It was a very old George who trod the campus, for ten years had passed since the memorable night when he had sent Takata to the university.

The young man, dignified in his cap and gown, pressed the hand of his benefactor.

"You have been most kind, Mr. Oldroyd," he said. "Before I go back to Japan I must spend one year with you. I want to serve you and repay you."

The young Japanese with his new M. D. degree and the old barrister returned to New York. That night Takata shyly told him his joyful news.

"My little sweetheart in Japan," he said, smiling a little at his own ease of the American word, "sent this to you. Her heart is full of gratitude to you."

And he gave George a delicate piece of silk covered with exquisite embroidery.

"It's beautiful, Takata," said old George. "But why didn't you tell me before you had a sweetheart in Japan?"

Takata told him then of the girl behind the shoji, the girl of the smiling eyes who was waiting now fourteen years for him. He showed him the cherry blossom talisman, faded but sweet, in its little box. Old George's eyes grew dim. He thought of his boy's mother who was lying on a green hill under a cherry blossom tree. She had wanted to lie under cherry blossoms because her boy had dedicated his life to the land they beautified.

That night George Oldroyd wrote to friends in Japan. He entered into arrangements with them which he did not divulge to Takata.

And suddenly, one day a scant six weeks later, Takata, in his butler's attire, opened the door of the Oldroyd home. There stood his dream incarnate. His ample-eyed girl he remembered from distant Japan, the same light in her eyes, the same sweet youthfulness in her face, the same delicate little figure wrapped in a kimono whose blue was the color of the skies over Miyanoshita.

"Tamayo!" exclaimed the startled youth.

Behind him he heard a chuckle. Old George stood there smiling.

"And now come in and let me tell you what else there is," he said. "I am your destiny, children," he beamed, while Takata, forgetting himself in a flood of Japanese, tried to make up for fourteen years away from Tamayo.

Old George had perfected his plans well.

There was a simple wedding the next day. Tamayo, in a blue kimono with a border of chrysanthemums, made two concessions to the customs of the land which had been so generous to her. She wore a white tulle veil—the veil which Old George's Mary had worn as a bride—and carried a bouquet of cherry blossoms.

The bride and groom did not go to Japan. For Takata, going to old George after the wedding, bowed low before him.

"Master and father," he said, "you have given me my country; you have brought Japan to me. Let me live in your country and give my life and my services to you and your people as your son has to mine."

Colby Ha Entablado Juicio de Divorcio en Francia

PARIS, Septiembre 16.—Bainbridge Colby, ministro que fue de Estado en la capital norteamericana, tiene incoada desde hace algún tiempo una acción de divorcio ante el tribunal de Versalles. Supose hoy esta noticia de fuentes jurídicas fidedignas.

Hace poco se hizo la acostumbrada tentativa de conciliación, haciendo que las dos partes comparecieran ante el tribunal para tratar de arreglar sus diferencias.

Dícese que se han enviado algunos oficios a América, para que sean entregados personalmente a la señora Colby. Hoy corrió el rumor, que no ha podido ser substanciado, de que el ex-Presidente Millerand va a representar a la señora Colby en el juicio.

Celebración del 16 de Septiembre en Méjico

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Septiembre 16.—Tras una noche de hilaridad y alegría, los habitantes de esta capital, vueltos a la gravedad, han tomado parte en las ceremonias más formales de la celebración del centésimo decimoséptimo aniversario del comienzo de la lucha por la emancipación de Méjico. Se tributó un homenaje, ante sus mausoleos, a los libertadores del país, y hubo el imponente desfile militar de costumbre.

El Presidente Calles, acompañado de altos funcionarios civiles y militares, asistió a impresionantes ceremonias patrióticas, a las 9 a.m., ante el Monumento de la Independencia. En tanto que el cuerpo diplomático, de toda gala, presenciaba el acto, el Presidente dio fin a él depositando una guirnalda en la tumba. Luego se dirigió a Palacio con el ministro de la Guerra Amaro y con otras personalidades, y desde el balcón central pasó en revista las fuerzas militares, que ostentaron su buen equipo y su perfecta disciplina. La columna que desfiló iba al mando del general Obregón, presidente que fue de la República.

El desfile dio una idea de las fuerzas del país en pie de guerra. Formaron asimismo las escuelas militar y naval, y las unidades aéreas hicieron evoluciones sobre la columna durante el tiempo del desfile de ésta. Para conservar el orden en la ciudad se dictaron medidas policíacas extraordinarias, y se mandaron cerrar todas las tabernas desde el medio día de ayer, hasta mañana.

Doce Ahogados Cerca de Tampico

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Septiembre 16.—Se ahogaron doce marineros, de una tripulación de veinte, que llevaba el remolcador de alto bordo, "Pinguino", que se fue a pique esta mañana fuera del Puerto de Tampico, según informes recibidos aquí. Iba el remolcador halando dos barcazas petroleras vacías cuando ocurrió el accidente, del que se ignoran mayores detalles.

Perecen 900 en el Naufragio de un Vapor Japonés

VLADIVOSTOCK, Septiembre 16.—Noticias recibidas aquí dan cuenta de que perecieron 900 trabajadores japoneses que iban a bordo del Wusung, gran vapor japonés de la Compañía de Vapores de Kawasaki. El barco se fue a pique.

Dice la información que el vapor navegaba de Kamchatka (Siberia) hacia el Japón, y que se hundió al pasar a lo largo de las islas Kuriles. (No figura en el registro de Lloyd ningún vapor Wusung; pero sí está en lista un barco llamado "Woosung Maru", de la propiedad de la Compañía de Vapores de Kawasaki).

OCCIDENTAL WELCOMES NEW CLASS

Acting Head Points Out Responsibilities of Men in College Life

"No man has the right to enjoy privilege who is not capable of bearing responsibility, and college offers the opportunity to bear responsibility. You have escaped from the leading strings of youth and are now faced here with the new burdens and responsibilities of manhood and womanhood. May you meet them face forward," declared Dr. Robert G. Cleland, acting president of Occidental College, in addressing the newly entering freshman class in its first assembly yesterday, with the entire faculty in attendance.

Dean Thomas G. Burt extended a warm welcome to the newcomers on behalf of the faculty.

Many of the freshman class met their advisers, who are under the chairmanship of Dr. Arthur G. Coons, and together with upperclassmen lunched in the college commons.

In the afternoon the women of the class were received at tea by Dr. Irene T. Myers, dean of women, assisted by Mrs. Julia A. Pipal, social adviser.

NEW TRIO GIVES RECITAL AT KHJ

Olga Mintana, Violinist, Heads Radio Newcomers

Ferguson Sings More Airs of Native Scotland

Harp Solos Contribution of Visiting Student

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Last night's musical broadcast over radio KHJ brought a splendid array of talent. A new instrumental trio made its bow to the radio audience in the form of the Olga Mintana Trio, including Olga Mintana, violinist; Margaret Smith, 'cellist, and Verna Arvey, pianist.

The members of the group have appeared at KHJ before as soloists but it was their first program as a trio. Their group of Zamecnik numbers was particularly worthy of mention, that is, the novelette, tone poem and valse as well as Miss Mintana's solo number, the second movement of the Wieniawski Concerto in D Minor.

Thomas Ferguson, Scottish baritone, once more returned to the ether realm by popular request with Scotch songs and ballad numbers. Of course, Mr. Ferguson's bits of Scotch broadcast comes to him naturally. He features especially the ballads of his native country and has a rather keen appreciation of the gay lilting melodies made famous by his countryman, Sir Harry Lauder. A native son of Inverness, Mr. Ferguson has been known in the Pacific Northwest for the sincerity and beauty of his vocal interpretations and, since coming to Southern California, he has won for himself a large following in radioland.

FUREDE IN RECITAL

Samuel Furede, 'cello virtuoso, who ordinarily plays from The Times studio on Wednesday nights, gave his radio recital last evening instead.

His repertoire of Van Goens, Faure, Golterman and Giordani numbers were offered with the professional style and finish that always stamp Mr. Furede as a musician of the highest order and one whose radio activities are always given with a sincerity of aim and purpose.

Harp solos by Ann Ursula Matthews, visiting student of music from Indianapolis, were well received on the studio hour, including various types of melodies. The speaking parts of the program included Prof. J. Eugene Harley of the University of Southern California, giving the weekly Council on International Relations talk and James MacDermott Sheridan, Vice-Consul of Brazil offering a short talk on Shakespeare's "The Tempest" and its relation to present-day radio nomenclature.

CHILDREN'S HOUR

The juvenile talent on the 6:30 p.m. broadcast consisted of Verna Weil, 16-year-old, accordionist, who has just returned from a vaudeville tour in the north, giving medley groups; Henrietta Poland, "Forget-me-not" of the children's radio hour, in readings; popular song hits by little Roberta Bush, "KHJ Firefly;" Mercedes Marlowe, "Boy-Girl," presenting songs and "grampop" jokes; Charles Bowerman, youthful reader, with a guest number or two, and the "Police Comrade," Billy Lord.

Between the early program and the reading of news items at 8 o'clock, Vivian Marple contributed readings to the program including a poem "Spring Gardening." By Harry James Beardsley, popular KHJ baritone and favorite children's entertainer.

How little this may cost is at once apparent upon noting the used car bargains in Times Want Ads.
